STAY IN YOUR OWN PRIMARY, IS G. O. P. PLEA

Asks Protest Votes Against Roosevelt.

BY PARKE BROWN.

All Republicans were emphatically warned yesterday to say "no" to the Democratic appeal that Republicans become Democrats for the next two years.

The warning was broadcast by Illinois national, state, and county leaders of the Republican party. The emphasis was put on the need for a big Republican vote of protest against Roosevelt policies; and the refusal to let Republican votes register an approval of Rooseveltism.

Every G. O. P .Vote a Protest.

"Every Republican primary vote is a protest against fallacious theories and legislation directly responsible for the Roosevelt recession!" rang the call.

"Every Democratic primary vote is a stamp of approval upon confiscatory taxation, unemployment, waste, extravagance, and centralization of power."

The appeal was hurried because of persistent efforts of the Horner-Courtney group to persuade Republicans to help them in their fight against the Nash-Kelly organization, and it was issued as soon as it was signed by every party official who could be found on short notice. The text, with the names and the titles of the signers are published elsewhere in this edition.

Continue War Over Switching.

This unprecedented action by the heads of the G. O. P. temporarily swung public attention away from the dispute over the question whether the 1936 voter may change parties this year. That battle, nevertheless, was as heated as ever with important developments during the day.

Among those developments were:

The discovery of an opinion handed down by Judge John P. Barnes of the United States District court on March 28, 1934, holding unqualifiedly that the prohibition in the primary law against a change of party within two years refers to calendar years—a decision that would bar party switching on Tuesday, which is April 12. The primary of 1936 was held on April 14.

Attorney Werner W. Schroeder, who drafted the present primary law and saw it through the entire process of enactment, said the purpose of the law was to prevent voters changing parties in successive primaries such as those of 1936 and 1938.

Told to Ignore Flynn Order.

County Judge Jarecki sent letters to precinct judges and clerks of 527 precincts in the suburbs in Cook county directing them to ignore the official instructions of County Clerk Flynn which forbade changing parties on Tuesday.

County Clerk Flynn's appointees prepared to carry out their original instructions and Flynn issued a statement citing as his legal bulwarks the decision of Federal Judge Barnes and the public notice issued by Judge Jarecki and his election board under identical circumstances in 1934.

Nash Calls for Challenges.

P. A. Nash, chairman of the Democratic county committee, issued instructions to every precinct watcher on Tuesday to challenge the vote of every man or woman who asks for a Democratic ballot "who is known not to be a Democrat." This, he said, will compel all such voters to vote by affidavit. The signing of a false affidavit constitutes perjury.

The formal, state-wide appeal to Republican voters covered several phases of the party switching question not previously touched upon in public discussions of the subject. It emphasized that Illinois is the first of all the states this year to hold its primary and that Democratic and Republican prospects throughout the country will be gauged by the comparative total vote cast in the Republican and Democratic columns here.

Efforts of Switch Told.

The penalty to be paid in the future by a Republican casting a Democratic vote on Tuesday was also pointed out. The statement recited tersely that such a vote not only will bar that Republican from any voice in next year's Republican mayoralty primary, a result that might be of great importance if a large number of independent Republicans left their party under the control of the highly organized wards, but that it also will bar him from the next state and county primary after this year—the

Storm Subsides; 35 Dead in Nation

Fight to Clear Trafic Lanes of Drifts.

Chicago's second severe snowstorm in three days came to an end early last evening and the forecast indicated that more springlike weather, with sunshine and rising temperatures, would prevail today and tomorrow.

High winds and snow that swept Chicago were part of a disturbance, covering many states, that cost thirty-five lives. The storm area, moving eastward on a front that extended from the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico, was centered last night over eastern Kentucky. In the northwest and the middle west the disturbance had piled wintry drifts over plains and hills; in the southwest it had hurled blizzards upon sections in which April normally is like early summer; in the south its floods and tornadoes caused deaths and enormous property damage.

Eight Die in Texas.

Eight persons were found dead in a house at Pampa, Tex. They apparently had sealed themselves into an oil field dwelling to escape the bitter winds of a norther. Snow was piled in five foot drifts against the house, and it was believed the victims died from stove gas or lack of oxygen.

Thirteen, asleep in one building at Whitestone, Ga., were killed when a mountain torrent rose quickly after a cloudburst and swept them and their quarters away. At Aliceville, Ala., thirteen persons were killed and forty injured by tornadic winds. One man was drowned in a flood at Birmingham, Ala.

Chicago's relief, according to Forecaster J. R. Lloyd, should be swift.

"With a temperature of about 40 in the afternoon, and with sunshine," he said, "the snow should melt rapidly. And by the law of averages there should not be any more snow this month. Sunday should see the mercury climb higher."

Snow Depth Reaches 9 Inches.

The precipitation yesterday was .68 of an inch. Tuesday night and Wednesday there was 1.14 inches. Normally this much snow would have made a blanket 18 inches deep. The flakes were wet and clinging, however, and melted intermittently over the three day period, so that the greatest depth was less than nine inches.

Even this caused serious trafic tangles. As high easterly winds drove the snow into Chicago yesterday the city, the surface lines and the bus company kept plows going. Service was somewhat delayed, but was regular. The elevated lines reported much more than average business handled on schedule.

High waves were whipped up on Lake Michigan by the wind. The city water supply was turbid and extra quantities of chlorine were added to it by the health department.

Trains Run Late.

Many trains arriving from the west were late, some more than twelve hours. The Rock Island and Santa Fe systems reported delays due to interrupted telegraphic communications.

In central Illinois fears were held that the melting of the snow might bring disastrous floods. At Quincy the Mississippi river was just at flood stage yesterday. The Illinois river at Peoria was also nearing the danger stage. At Ellisville, near Canton, the Spoon river was out of its banks.

Severe damage was done telephone and telegraph systems at Bloomington, where there was a glaze storm, and at Springfield, Beardstown, Jacksonville, and Gardner. At Tuscola an ice storm was followed by flood. Heavy losses of early strawberry and peach crops were reported from southern Illinois.

School Children Isolated.

Those killed in the house at Pampa, Tex., were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Turner and their two children, and Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Martin and their two children. The storm in the vicinity was one of the most severe in

JAMES IS VERY MUCH ALIVE DESPITE NEWS HE HAS FOR HIS WIFE

Columbia, S. C., April 8.—[Special.]—James H. Herring, a world war veteran, who returned home recently after recovering from illness in a veterans' hospital, picked up an official looking letter today, and, noting that it was addressed to his wife, handed it to her to open. It was from the veterans administration in Washington and it informed Mrs. Herring that her husband had died in a Pittsburgh hospital. "I had no trouble in convincing her I was still alive," said Herring. "I never was in the Pittsburgh hospital, so I could not have died there. I came home recently from the Columbia Veterans' hospital."

INCUBATOR BABY GOES HOME IN POLICE WAGON

With two husky policemen to sing him lullabies, Incubator Baby Grant, 16 days old, went home from Michael Reese hospital yesterday—in a police wagon.

His mother, Mrs. Frances Grant, wanted him home because she thought it was about christening time. He was doing so well they loaded him into a portable incubator and started him off for 4835 Winthrop avenue in charge of Dr. Edward Eisenstein and Nurse Bessie Rauch. The car's windshield wiper stuck and the windshield froze over. The windshield was raised so the driver could see. That lowered the temperature of the incubator alarmingly.

Dr. Eisenstein took the incubator into the park administration building at 14th street and the outer drive, plugged it into the electric current, and warmed the youngster up. Then he telephoned police. Policemen Charles Nielsen and William Hansen came over in their wagon, but insisted that Baby Grant have a fire department ambulance to ride home in. Dr. Eisenstein said there wasn't time, and the paddy wagon would be fine.

Becomes Robert Taylor Just to Please His Bride

Omaha, Neb., April 8.—[Special.]—Robert Krejci, a bank bookkeeper, has been granted permission to change his name to Robert Taylor. He is to be married tomorrow and his bride wants to be known as Mrs. Robert Taylor. He felt he had a right to make the change because Krejci means tailor in Bohemian.

Robber Raids Chicago Club; Gets $3,800

Into the dim hush of the Chicago club, 404 South Michigan avenue, a masked gunman made his way last evening and emerged with $3,800—if he did emerge.

Certain of the membership and management of the sixty-nine year old club insisted it would have been impossible for him to leave without first establishing his identity. For many hours, therefore, the boots of police searching squads clumped through the sedate halls where even the rustle of a newspaper is likely to bring reproving frowns and tart notes to the house committee.

Robber Wears Black Mask.

Even after the robbery was an established fact the management declared it incredible that such an individual as the robber could have entered the club. But enter he did, at ten minutes of five, a black mask over his face and a pistol in his hand.

In a sixth floor office he confronted Miss Alice Riordan, the auditor. Speaking with a heavy, foreign accent, he ordered her to bring out the money box. She opened the safe, drew forth a drawer and laid it on a desk. As the gunman crammed $1, $5, and $20 bills into his pockets he ordered her to lie on the floor.

"Lie where you are five minutes and make no sound," said the robber, as he slipped through the door.

Miss Riordan heard his footsteps die away. She lay still about two minutes. Then she rose, seized the phone and flashed the alarm to the central switchboard. She also raised a window and shouted to passersby in Van Buren street. In less than a minute the guard at both front and rear doors had been augmented.

Police Search Every Room.

When police arrived they were admitted without parley and were assured that the gunman undoubtedly was still in the club building. They began a methodical search that took them through bed chambers, club rooms, lounges, dining rooms, kitchens, employes' quarters, back halls and front, and finally to boiler and engine rooms in the basement.

Not a sign of the intruder was to be found. Only one possible exit, aside from the two guarded portals on the ground floor, was discovered. It was an unlocked third floor door leading to a fire escape. But police were doubtful that the robber would have taken this route which would have exposed him to view and hastened the alarm.

No Stranger Seen in Club.

The ten story structure was searched again without results. A police guard remained for a time. Employes who were on duty—the club has 117 in all—were questioned, but none had seen a stranger in the building.

The robbery was the second most startling incident that has occurred at the club since it was founded in 1869, one member remarked. The first occurred on the morning of Oct. 10, 1871, when servants notified a group of breakfasting gentlemen, with such dignity as they could muster, that the great Chicago fire had entered the building and would not leave. The gentlemen fled to the lake front.

PROSPECTIVE PAPAS' COLLEGE GRADUATES 48 IN DIAPER WORK

New York, April 8.—Forty-eight men were graduated from New York's new "College for Prospective Papas," schooled in a new system of pinning diapers.

The trick is to fold the cloth in a short rectangle instead of a triangle and fit it on the baby like a pair of pants, explained "Prof." Hazel Corbin, director of the "paternity" course, to make it more comfortable for the baby.

As for floor walking, the grads learned it's best not to.

The "college" was started a month ago by the Maternity Center association, a private organization for maternity instruction—and now paternal prepping.

U. S. WAR FLEET IS BATTERED BY GALE IN PACIFIC

HONOLULU, April 8.—(AP)—After weathering a full gale, which smashed motorboats, carried away lifeboats, and twisted steel deck fittings, 140 warships of the United States fleet entered Pearl Harbor today, ending the first seven phases of their annual maneuvers.

Admiral Claude C. Bloch, commander in chief, said 57 knot winds kept the quarterdeck of the battleship Pennsylvania awash with seas for three days in an area several hundred miles northwest of Honolulu. The storm preceded a simulated attack on Oahu Island.

14 ILLINOISANS VOTE AS BIDDEN BY WHITE HOUSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 8.—[Special.]—Nine members of the Illinois delegation of twenty-seven congressmen voted to kill the government reorganization bill. Three of the nine were Democrats and six were Republicans.

The Democrats who voted to recommit the measure and thus kill it, were James A. Meeks, of the 18th district; Claude V. Parsons, 24th, and Chester Thompson, 14th.

The six Republicans were Ralph E. Church, of the 10th district; Chauncey W. Reed, 11th; Noah M. Mason, 12th; Leo E. Allen, 13th; Everett M. Dirksen, 16th, and Leslie C. Arends, 17th.

Lucas Campaigns for Senate.

Two Democrats, Scott W. Lucas, of the 20th district, who is campaigning for the United States senate, and Frank W. Fries, 21st, did not vote. Two other Democrats, Arthur W. Mitchell, of the 1st district, and E. V. Champion, congressman-at-large, were paired. Champion was paired against the bill and Mitchell for it.

Fourteen Illinois Democrats voted against the motion to recommit the bill, in other words, to save the measure from defeat. They and their districts are:

Raymond S. McKeough, 2d; Edward A. Kelly, 3d; Harry P. Beam, 4th; Adolph J. Sabath, 5th; Thomas J. O'Brien, 6th; Leonard W. Schuetz, 7th; Leo Kocialkowski, 8th; James McAndrews, 9th; Laurence F. Arnold, 23d; Lewis L. Boyer, 15th; Kent E. Keller, 25th; Hugh M. Rigney, 19th; Edwin M. Schaefer, 22d, and Lewis M. Long, at large.

All but Two Up for Nomination.

All of the Illinois congressmen are candidates for renomination at the Tuesday primary with the exception of Lucas, senate candidate, and Thomas J. O'Brien, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for sheriff of Cook county.

Despite their desire to be on the scene of the hot Illinois primary campaign, Illinois representatives other than Lucas and Fries were so keenly interested in the fate of the reorganization bill that they sped to Washington to take part in the voting.

Those who hurried here at the behest of the Democratic leaders to support the bill were wondering disconsolately where the defeat of the measure left them. However, they got a pat on the back from administration leaders for the loyalty they had shown.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 8.—[Special.]—The house tonight killed the government reorganization bill by voting, 204 to 196, to send it back to the committee which drafted it. A motion to reconsider the vote to recommit was quickly tabled. This action effectively wipes the measure off the legislative slate for this session.

One hundred and eight Democrats, 88 Republicans, 6 Progressives and 2 Farmer-Laborites joined to carry the motion, which sent the bill back to committee, thus killing the bill. Voting against recommittal were 191 Democrats, 2 Progressives, and 3 Farmer-Laborites. Not one Republican voted to save the bill.

Thus, the act which aroused the greatest storm of controversy since the Supreme court packing bill, died an inglorious death. It had become known as the dictator bill because of the vast powers it gave President Roosevelt to change the structure of the government.

Could Abolish Any Bureau.

The bill, among other things, would have authorized the President, by executive order, to transfer, regroup, coördinate, consolidate, or abolish any of the 135 bureaus, agencies, and divisions of government. Certain independent boards and commissions were exempted.

Closing pleas, delivered in dramatic fashion by Speaker William B. Bankhead and Majority Leader Sam Rayburn, failed to swing enough votes to save the measure. The two leaders placed the issue squarely on the President. A vote against the bill was a vote of lack of confidence in the occupant of the White House, they said.

In addition, every form of concession had been made by sponsors of the measure in an endeavor to win votes. Postmaster General James A. Farley came personally to Capitol Hill to lobby for the measure. Threats and promises filled the air as every possible kind of pressure was applied to rebellious Democrats.

O'Connor Leads Fight on Bill.

In opposition to all this organized effort were Representative John J. O'Connor, New York Democrat, chairman of the rules committee, a group of other Democratic leaders and the solid Republican minority.

They argued that the nation was fearful of the bill's implications. At a period in history when dictators abroad were growing increasingly arrogant, the congress should refrain from passing a measure which seemed to pave the way for a dictatorship in the United States, they asserted.

The voting on the motion to recommit, offered by Representative John Taber [R., N. Y.], started shortly after 6 p. m. As it progressed the tension was great. The vote was tied again and again. There was tumult when the last member had shouted his vote. It was apparent that the motion had been carried by but a few votes.

Clerks Check Vote Several Times.

Speaker Bankhead's gavel struck the table with reverberating cracks as he attempted to restore order. The clerks checked the count over several times before they handed the results to the speaker. A storm arose when a member suggested that, in view of the closeness of the vote, the balloting be repeated.

"The vote is not that close," the speaker said, somewhat sadly. "On this vote the ayes are 204, the nays 196, and the motion to recommit is carried!"

Approval of a motion to recommit a bill is regarded in congress as a death blow to the measure for the session. Technically speaking, the committee may redraft the measure and submit it again for consideration. In practice, the committee regards the vote as an expression by congress of disapproval of the issues involved and does not attempt to revive the bill. Another reorganization measure may, of course, be submitted next year.

Galleries Scream Applause.

Most of the members jumped to their feet yelling. The packed galleries screamed their applause. The jubilant opponents of the bill milled around, thumping each other's backs. Majority Leader Rayburn, his face pale, sat quietly in his chair. Only half an hour before Rayburn had pleaded with the Democratic majority:

"Do you want to send out a message to the people that you have voted a lack of confidence in our leader—in effect saying that he is no longer the leader of the country?"

Speaker Bankhead followed him, making one of his rare appearances as an orator. Striding up and down, waving his arms, Bankhead shouted:

"A vote for this motion to recommit will be a repudiation of confidence in the Democratic party and the Democratic President. The press tomorrow will carry shrieking headlines that the house of representatives has repudiated the President. I pray that you will not take any such action!"

The speaker sought to analyze the issues confronting the Democratic party. He declared that the truth about the bill had been distorted.

"Let's take off the window dressing of the bill," he said. "What is it? In essence, it is merely a bill conferring on the President of the United States that power which any sensible business would have done long ago. It does not confer any dictatorial power."

Final Plea from O'Connor.

Then O'Connor made his final plea. "Let's try and be calm about this," he said. "What has been done here today by the sponsors of this measure? They have engaged in an effort to pass any kind of a bill. It contains countless amendments, made in an effort to gain votes. Does any one know what these amendments mean? I don't. Send this bill back to the committee for further study.

"This bill is an attempt to compel congress to surrender its rights. The only amendment which would have reserved the rights of congress has been voted down."

O'Connor referred to the Boileau amendment which would have required affirmative action by joint resolution of both houses to make a reorganization decree by the President effective.

"You have heard from the speaker and the majority leader a plea not to join with the Republicans," O'Connor continued. "Isn't it possible that the Republicans may be right?

"Our country has gone through seven years of trouble. But last summer it began to experience a depression worse than anything that went before. This is no time to add to unrest by passing this measure. If it is not recommitted, it will be disastrous to our party and to our country which I love above my party!"

Postmasters as Bait.

The personal appeals of Bankhead and Rayburn were supported by a course of strategy throughout the day which resulted in the adoption of many amendments. The most enticing bait thrown out by sponsors of the measure was an amendment restoring to congress the huge patronage in the postoffice department.

Under executive decree of the President, postmasters of the first, second and third class are now automatically dealed out to the top ranking candidate in a civil service examination. The amendment, sponsored by representative Claude A. Fuller [D., Ark.] provided that the job be given to one of the first three candidates on the list. Under this arrangement, it was formerly the custom to permit the congressman from the district involved to designate the fortunate candidate.

Absent Members Summoned.

Even a hurry up call to absentee members to be present for the vote failed to save the bill. Some fifty of these rushed back to Washington at the command of the leaders and most of them voted against the motion to recommit. The vote for the motion would have been carried by a much larger margin except for these tactics.

While many concessions had been made on the bill, its sponsors refused today to permit amendments restoring the independent status of the controler general. The battle to retain congressional control of the purse strings of the government was led by Representative Andrew J. May [D., Ky.].

"Under this proposal, the controler general is to be the servant of the President, no matter how long he serves," Wadsworth said, "while under existing law the controler general is completely independent of the President and is responsible solely to congress and can be removed only by congress by concurrent resolution.

"Under this proposal, after the money is spent by a department or bureau or agency, a new office, the auditor general, who is to be responsible solely to the congress, may audit these expenses and report to congress as to their legality or illegality.

Too Late to Save.

"My conviction is that the report of the auditor general will come to congress too late to save any money. What can congress do when it gets the report that a certain bureau has expended money illegally? Can congress prosecute the disbursing officer? It can pass resolutions until it is black in the face condemning illegal or careless expenditures. That is about all."

Wadsworth referred to the argument that the proposed system follows the British plan.

"While the British scheme may work perfectly in the British form of government, it is an entirely different thing when applied to the American form of government," Wadsworth continued.

"In the British form of government the executive branch, which is the ministry, is largely made up of members of the house of commons and the house of lords. They are responsible as executives directly, intimately and instantaneously, to the legislature. If they do wrong, if they make a major mistake in policy of any kind, overnight the entire executive branch of the British government can be voted out of office by a majority of parliament."

Similar attempts were made to amend the section which provides for the substitution of a single administrator for the bi-partisan civil service commission. They were all unsuccessful.

RETURN VERDICT OF SUICIDE.

A verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Nell Bagne, 29 years old, 6501 North Fairfield avenue, who leaped Thursday from a third floor window of the Uptown Bank building, 4753 Broadway.

House Vote on Dictator Bill

Here is the roll call by which the house voted 204 to 196 to recommit the government reorganization bill, which had the effect of killing the measure, at least for this session of congress. The votes tabulated below as being against the bill are those who voted to commit the measure:

The jury reached its verdict after deliberating four and a half hours. Judge J. Le Roy Adair deferred sentence until April 16. The defendants were Howard Murray, Clarice Burham, Virgil L. Mayberry and Phyllis Hatfield.

G. O. P. ASPIRES TO ADD 11 SEATS IN ILLINOIS HOUSE

BY EDWARD WILSON.

Predictions that the primary election next Tuesday will show a swing toward Republican state legislators throughout Illinois and insure the election of a Republican majority in the state house of representatives in November were made yesterday by Republican party leaders.

After reviewing reports from downstate and Chicago party workers, they estimated the party has good chances of gaining eleven more seats in the house in the fall. The Republicans now hold sixty-seven seats and the Democrats eighty-six. Eleven additional seats would give the Republicans seventy-eight, or a majority. The leaders also reported that the party has a chance of winning seven house seats in addition to the eleven they are counting on.

Hope for Primary Turnout.

Republican legislative hopes are based to some extent on the factional fight in the Democratic ranks. Many Republican leaders downstate assert additional normally Democratic votes will be cast in the Republican primary as a protest against Democratic party wrangling.

The Republicans also believe that scars from the Democratic party fight will not be healed completely in the fall and that many Republican legislators will benefit by receiving votes which ordinarily would have gone to the opposition.

Hope for Cook County Gains.

In Cook county and neighboring senatorial districts the Republicans expect to gain at least four of their additional posts and say they have chances of gaining a total of seven. The Chicago districts where they may gain are the 5th, 9th, 11th, 13th, 14th, 19th, and 23d. Details of the party campaigns and possibilities in Cook county districts and the 8th, 14th, and 41st neighboring districts will be published in the Metropolitan sections of tomorrow's SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

Downstate the Republicans expect to gain house seats in the 10th, 22d, 24th, 33d, 38th, 39th, 44th, 46th, 48th, 49th, and 50th districts.

In the 11 northern Illinois districts the number to be nominated for the house from each party has been agreed upon by senatorial committeemen in six districts. They are the 12th, 16th, 18th, 20th, 35th, and 37th. Nomination will amount to election in those districts. Republicans have possibilities of gaining three house seats in the contested districts.

MRS. EILEEN POLACEK.

At 6 a. m. Tuesday the polling place in the 51st precinct of the 20th ward will open to the public as the law provides. The five judges will seat themselves and a policeman will stand at the door, also as the law provides. Presently one of the judges will prove by her signature that she is Mrs. Eileen Polacek of 1210 Roosevelt road. Then she will mark a ballot. That will end the business there until 5 p. m., when the judges will count and tally Mrs. Polacek's vote.

Mrs. Polacek is the only person who moved into the Jane Addams housing project in time to register for the primary and is therefore the only voter. Her vote will cost the county more than $60, but it will be highly profitable for Mrs. Polacek. She will get $10 for the use of her parlor as a polling place and $8 for serving as a judge.

EVANSTON VOTES TODAY IN HEATED SCHOOL ELECTION

Evanstonians will go to the polls today to elect an Evanston High school board member, but the election probably will not be so tame as it sounds.

There are two rival candidates and each one has powerful backing. Roy Cooley, restaurant owner, is the candidate chosen by the caucus committee of the central council of Evanston School Clubs. His opponent is John J. Louis, selected by an independent group of citizens that includes John H. S. Lee, Mrs. Addison L. Gardner, Clinton Merrick, and H. Kennedy Nickell. Bishop George Craig Stewart is supporting Cooley.

Louis was originally asked by the school clubs caucus to run, but declined, so Cooley was chosen. Later Louis was urged to run by the independent group and he agreed to do so. Since then the fight has become spirited and two of Louis' backers charge they were refused permission to speak for him at a P.-T. A. meeting.

URGES AMERICAS TO SHOW WORLD PATH TO PEACE

North and South Americans must understand each other's culture and economic problems before the good neighbor policy of 21 American republics will succeed. Dr. J. Fred Rippy, University of Chicago professor of American history, so declared last night at the Central Y. M. C. A. college's first forum for Pan-American friendship.

Dr. Rippy told consular representatives of all the Latin-American countries that force and conquest have determined Pan-American relations in the past. If this might be replaced with a system of non-aggression and arbitration, the Americas could set an example of peace to the rest of the world, he said.

CANDIDATE LAUDS HITLER; ASSAILS JEWS IN AMERICA

Chicago Germans Hear Jenkins' Nazi Speech.

Newton Jenkins, a candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination, last night assailed the Jews and praised Hitler in a speech at Lincoln Turner hall, 1007 Diversey avenue. In his campaign, Jenkins has advocated establishment of a Washington-Berlin-Rome axis.

Jenkins' listeners last night were 300 German-Americans, a few of whom wore swastika buttons. Copies of a German newspaper published in Chicago, which indorses Hitler's program, were sold at the door.

Assails Strength in Business.

"In this country," Jenkins said, "we have four to five million Jews out of a total population of more than 125 million. But members of this racial minority have taken more than their share of industry and business.

"My program is to give back to the other people the industries, the businesses, the press, and all the agencies of public information. If I were asked to give advice to the Jews what to do, I would first tell them to quit filling the country full of propaganda which raises the racial issue here.

"Then I would tell them they have far more than their share of power. I'd start giving back that power to the other people. Thirdly, I would tell the Jews to put their people to work at hazardous and backbreaking jobs. I'd put them to work in the corn fields, in the coal mines, to do the jobs in heavy construction and before furnaces.

Declares for Germans.

"I was a soldier in the world war and I had the greatest respect for the German army. If the situation ever arises where we in America have to give up one of two racial groups—the Germans or the Jews—which one would you give up?"

"Hitler found Germany in the depths of despondency," Jenkins said, "and he and his associates have given Germany its self-respect again.

"In Italy, Mussolini has given a country new hope. They're on a merry-go-round in France now, but I don't believe they'll stand for this Blum business much longer."

Protests Shelter for Refugees.

Jenkins announced that he had telegraphed Secretary of State Cordell Hull protesting at Hull's plan to allow refugees from European dictatorships to come to this country.

"We don't need Jewish refugees here," Jenkins declared. "We have enough of a problem to protect our own people. I believe that the European nations condemned as pagan are actually animated by Christian ideals. Our nation is more endangered by such a condition and I don't have to say who the pagans are—they are debasing our art, our literature, our culture."

EXPERTS ASSAIL SOCIAL SECURITY FINANCING PLAN

New York, April 8.—(AP)—The present method of financing the social security program in the United States was criticized today at the national conference of the American Association for Social Security as having had a "depression influence" upon industry.

Speakers urged a thorough revision in the fiscal policies underlying the social security system.

Dr. Paul Douglas of the University of Chicago, said effect of the pay roll taxes was to increase unemployment, thus aggravating the problem it sought to alleviate, and to reduce real income of consumers.

G.O.P. IS WARNED: DON'T CAST VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT

Party Shift Called Effort to Laud President.

The real purpose of Democratic party factionists in seeking Republican votes in the primary Tuesday is to roll up a heavy vote as an indorsement of the policies of President Roosevelt, Robert E. Crowe, Republican leader and former state's attorney, charged yesterday.

He said wholesale registration frauds uncovered by the Democrats themselves in their bitter fight over the nomination for county judge are sufficient proof to Republicans that Chicago's only hope of honest elections is the election in the fall of Judge Theodore Ehler, the Republican candidate.

Urges Republicans Keep Out.

"Anybody who is dissatisfied with the Democratic nominations and rule," said Mr. Crowe, "who has been a Republican or by reason of objection to President Roosevelt's policies intends to vote Republican in the future, should refrain from mixing in the present factional fight in the Democratic primary.

"No matter which faction wins, the total vote will be represented as an indication of the popularity of the President now. There is nothing at stake in the Democratic primary except who is to be boss—Horner and Courtney or Nash and Kelly.

"If the next Democratic county judge can't prevent election frauds any better than Courtney, Jarecki, and McKay have, I can't see why any Republican should be interested in continuing in office Jarecki or any other Democrat who confesses that 250,000 fraudulent voters were registered, and that he shut his eyes to them.

Assails Jarecki's Conduct of Office.

"Jarecki has made his own confession of the chaotic and disgraceful conditions that prevail in the office of the election commission, which he appoints and controls. We have the statement of his sponsor, Courtney, that he found 250,000 fraudulent registrations and arrested only one ex-convict. And we have that ex-convict's statement in open court, without contradiction, that he was beaten in Courtney's office to force him to confess.

"It is apparent to all Republicans that we can get no relief from these disgraceful conditions through Horner, Courtney or Jarecki. We must elect Judge Ehler, the Republican candidate for county judge, in November if we are to have an honest vote two years from now when President Roosevelt or the man selected by him is running for office."

Charges of Corruption.

Crowe said the air is full of charges of corruption in governmental affairs of the county, city and state.

"There are charges that conditions under control of Judge Jarecki in the office of county judge are intolerable," he continued. "Judge Jarecki and his associates charge that there have been violations of the law by the city hall organization. There are mass accusations that the Horner organization has been assessing civil service employés for political purposes.

"There are charges that State's Attorney Courtney is using police on the public payroll to further his political ambitions. There are charges that Albert J. Horan, chief bailif of the Municipal court, has deliberately violated the order of the Municipal court by dismissing bailifs for political purposes.

Take Democrats at Word.

"I demand that we take the Democrats at their own word and assume that conditions are as bad as the Democrats say they are. Courtney is trying to use the office of prosecutor to put himself in a position of public dictator. I urge therefore that the Republican central committee present charges to the chief justice of the Supreme court and apply for a special state's attorney to clean house and reëstablish confidence so that we may have some decency in our elections. Only under a return to decent conditions can the Republican party hope to go on to victory."

EVANSTON MAYOR GETS NEW REASON IN WAR ON TRACKS

Mayor Henry D. Penfield, of Evanston, will have added ammunition for his conference today with Evanston Railway company officials regarding his plea that they remove unused street car tracks in the suburb. The company now operates only buses. Yesterday the mayor's sister, Mrs. Elinor Brownlee, 1506 Dempster street, Evanston, was driving his automobile in Chicago avenue, south of South boulevard. The tires jammed in the rails, causing the car to crash. Damage was estimated at $100. One of the points Mayor Penfield will make, he said last night, is that the tracks are a menace to motorists.

Votes Asked as Protest to Rooseveltism.

In that 1940 primary, the appeal shows, there will be elected the delegates to the Republican national convention and the ward committeemen who for the ensuing four years will control the Cook county committee. This angle of that primary is considered, by those with party success at heart, to be just as important as the nomination of state officers headed by the governor, congressmen, legislators, and county officials.

The discovery of a court decision precisely on the point in dispute concerning the voters' right to hop over party lines this year was made by Attorney Arthur Sullivan, counsel for the Democratic county committe. It was handed down in a case in which Jacob Legien Tenney, leader of a service men's group, asked the court to compel the Chicago election board to allow Republicans to vote Democratic in the 1934 primary.

Same Situation as at Present.

In this case, exactly corresponding to the present situation since the primary of 1932 fell on April 12 and the primary of 1934 came on April 2 or slightly less than two years later—Judge Jarecki and the board had ruled there could be no changing of parties. Counsel for the board in opposing Tenney was the late Edward F. Dunne, former mayor of Chicago and former governor of Illinois.

In making his finding Judge Barnes referred to the two year limitation of the primary law and the statutory definition of the word year as meaning "a calendar year unless otherwise expressed."

"Now," he said, after referring to the statutory definition established for the construction of all statutes, "we have that rule to guide us.

"After the passing of that general statute for the construction of statutes the legislature adopted this general primary law. They said no person shall be entitled to vote at a primary if he shall have voted at a primary under this act of another political party within the period of two years next preceding such primary.

"With that statute before me, to which I have referred, I cannot come to any other conclusion but that that word 'years' as used in that section means calendar years and that two years means two calendar years."

Imposes Costs on Tenney.

The court dismissed Tenney's bill for want of equity and imposed the costs on him. In commenting to the court upon the decision, former Gov. Dunne said:

"I would like to say the controling influence with myself was the very thing that has controled your honor in making your decision, and that is the construction of the word 'year'—making that the controling and compelling motive that compelled me to differ with the man I respect so much, Judge Kerner."

The reference to "Judge Kerner" in the decision was to Otto Kerner, a former judge who is now Illinois attorney general and who, in 1934, gave the first opinion on record holding that party voters could change their allegiance that year. At that time Judge Jarecki and the election board, which he appoints, took the diametrically opposite position—and won their point in the federal court.

Tells What Assembly Intended.

Attorney Schroeder, who drafted the 1927 primary act, the one now in force, was head of the Illinois legislative reference bureau, the official bill drafting body of the general assembly and state officers, during the sessions of 1921 and 1923. Thereafter he was the legislative adviser of Gov. Len Small. He took par in all important conferences while the bill was being prepared and advised with members of both houses while it was in process of enactment.

"There is no doubt about the intent in this case," said Schroeder. "The purpose was to require that a man who joins a party by voting in its primary be considered a member of that party for at least two successive general primaries. For example, if a man voted in the Republican primary, the law intended that he could not vote in the Democratic primary two years later without regard to the exact calendar date. He was a member of his party for two biennial primaries."

This construction of the law is new in the present dispute. Under it a man could not change parties on Tuesday even if more than twice 365 days had elapsed since the 1936 primary.

Judge Jarecki's letter to the 2,635 precinct judges and clerks in the suburbs under the jurisdiction of County Clerk Flynn was based on the fact that Flynn's appointments of these officials are confirmed by the County court. With that as his grounds for attempting to extend his election jurisdiction beyond anything ever attempted before, Judge Jarecki told Flynn's appointees to disregard their previous instructions as contrary to law and to permit voters to change their allegiance if they choose.

County Clerk Flynn replied to Judge Jarecki's move with a statement, the principal point of which was this:

"I am of the opinion that I, as county clerk of Cook county, am the lawful authority to instruct judges and clerks of election relative to their duties on the day of primary election."

After citing the Judge Barnes decision in the Tenney case Flynn called attention to a "public notice" published in Chicago newspapers as a paid advertisment on April 7, 1934, when the primary situation in reference to changing parties was identical with the present one.

Signed by Board Members.

The notice was signed by Election Commissioners Fred V. Maguire, Mabel G. Reinecke, and Harry A. Lipsky, Jarecki appointees, two of whom are still members of the election board. Below their names appeared those of County Judge Jarecki and Edward F. Dunne, the latter attorney for the board.

"From the time of the first enactment of a direct primary law in 1905 to the present act of 1927 the legislature has placed a two year limit upon the right to change primary party voting.

"Under this condition of the law, the various attorneys of the board of election commissioners, without exception, from 1905 until the present time, including ex-Governor Dunne, now attorney for the board, have held that the two year limitation on the right to change primary party voting means that no one can make such change until after the expiration of two full calendar years of twice 365 days after their last primary vote."

Appeal to Republican Voters

"TO THE REPUBLICAN VOTERS OF ILLINOIS—

"We call upon and urge every Republican voter in this city, county, and state to vote a Republican ballot on Tuesday, April 12, 1938, for the following reasons:

"The law will prohibit anyone now casting a Democratic ballot to vote in the 1939 primary for the nomination of a Republican candidate for mayor in Chicago and in the primary of April 9, 1940, for the election of Republican presidential delegates and ward committeemen and for the nomination of all city, county, state, and national offices.

"April 12 is the first 1938 state primary in the United States and a huge Republican primary vote in this state will serve to inspire citizens of other states and to crystallize sentiment for Republican candidates everywhere.

"Every Republican primary vote is a positive protest against the pending reorganization bill and all fallacious New Deal theories and legislation that are directly responsible for the Roosevelt recession. Every Democratic primary vote is a stamp of approval upon confiscatory taxation, unemployment, waste and extravagance in government and centralization of power that undermine our wellbeing and threaten our liberty.

"By voting a Republican Primary Ballot we will reaffirm our faith in Republican principles, restore safe, sane and sound government, and return happiness and prosperity to the American people.

WIFE FORGIVES PHILANDERER; IS JURY SINLESS?

It was her first glimpse of her husband since a jury decided Wednesday that he must serve a twenty year to life sentence for the second degree murder of Irma Louise Pradier, French maid, during a struggle over the policeman's gun. Chalmers admitted the woman, 42 years old, had become infatuated with him, and insisted they elope. This, he said, was the cause of the quarrel.

After the visit, the wife berated the jury that refused to forgive her husband. "I wonder if there's a man among those twelve who hadn't at some time or other, gone out with 'another woman,'" she said. "Most men do the same thing and don't get caught. My husband just had the bad luck to become involved in such a way that this tragedy resulted."

Horan Says Paying Ousted Bailifs Is Against Law

Bailif Albert J. Horan of the Municipal court yesterday sent to City Controler Robert Upham a letter in which he asserted that payment of wages to 28 deputy bailifs he had discharged was illegal. The names of the discharged bailifs, who were reinstated by order of the judges of the Municipal court, were sent to Controler Upham by Chief Justice Sonsteby on a supplemental list. All received their checks on Thursday. Horan declared they were not in the service of the court.

DEMOCRAT PARTY WARFARE RISES TO HEATED PITCH

Resort to Name Calling; Hurl Bitter Charges.

BY PERCY WOOD.

The customary election eve hot shots poured from contending factions last night as the most bitter Democratic primary fight in years swung into its final week-end. Name calling was resorted to by participants from both Nash-Kelly and the Horner-Courtney camps. Throughout the party there seemed to be even more intense personal feeling concerning the outcome Tuesday than was evident two years ago in the Horner-Bundesen battle.

In the forefront were the senatorial candidates, Michael L. Igoe, with Nash-Kelly support, and Scott W. Lucas, backed by Gov. Horner, who were doing all they could to discredit each other.

Campbell Lashes Horner.

Seconding Igoe was Bruce A. Campbell, candidate for state treasurer, who blamed the snowbound roads on Gov. Horner and his slate. He said no snowplows were available because "Snow White and his seven dwarfs" were too busy calling names. Lucas' leading aid was State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, who loosed a burning denunciation of the Nash-Kelly political leadership, which, he asserted, had been the most powerful obstacle to progress in his work as a prosecutor.

"Five years ago," Courtney told his audience, "you honored me with this office on my promise that I would use every effort to fight crime and its entangling alliances in this city and county. I say to you sincerely, that I have faithfully kept my promise, and I believe you will agree with me when I say that conditions are greatly improved in our county.

"Yes, we have made progress, but I want you to know that the most powerful obstacle to progress has been the Nash-Kelly political leadership. This is an obstacle that cannot be overcome by the efforts of any one individual or any one office. This obstacle must be eliminated by you, the people."

Rebukes Lucas for Attacks.

Igoe rebuked his opponent, Lucas, a downstater, for mixing into Chicago affairs which, he said, were issues that belonged in a municipal election, not a senatorial fight.

"My opponent," said the federal prosecutor, "has spent several weeks telling the people of Chicago what is wrong with their school system and their election machinery, although it still remains under the control of his fellow candidate. Only today, he resumed running for senator with a ringing declaration for a duty upon black-strap molasses and proclaimed himself a fearless friend of 400,000 duck hunters who may have heard of his home town, Havana—where the schools, the elections, and the parks may be surmised to be in perfect condition.

"Any moment now I look for my friend from the duck hunters' heaven to take a firm stand on the multiplication table and tie it in as an issue of the present Democratic primary campaign as an outstanding achievement of the Horner state administration.

Igoe explained his attitude toward President Roosevelt and denied he had ever said he was for Roosevelt right or wrong.

Explains Stand on Roosevelt.

"Franklin Roosevelt," he said, "neither expects nor exacts the sort of blind loyalty that would commit a man in advance—least of all a United States senator—to such a course. Roosevelt is a liberal, a true Democrat. I have said that I recognize our President's leadership in the Democratic party and the nation because I see in it the sort of human leadership that indicates his interest in the poorest of his fellow men.

"As a senator from Illinois I will counsel with him and advise, support him in everything that I believe to be both right and wise. But I will oppose with all the stubbornness in my nature where I believe a course or policy ill advised or unwise, whether it be the President who proposes it, or others."

Lucas Assails Igoe.

Congressman Lucas attacked Igoe with the charge that he is loyal "only to his present day bosses, the Nash-Kelly machine."

"My opponent," Lucas said before south side meetings, "laughs at me because I am old-fashioned enough to tell the voters where I stand on important questions now confronting congress and the nation. All he says is that the 'L' in the middle of his name stands for loyalty and that loyalty to Roosevelt is the issue.

"The only loyalty he has given the President has been lip-service loyalty. In congress he dodged the great test of loyalty to the President by failing to vote either for the President or for the veterans when the bonus bill was passed over the President's veto.

"The only loyalty he is exhibiting in this campaign is loyalty to his present day bosses, the Nash-Kelly machine. He is loyal to them; he utters no protest against their efforts to scare out of the Democratic party the army of independents and Republicans who are coming over to our party in this primary. He is loyal to them in their scheme to take the policemen away from the state's attorney's office, lest he might interfere with their strong arm methods on election day.

"Now, as in the past, he is loyal to anything that will help Mike Igoe get what he's after. Next Tuesday I predict that the voters of Cook county, as well as downstate, will laugh the 'L' out of Igoe."

Predicts Horner Victory.

In the midst of these accusations and replies came a statement from Martin J. O'Brien, chairman of the Horner organization committee, who predicted victory for all the Horner candidates, including County Judge Jarecki, who was dumped by the regular organization.

O'Brien, one of the two Chicago ward committeemen in the governor's faction, predicted Lucas would come to the Cook county line with a plurality of at least 250,000 votes and would also carry Cook. The interest in the campaign will swell the Cook county vote to at least 900,000 votes, O'Brien forecast, while downstate he is likely to poll about 600,000.

MRS. JEANETTE GUTHRIE.

An uncontested divorce was granted yesterday by Judge Oscar F. Nelson to Mrs. Jeanette Guthrie, 32 years old, wife of Robert George Guthrie, consulting metallurgical engineer. Mrs. Guthrie testified that they were married in Chicago on Sept. 5, 1929, and that she left her husband on Feb. 5 of this year after he had hit her with his fist and slapped her.

Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie reached a settlement under which he will pay $100 a month each for the support of two children, Robert, 4 years old, and Barbara, 2 years old, and about $150 for the support of his former wife.

ROOSEVELT CARD HOUSE TUMBLING, LYONS CHARGES

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for United States senator, told his audiences last night that the defeat of the reoganization bill at Washington means the Roosevelt house of cards is tumbling and betokens a large vote in the Republican primaries Tuesday as a protest against dictatorship.

The people back home, he said, have been making themselves heard to such effect that Democratic factions have been forced to change their campaign appeals. Signboard slogans "100 per cent Roosevelt," Lyons asserted, have fallen below par in recent speeches, until Michael L. Igoe and Scott W. Lucas, rivals for the senatorship in the Democratic primaries now appear to be traveling on a platform of "49 per cent Roosevelt."

Speak At Three Meetings.

Lyons and his colleagues on the Republican ticket appeared before three audiences, in Prudential hall, 758 North avenue; Rivoli hall 4384 Elston avenue, and in the Gross Park theater, 2135 Roscoe street.

"The Roosevelt administration is crashing," said Lyons. "Today the dictatorship bill was killed in congress. The folks back home had been heard from.

"The house of cards is coming down upon their heads. The end of the New Deal is in sight, and the end of one family government. Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.] said recently that unless something is done America will sink into a morass from which recovery will not be possible. The real issue is to vote in the Republican primaries as a protest against New Deal theories and policies that are keeping men and women from getting real jobs and keeping millions on the dole."

Predicts Swing from Roosevelt.

"Remember in November what we are seeing today," continued Lyons. "No matter which of the two men is nominated for senator by the Democrats, by November he will be backing away from Roosevelt.

"While their billboards are up, I ask you to read their statements and pledge: 'Loyal to Roosevelt,' 'Back to Roosevelt,' and '100 per cent Roosevelt.'

"In their opening speeches downstate the Democratic candidates for senator said they would go up or down with Roosevelt and would be 100 per cent for the White House. But in the last few days they've been changing their statement. They have been hearing from the people who say they don't want more rubber stamps in Washington, that they want a return to America's real form of government and away from forms of dictatorship and burocracy.

"All this has started a bear market on '100 per cent loyalty.' What started downstate as '100 per cent Roosevelt' is now marked down to about '49 per cent Roosevelt.'

"By November the quotations of the Democrats, no matter which machine wins, will be still lower. People are tired of being bought and sold with their own money. They have paid for everything the President and the starry-eyed dreamers from eastern colleges have tried in social experimentations. Now the people have little to show but a hat full of bad debts. They are worse off than they were five years ago. Hugh S. Johnson, head of the National Recovery administration, said a few days ago, the United States is farther away from recovery than it was five years ago.

People Can't Eat Talk.

"A fireside chat with a lovely radio voice never filled a hungry stomach. In 1932 the Democrats had a slogan 'For American people, work and security.' I ask the New Deal tonight, where is the work, where is the security?

Lyons waived aloft a fat printed volume. "Do you know what this is?" he said. "It's the new tax bill. It was sent to congress and it was announced ten hours would be given for debate. It has 319 pages and an expert couldn't read it in ten hours and understand it. They take 319 pages to cover every method to get the last dime out of your pockets.

One Page for Spending.

"It has only one paragraph," he said. "That is all it takes to spend $250,000,000 of your money, which it takes 319 pages to collect.

"That $250,000,000 is for PWA, a campaign fund to aid them in electing New Deal congressmen. They put unfortunate people on WPA until primary day, then let them out. Then before November, they will put them on until after election day, and tell them, 'Vote as we say or you won't get your package of groceries.'

"We are urging that the most effective protest a citizen can register against dictatorship, regimentation, one family rule, and Alice in Wonderland experiments is to vote Republican in the primaries. The Republican campaign is a call to arms against false issues drummed up by Democrats in a bitter machine factional fight."

Assails Tax Imposts.

The sales tax was dwelt on by William R. McCauley, candidate for state treasurer.

"The Democrats," he said, "take credit for removing the state property tax of 50 cents per $100 valuation. They don't tell you this raised only $24,000,000 a year, more than three-quarters of it coming from railroads, banks, and corporations. Nor do they remind you that they replaced this levy with sales, liquor, and utility taxes which brought in $115,000,000, every cent of it coming from the pockets of Illinois wage earners."

Auto Accident Reveals Lucas as Strangers' Friend in Need

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Here's a personal sidelight on Scott W. Lucas of Havana, the Horner candidate for United States senator, showing the manner of man he is and how he played good Samaritan to some strangers in distress.

A few winters ago the writer was driving homeward from a vacation in the south. On a cold, dark night as we rounded a curve twenty miles from Peoria a car straddling the black line in the center of the pavement drove toward us. It forced us off the road and after skidding and many bumps on the hard shoulder our car went over on its side, wrecking it and half stunning the two occupants. The doors were sprung and could not be opened from the inside.

A Three Car Rescue Party.

We sounded the horn. The road was deserted, but after a few minutes two cars drove up and several young men jumped out. They were followed by a third car carrying an older man. They all swarmed over us and had us out in a jiffy. The man from the third car said: "I'm going to give you my car and my driver. He'll take your wife and you into Peoria to the hotel."

We were all strangers to each other. Being somewhat dazed, we even neglected to exchange names. Our luggage was piled into the third car with us. On the way to Peoria we asked the driver who the kind stranger was.

"He's chairman of the state tax commission," said the driver. "He lives in Havana and tonight he is taking the Havana basketball team to Pekin for a game. He is widely known in politics. His name is Lucas."

Samaritan Follows Up.

At the Peoria hotel, after a physician had made sure we were not injured, we were sitting down to dinner when there was a rap on the door. It was Mr. Lucas and a friend who had driven over from Pekin to make sure everything was all right. It was the first time we had met, to know each other's identity. Although Mr. Lucas was in politics as a participant, and the writer was concerned with politics as an observer, he never again brought up this subject. He never once suggested a few kind words in print might help in his campaigning as some politicians might have done.

In fact from the night he served as good Samaritan on that lonely dark road, the writer never met Mr. Lucas again until we covered the opening of his downstate campaign a few weeks ago at Decatur. We reminisced over the Peoria episode. "O, it was a very ordinary thing to do," said Lucas.

JACOB THE CROW CAN'T DUCK THIS: HE'S AN EGG THIEF

Farmers call crows black robbers, but when Jacob, the talking crow arrived at Lincoln Park zoo and settled down, his tameness and affability allayed the suspicions of every one. Even when the workmen began missing fountain pens, pencils, and trinkets they didn't accuse Jacob, because these articles are not edible except for giraffes and goats.

Then Jacob was caught secreting a pair of gold rimmed spectacles.

"This," said Director Floyd Young, "is a remarkable bird. He is ambitious, but his energies are misdirected. Turned into the right channel, his efforts may make him great; may give us something to—well, brag about."

But is was all off yesterday. Jacob was no longer great. He was peering lugubriously through the bars of the disgrace cage. He had been caught stealing an egg from a duck.

Brother of Convicted Bank Cashier Suicide

Belleville, Ill., April 8.—[Special.]—Edgar J. Wuller, 53 years old, brother of George Wuller, former bank cashier convicted of embezzling funds of the Belleville Bank and Trust company, ended his life by inhaling illuminating gas early today. Edgar, father of six children, was found dead in a chair in the office of the Karr Supply company by two other brothers, Clarence and Joseph. He was treasurer of the company.

CITY JOINS FIGHT FOR REBATE ON 1934 REALTY TAX

Acting under instructions of Mayor Kelly, Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph F. Grossman joined with attorneys for the Chicago Real Estate board yesterday in asking that a rebate of approximately 5 per cent be granted to Chicago taxpayers who paid their 1934 taxes under protest.

Attorneys William F. Struckmann and Charles H. Blumenfeld, appearing for the real estate board, petitioned Judge Edmund K. Jarecki to enter an order granting refunds to small home owners to the extent that the 1934 tax levies of the local governments in Chicago were held illegal by the courts. County officials said that if the order is granted the county treasurer would be required to make cash refunds.

Judge Jarecki, on his own motion, continued the case until April 18.

The rebates are being asked under blanket objection suits sponsored by the real estate board two years ago. The suits provided that illegal taxes should be deducted from the bills of all taxpayers who recorded protests in paying their 1934 taxes in full.

Held for Shooting Wife and Merchant in Home

Benton Harbor, Mich., April 8.—[Special.]—John Krawczewicz, 25 years old, 8744 Muskegon avenue, Chicago, was arrested here today on a charge of shooting his estranged wife, Betty, 25, and George Sattler, 65, a furniture dealer. Sheriff Charles Miller said Krawczewicz, who came here in an attempt to effect a reconciliation with his wife, confessed the shootings in the wife's home, where Sattler had gone to make measurements for linoleum. Mrs. Krawczewicz was wounded three times and may die. Sattler was shot twice in the arm.

DENY CRIMINALS APPEAR ON LIST OF POLL CLERKS

McKay and Aids Reply to Prystalski Charges.

A denial that any persons with criminal records, or former inmates of insane asylums, have been appointed judges or clerks of election for the primary next Tuesday was issued yesterday by the board of election commissioners.

"The board has examined its records thoroughly," said Alexander J. McKay, chairman. "The bureau of identification shows there is no appointee with a criminal record, nor is there any evidence of mental incompetency. Every person having information respecting the insanity or criminality of any judge or clerk of election should advise the board immediately."

The statement was an answer to Judge John Prystalski, candidate for the Democratic nomination for county judge, who had demanded that "the names of all criminals and persons adjudged insane" on the officials' list be published.

Courtney Recruits Police Force.

State's Attorney Courtney said yesterday that his office would have the regular number of policemen serving under his direction on primary day, although Commissioner Allman has ordered all those assigned to the office to poll guard duty. The state's attorney's plan is to recruit his own force from suburban forces and from the ranks of retired city policemen.

Chief of Police William O. Freeman of Evanston offered ten men, but Mayor Penfield later reduced the number to three. Lieut. Paul Duffy, president of the Chicago Police Veterans association, said last night that recruiting of the members by Courtney did not have the official approval of the organization. "Our first duty is to Commissioner Allman," Duffy asserted.

That Chicago will have a thoroughly supervised primary was evidenced by the election board's announcement that 12?,000 sets of credentials would be issued to watchers and challengers. There will be 19,250 polling place officials, chosen from 34,000 applicants.

Promise Speed on Disputes.

It also was asserted that there would be little delay in settling disputes about the legality of voters' registration. The board will have a battery of telephones in operation, and clerks will be able to look up names on the master registration lists quickly, it was said. Michael L. Igoe, candidate for the senate, and Judge Prystalski have contended that the lists are in such chaotic condition that many voters will be disfranchised.

Two men, charged with illegal registration, filed petitions yesterday requesting a change of venue from County Judge Jarecki's court to the Criminal court. They are Jack O'Connor, 75 East 18th street, and James O'Neil, 2314 Sheffield avenue. The whole proceeding was continued to April 18.

DR. JOHN A. SCOTT OF N. U. TO RETIRE; FAMED FOR GREEK

Dr. John Adams Scott, famous professor of Greek and head of the department of classical languages at Northwestern university, announced last night that he would retire from active duties in June. He is a brother of President Walter Dill Scott of the university. Dr. Scott has reached the retirement age. He was 70 years old last Sept. 15.

Prof. Scott plans to live in Michigan during the summer and in Florida during the winter. He has sold his home at 1960 Sheridan road, Evanston. It is expected he will receive half salary in his retirement, plus a lifetime salary as John C. Shaffer professor of Greek.

Prof. Scott has been at Northwestern since 1897. He is best known in educational circles for his studies on Homer. His research resulted in the publication sixteen years ago of his "The Unity of Homer," which sought to show that the great writings commonly credited to Homer actually were the works of Homer and not of several men.

Fire Causes Near Panic on Street Car; 60 Aboard

Nearly sixty homeward bound passengers were thrown into confusion last night when fire occurred on a streamlined Madison street surface lines car at Kildare avenue. Many women screamed, and a number of women and men hammered at the windows in an effort to escape, but none was injured. Danger was speedily ended when the conductor pulled down the trolley pole. This automatically checked the blaze, caused when insulation on the motors caught fire.

Fast Working Robbers Get $37 on Northwest Side

Four young men committed two fast robberies on the northwest side last night, getting a total of $37.50. Their first victim, Marvin Jacobson, 4712 North Drake avenue, a clerk, was held up in the rear of his home as he was driving into his garage. The thieves took his car and $11. Fifteen minutes later the same quartet stole $26.50 from Donald Fosse, 4428 North Paulina street, near 4500 North Hermitage avenue.

Battle at Gold Mine; Warn C. I. O. Men to Flee

Grass Valley, Cal., April 8.—(AP)—Several persons were beaten and driven from town last night by more than 150 unidentified men, and today the leaders warned all with C. I. O. tendencies to stay away from this gold mining region. The ouster followed several days of tension, climaxed Tuesday night in an attack by nonunion miners upon C. I. O. pickets at the Murchie mine. Fifteen men were sent to hospitals.

FANNY BRICE.

New York, April 8.—[Special.]—Supreme Court Justice Salvatore Cotillo today dismissed the $34,000 suit brought by Edgar Allen, theatrical agent, against Fanny Brice, the comedienne, on the ground that Allen was not a licensed agent and therefore could not recover commissions allegedly due him.

Miss Brice brought this point out on the witness stand herself, after forty minutes of testimony. Those who crowded the courtroom expecting free comedy and a bit of tragedy were disappointed. Fanny never was more serious.

It was while she was being cross-examined by Bernard Sandler, Allen's counsel, that Miss Brice, apparently irrelevantly, leaned from the witness stand and said, emphatically: "You have to have a license to be an agent. Allen does not have one."

LABOR M. P. ASKS DEMOCRACIES TO RESIST FASCISM

Democracies should pool their strength against world dictators, Herbert Morrison, British labor leader and member of parliament, declared last night. He spoke before 200 members of the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization at a joint dinner in the Morrison hotel.

Fascism seizes control, said Morrison, in a time of depression when a weak and indecisive government is in office. Countries without a long record of democracy are especially susceptible to Fascism, he added. The labor leader asserted that Fascist states are built purely on hatred and the idea that militarism can right all economic faults. It may be, he said, that the Versailles treaty accounts for Hitler, but certainly not for Mussolini.

Morrison criticized Neville Chamberlain, British prime minister, and called his policy of nonintervention "humbugging." By not taking a strong stand in the Spanish situation, Morrison said, Chamberlain has given Franco and his allies a chance to plant long range guns against Gibraltar.

CRAFT UNION MEN IN PENNSYLVANIA HIT C. I. O. SLATE

Harrisburg, Pa., April 8.—(AP)—Pennsylvania's craft union members split politically with the C. I. O. today and resolved to oppose all candidates backed by the John L. Lewis organization in the state's primary. The resolution was adopted by acclamation in the convention of the new Pennsylvania Federation of Labor.

Pleas for such a stand were made to the convention by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

The federation also repudiated labor's Nonpartisan league which indorsed the Democratic ticket supported by John L. Lewis and United States Senator Joseph F. Guffey in the May 17 primaries. It includes Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy, for governor, and S. Davis Wilson, mayor of Philadelphia, for United States senator.

The C. I. O.-Democratic ticket is opposing a slate headed by Charles Alvin Jones for governor and Gov. George H. Earle for United States senator, indorsed by the state Democratic committee.

PRESSURE GROWS FOR INCREASE IN RELIEF SPENDING

Mayors Seeking 3 Billion for Coming Year.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 8.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today confessed that his estimate of 1 billion dollars for relief in his budget message of last January was inadequate in the face of the current depression.

He said the estimate will have to be increased, but he mentioned no figure. At the same time he admitted a new public works program to prime the pumps of industry is under consideration and again refused to mention a figure, although White House sources were agreed he will ask 1 billion 500 million dollars for this purpose.

Hopkins Asks for Funds.

As Mr. Roosevelt said that he will shortly advise congress of the details of his latest contemplated spending program, WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins told congress the administration will ask only for funds to carry the WPA program through next Jan. 1. He said he favored a "permanent security program" based on work, rather than direct relief.

The situation is so beclouded with doubt and uncertainty that dependable estimates can be made only to carry the program through to the next session of congress, Hopkins testified before the senate unemployment committee. It is generally believed that Mr. Roosevelt will seek between 1 billion 250 million and 1 billion 500 million dollars for the WPA for the seven months period.

Mayors Make Fund Plea.

In the afternoon a delegation from the United States conference of mayors told the President that a federal appropriation of 3 billion dollars will be required in the fiscal year which will begin next July 1 to carry at least 3,500,000 unemployed and families through the year.

Mr. Roosevelt dodged attempts to get him to discuss the reports he will propose a 1 billion 500 million dollar federal bond issue for the purpose of making public works project loans to states, cities, and counties. The loans would be repaid without interest over a fifty year period, according to the reports.

However, the President said that he would not reduce works relief expenditures, if he adopted the public works program. He also said that any new program would have no bearing on the 1 billion 500 million dollars the RFC is authorized to loan to business.

In Doubt About Future Needs.

He did express himself in support of the suggestion Hopkins made to the senate committee that the provision of the law which requires the relief budget be broken up into twelfths be eliminated. He, like Hopkins, said it is impossible to tell at this time what needs will be for a year hence.

To the majority of questions relating to his relief and pump priming plans he gave the answer that he intends to reveal them to congress.

It is generally believed that the leadership of the contemplated spending drive against the present recession will go to the lanky WPA administrator, Hopkins. Secretary Harold L. Ickes, who fought Hopkins and lost the battle for control of the 4 billion 880 million fund voted in 1935, has showed no disposition to renew the fight under any plan that the President may propose.

La Guardia Heads Mayors.

The recommendation that 3 billion dollars be voted by congress to relieve unemployment was presented to the President by a committee of eight mayors headed by Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York.

"While there is some evidence of a slackening in the precipitous rate of decline in industrial and business activity which occurred in recent months," the mayors said in a statement, "there is no question that the full effects of the decline, in terms of the destitution which follows unemployment, have not yet been felt."

Jails Husband

MRS. ERICA BOCK M'CONNELL

Because Mrs. Erica McConnell obtained a default divorce last year, no alimony order could be entered until her husband, Earl, 28 years old, could be traced and served with the proper legal papers. Mrs. McConnell, who was an ice skater and catcher on a girls' baseball team, set out to prove that she can catch ex-husbands, too. This she did, right handily, and Earl, who lives at 848 Montrose avenue, was ordered to pay $6 a week.

Yesterday Mrs. McConnell glided into court and charged that Earl had slipped up on his payments. Judge Benjamin P. Epstein sent Earl to jail while Mrs. McConnell stared icily.

MRS. ROSS GETS BACK $38,245 OF $50,000 RANSOM

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday ordered Daniel M. Ladd, special agent of the federal bureau of investigation, to turn over to Mrs. May Ross $38,245 which has been identified as ransom money Mrs. Ross paid to John Henry Seadlund, kidnaper and slayer of her husband, Charles S. Ross. Seadlund is being held in the county jail pending an appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals from his conviction on a charge of kidnaping.

On March 18 Mrs. Ross filed two suits against Seadlund, one to recover the $50,000 ransom, and another to collect $10,000 damages for the death of her husband. At a hearing Monday before Judge Barnes, Mrs. Ross will seek to collect $8,958 found in Seadlund's possession when he was captured, but not identified as ransom money.

JUDGE LINES UP ROY TO STRUM TUNE FOR ALIMONY ROW BOYS

If the worst comes to the worst for Roy Smeck, the boys in alimony row may soon have music to brighten their days, for Mr. Smeck is one of the really great banjo players. This is admitted even by his wife, Olga, who appeared with her attorney, Benjamin B. Davis, yesterday to ask that Judge Grover C. Niemeyer do something about Roy, who now is in New York.

After luring her away from her stage career with the fascinating rhythms of his banjo, she said, he suddenly cooled toward her and announced that one Gladys was now tops. Then he filed suit for divorce in Chicago and departed next day. Mrs. Smeck has come here twice from New York but Roy has not appeared, she said. Thereupon, Judge Niemeyer said:

"Smeck's divorce suit is dismissed. His separate maintenance payments will be raised from $25 to $50 a week. A judgment will be entered against him for $2,225 arrearage. An attachment for his arrest will be issued, requiring that he prove residence here or be cited for contempt for illegally filing a divorce action as a resident."

CHICAGO FIRE SURVIVOR DIES.

EDUCATORS TOLD INTELLIGENCE IS A MORAL DUTY

Dr. Homer P. Rainey of Washington, D. C., a director of the American Council in Education, said yesterday in a talk before the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in the Stevens hotel, that it is a moral obligation for citizens to be intelligent.

"In a democracy every citizen is called upon periodically to express his sovereign will upon the issues and problems that affect the life of all," said Dr. Rainey. "There is, therefore, incumbent upon each of us as citizens a moral obligation to be intelligent. Democracy demands more of intelligence and character on the part of its citizens than any other form of society."

Dr. Charles F. Wishart, president of Wooster college, Wooster, O., asserted that if administrators of cultural colleges "were quite frank, we would admit a good deal of confusion and bewilderment in our own minds about our own ideals and programs."

Dry Zero Staf of 152 Completes Syphilis Tests

The 152 employés of the Dry Zero corporation's dry-ice plant at 930 North Halstead street have been tested for syphilis by a board of health physicians, it was announced yesterday by N. R. Easter, plant manager.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

HANDS, FEET, AND FACES

By CALEB

ONCE a salesman who smashed the records for volume in his field was asked what technique he used to close so many deals.

"Well," he said, "I watch three things about my prospects: hands, feet, and faces. Those three things tell me what my prospect is like, what sort of a mind he has, about what his income is, what he likes to do, when he is bored, when he is interested—and when he is ready to buy."

This alert salesman had learned to use the knowledge long familiar to every star of stage and screen. Hands, feet, and faces—they tell a story 'bout everyone, and sometimes a quite revealing story.

As in many another phase of human affairs, science comes forward with methods for improving all three of these vital factors in personality and happiness. A not unimportant share of our own efforts has been devoted to gathering the best of these suggestions, and aids for hands, feet, and faces to be placed at the disposal of Field friends and patrons.

One might suppose that footwear, cosmetic, and toilet goods departments offer most for the improvement of hands, feet, and faces. But the matter goes deeper than that. We find, from long observation, that every department for personal apparel and adornment contributes to the poise, the self-assurance, and the attractiveness essential to improvement of those three cardinal points.

The assurance that one's attire is right, the knowledge that one's taste has already been endorsed by consummate artists in that field—somehow that intangible element does as much for the whole effect as the items themselves.

That is why we stress so endlessly the necessity for impeccable taste in whatever merchandise we offer for sale. Our goal is to maintain the assurance for every patron that his or her choice is sound and correct whenever it is made at Field's.

FRANCE CALLS ON 'STRONG MAN' TO FORM A CABINET

Picks Edouard Daladier After Fall of Blum.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 8.—Hooted out of office by the senate, Premier Leon Blum and his entire cabinet resigned today, leaving Edouard Daladier the formidable task of constructing a new government out of the wreckage of the People's Front.

Edouard Daladier.

The Socialist leader's downfall came on his inflationary finance bill, which would have given him dictatorial powers and which the chamber of deputies earlier in the week had passed by a slim margin. But even the most optimistic of his enemies had not expected the defeat in the senate would be so crushing. The vote was 223 to 49—one of the worst humiliations the "dry hearted old men" of the senate have ever inflicted on a French statesman.

President Calls "Strong Man."

With the boos of his enemies ringing in his ears and his dreams of leading France bloodlessly to a Socialist Utopia smashed, Blum stalked out and handed the government's resignation to President Albert Lebrun at the Elysée palace. Lebrun shortly afterward asked Daladier, minister of defense in the fallen government, to form a new cabinet.

Daladier indicated tonight that he hopes to have his cabinet ready by Sunday. Heralded by many as a "strong man" who will pull France out of the ditch, the taciturn war minister, despite his advance publicity and support of the army, faces a terrific task.

With the treasury almost dry—there is just enough money to keep the machinery of state running until the middle of this month—and Reichsfuehrer Hitler free after Sunday's plebiscite to resume his conquest of central Europe if he desires, it is imperative for Daladier to succeed quickly.

Strikes Continue to Spread.

A further reason for speed is seen in the continued spread of strikes in the war industries. Several more factories closed down today, bringing the total number of strikers in the Paris region to more than 52,000.

The Central Trade Unions organization, after some hesitation, today threw its whole weight behind the strikers, while the employers reiterated that they would refuse to consider any negotiations until the workers have evacuated the factories.

The greatest obstacle of all which Daladier faces is the partisan hatreds which the collapse of Blum's régime left in its wake. The communists and Socialists tonight were threatening to organize a nation-wide campaign against the "dry hearted old men" which might end in civil war.

Blum Hissed by Senators.

Blum made no serious effort to defend his finance bill in the senate today. He contented himself with making a bitter attack on his senatorial judges, who replied with hoots and hisses.

At one point Blum was sharply called to order by the chairman, Jules Jeanneney, for declaring that the senate had no right to overthrow a government approved by the chamber.

Much of the session was a personal duel between Blum and Joseph Caillaux, president of the senate finance committee and leader of the opposition, whom Blum helped to topple over in 1926 on a financial program similar to the one Blum presented today. Blum bitingly told Caillaux this was his chance to get revenge.

Caillaux Defies Riots.

Caillaux, interrupting, said:

"And do you recall saying in 1926 that you would rather see a king return to France than give me powers for which I was asking?"

"I would have to think a lot about such a choice even today," Blum retorted.

It was Caillaux who delivered the coup de grace to the Blum government, saying:

"The senate, a representative assembly of peasants of France, remains calm in the face of attacks of its enemies. Press campaigns and street demonstrations provoke nothing but our contempt."

"Jail Caillaux," shouted back a Socialist deputy in the visitors' gallery. He was promptly ejected.

Rear Admiral Richardson New Chief of Navigation

Washington, D. C., April 8.—(AP)—President Roosevelt appointed Rear Admiral James O. Richardson chief of the navy's bureau of navigation today in a shakeup of high command posts. Officials said the retirement of Rear Admiral Clarence S. Kempff, commandant at Mare Island, Cal., and expiration of the terms of duty of several admirals explained the changes. Rear Admiral Adolphus Andrews, retiring navigation chief, was made commander of the fleet's scouting force with the rank of vice admiral.

He also allegedly supported these circles financially. He will be tried by a regular court. Official circles say he is being detained in custody because he might attempt to flee the country.

GOERING PAINTS HITLER AS WORLD PEACE SAVIOUR

Says Free Austria Was Nightmare.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 8.—Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister of air and No. 2 Nazi leader of Germany, tonight told a cheering audience in the Sports palace here that "the world should be grateful to Nazi Germany for removing the nightmare of Austria, which endangered peace and entailed the possibility of skidding the world into a war."

"Skidding into war," he shouted, "would cost millions of lives. If one does enter a war then one should start with energetic tread, but not skid into it. I believe we saved the world from this."

It was Goering's last campaign speech in the German capital before Sunday's Reichstag elections and plebiscite on the annexation of Austria.

Predicts 100 Per cent Pro-Nazi Vote.

Goering said Austria would vote "100 per cent" for union with Germany. He dared foreigners traveling in Austria to find 1,000 persons opposing such union and offered to pay money if they succeeded in finding that many. He also warned those "who dare to protest in the name of the Austrian people."

"Nobody has a right to speak for them but the Germans," he declared. "Nobody can speak for Austria except her great son and liberator, Hitler."

Goering denounced the Jews, asserting "in Vienna, where there are 300,000 Jews, there are so many criminals that prisons as a rule are not big enough to hold them."

Goering said a strong army "is a necessary foundation for a strong policy. Without power there is no justice. We learned that right is right only when power is power. Enough strips have been cut from our hide. We have been the anvil on which others hammered long enough. Now we shall be the hammer and strike. Paper protests today go the way of all paper. One must realize that behind the writings of the pen are bayonets to give it needed impressiveness."

Catholic Papers Back Nazis.

BERLIN, April 8.—(AP)—The Roman Catholic weekly papers of the Berlin and Breslau dioceses today published appeals to Catholics to support the Nazi régime in Sunday's plebiscite on Austro-German union.

The Berlin appeal emphasized Nazi achievements on behalf of child welfare and an increased birthrate, saying:

"The Catholic church has always fought against the fear to have children and has condemned it; it therefore has the greatest interest in all measures for rendering the fulfillment of this divine commandment easier."

The Breslau appeal told parishioners that the thesis of the Catholic Austrian state could not stand in the face of political realities. Hence, the paper said, it is up to Breslau Catholics "at the eleventh hour to correct their prejudices in favor of the well understood interests of our entire nation."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 8.—To finance the vast new plants of the "Hermann Goering Iron Works" to be erected in Linz, for exploitation of Austrian mineral ores, the company's capital was increased today from $2,000,000 to $160,000,000. The company will remain state property with the government keeping $106,000,000 of the original stock. German industry will be allowed to purchase $54,000,0000 worth of preferred stock which will pay 4½ per cent interest.

THE MASSACRE Chicago's 1938 Trafic Toll

EXPRESS TRAIN STRIKES AUTO IN STORM; 2 KILLED

Apparently blinded by heavily falling snow, Alfred Boehm, 9640 South 55th avenue, Oak Lawn, drove his automobile into the path of the Banner Blue Limited of the Wabash railroad yesterday. He and his wife were killed. Mrs. Boehm was 45 years old. Her husband was 49. The accident occurred at the intersection of 95th street, 51st avenue, and the railroad in Oak Lawn, about two blocks from the Boehm home.

Michael Payne, 60 years old, of 438 Eaton street, Hammond, was killed when he drove in front of a Monon passenger train at the Douglas street crossing there. Police said the watchman tried in vain to lower the gates, which caught in telegraph wires which had been dragged part way down by ice. Payne was the father of Frank Payne, commander of the Hammond American Legion post.

Leonard Goodman, 22, of 770 Jefferson street, Gary, and Charles Egloff, 23, of Columbia City, Ind., were killed when their car overturned near Hanna, Ind.

Little hope was held last night for the recovery of Charles Burkitt, 49, Niles Center superintendent of public works, who was injured in an automobile accident on April 1. He is in St. Francis hospital, Evanston. Yesterday marked his eighth consecutive day of unconsciousness.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 230 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 185 were killed in Chicago where 4,437 were injured in the same period.

Close Part of Jeffery Ave. Monday for Sewer Project

Jeffery avenue from 73d to 75th streets will be closed Monday for construction of a sewer at 74th street, Otto K. Jelinek, Chicago park district trafic engineer, said yesterday. During the four days work is in progress, northbound trafic will be rerouted east to Clyde avenue at 75th street and southbound trafic will be routed west to Bennett avenue at 73d street.

Oklahoma Banker Admits Embezzlement of $25,000

Dallas, Tex., April 8.—(AP)—Raymond McCauley Scruggs, Oklahoma City banker and school board treasurer, charged in Oklahoma with misusing $750,000 in school funds, pleaded guilty before a United States commissioner here today to a federal charge of embezzling $25,000 from the First National bank which he served as vice president. He signed a waiver of removal to Oklahoma.

Confesses Guilt in School Burglaries; Gets Probation

Pleading guilty to a charge of receiving stolen property, Abraham Serzon, 17 years old, of 3218 Leland avenue, was placed on probation for one year by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Boys' court yesterday. He was one of 11 youths arrested by Albany Park police in connection with a series of school burglaries.

PEOPLE AND NOT BUSINESS SCARED, HOOVER ASSERTS

San Francisco, Cal., April 8.—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover asserted tonight it was the American people, rather than business, who were "scared" at the economic trend, and suggested that New Deal "planned economy" itself was "making the one-third ill fed and ill clothed."

"It is nonsense to say that either big or little business is on strike," he said. "It is not so. Business is yerning to sell automobiles and new suits of clothes. It is the people who are scared."

Mr. Hoover spoke before a group of citizens tendering him a homecoming welcome upon his return from Europe.

The former chief executive reiterated some of the views he expressed in his recent New York speech on the drift of Europe toward authoritarianism—a speech which started speculation as to his political intentions in 1940—but again he dropped no hint of his political plans.

Asserting American unemployment had increased another million or two during his two months in Europe, Hoover thrust repeatedly at "planned economy."

8 YEAR PRISON TERM FOR MAIL FRAUD UPHELD

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed the conviction of Angus C. Littlejohn, Springfield, Ill., insurance man, for using the mails to defraud. Littlejohn was sentenced by Judge J. Earl Major to serve eight years in Leavenworth penitentiary and to pay a fine of $12,000. An associate, Henson C. Robinson, who did not appeal, was sentenced to serve two years and to pay a fine of $1,200. They were charged with making false representations in connection with the operation of the National Aid Society of Indiana, the National Aid Society of Colorado, and the National Agency corporation. Littlejohn was charged in addition with diverting $370,000 of the funds of these companies to his own purposes.

DETROIT TRACTION STRIKE IS SETTLED; SERVICE RESUMED

Detroit, Mich., April 8.—[Special.]—Operation of the city owned street car system, tied up a day and a half by a strike, was resumed this afternoon following ratification of a settlement agreement by union street car men. The peace formula was worked out in a conference with Mayor Richard Reading early today.

The settlement did not touch upon seniority rights which the street car workers sought over employés of the city's bus system. Buses had continued in operation during the strike. The seniority issue is awaiting action in the Michigan Supreme court.

The peace pact did contain other concessions, however. It provided for a reduction of the working week to forty-four hours and collective bargaining rights over both bus and street car personnel for the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Operators of America if it can prove it has a majority of the bus operators.

A. F. OF L. SUGAR WORKERS MARCH; C. I. O. MEN FISH

Crockett, Cal., April 8.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor workers marched up the hill today, but the Committee for Industrial Organization had gone fishing, so the A. F. of L. cheered and marched down.

The hill leads to the strike-bound California-Hawaiian sugar refinery, closed twenty-eight days because C. I. O. forces picketed the plant.

A. F. of L. forces, about 1,200 strong, participated in a "peace and harmony" parade through the town, but only a handful of C. I. O. adherents remained to see it. Union leaders predicted the A. F. of L. demonstration would incite violence and said nearly all C. I. O. workmen were ordered to take a holiday and go fishing.

A settlement is believed near.

TWO SENTENCED TO JAIL, 2 FINED IN SAFETY COURT

Two reckless motorists were sent to jail and two others were fined by Judge J. M. Braude in the Safety court yesterday. All were charged with reckless driving.

Patrick Kane, 7352 South Green street, a city employé in the street department, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and suspended from driving for one year. Police records show that he had been sentenced to 30 days and fined $100 on a similar charge in 1933. In yesterday's case he was accused of hitting a street car after going through a red light at Chicago and Ogden avenues on March 21.

Charles Kauver, 3041 Poplar avenue, whose automobile struck four parked cars and tore the tails off a pedestrian's topcoat in a wild ride on Princeton avenue on March 26, was ordered to pay a $200 fine or go to jail for 20 days. He paid the fine. He also was suspended from driving for six monthsr.

Harry Lang, 157 West Ontario street, was sentenced to 15 days in jail and suspended for six months, and Roy B. Bindon, of Hobart, Mich., was fined $100 and suspended for one year.

EXPRESS AGENT JAILED.

Noblesville, Ind., April 8.—[Special.]—Clarence L. Cope, agent for the Railway Express agency here for several years, was arrested today on a charge of embezzlement and placed in jail in default of bond. He is accused of taking $358 of the company's money.

CHINESE REPORT 7 MILE GAIN; JAP ARMY IN FLIGHT

Nipponese Troops Suffer Heavy Punishment.

SHANGHAI, April 9 [Saturday.]—(AP)—Chinese reported today that their victory at the battered little city of Taierchwang, in southern Shantung province, had driven the Japanese forces seven miles from the city in all directions.

These reports said two Japanese divisions had been defeated decisively and were in full retreat.

The Japanese continued to deny claims of Chinese successes, insisting that Taierchwang still was occupied by Japanese forces and that the drive toward Suchow, important Lunghai railway junction, was progressing.

Japs Lack Ammunition.

Foreign sources, although unable to confirm either of the conflicting assertions, expressed belief that the Chinese had scored at least a temporary victory and were inflicting heavy punishment on the invading troops.

It was believed the Japanese lacked artillery ammunition because of harassed supply lines, and thus were unable to cope with the numerically superior Chinese.

The Chinese version of the southern Shantung fighting called forth widespread celebrations in provincial cities and towns.

Foreigners said the Japanese were rushing reinforcements to the central China front. They reported that 50,000 fresh troops had landed within the last two weeks at the Manchukuan port of Dairen.

Japs Demand Wounded Chinese.

CHEFOO, China, April 8.—(AP)—The American Presbyterian Mission hospital here appealed to the United States government for assistance today in resisting a demand that all Chinese wounded be turned over to the Japanese.

Japanese marines and Chinese irregulars continued a desperate engagement in the hills west of Chefoo, where an uprising of Chinese began Tuesday.

After a Japanese officer's demand was refused by the missionaries, Japanese pickets were posted at the hospital gates, the mission reported. All persons entering or leaving the hospital were searched and a detachment of marines was assigned to a nearby school.

Japanese marines and irregulars also were fighting near Tungchow, 50 miles distant, which with many other walled cities again was flying the Chinese nationalist flag.

Foreign sources reported that the Japanese burned four villages near Muping, 20 miles away, alleging that farmers harbored Chinese irregulars.

PURE MILK DRIVE IN BRITAIN MEETS IRE OF PRODUCERS

Official Board Also Joins in Toning Down Warning

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 8.—A well meant crusade for purer milk by the British Medical association has brought down upon it the wrath of milk producers, the government's milk marketing board, and the Newspaper Proprietors' association. As a result the crusade has been modified considerably.

"Is all milk safe to drink?" was the heading of an announcement sent by the British Medical association to leading London and provincial newspapers and weeklies.

Though space had been reserved, the London dailies refused to print it. Members of the Newspaper Proprietors' association felt, apparently, that they could not risk offending the milk producers, who have been advertising heavily in a "drink more milk" campaign.

Provincial Papers Use It.

Provincial and weekly newspapers published it, and the New Statesman and Nation went so far as to call attention to the reasons why it had not appeared in the so-called "national" dailies. Nobody could accuse the British Medical association of having an ax to grind—and if he had wished to do so, nobody could think of any ax.

But the milk marketing board, the government commission that markets milk in England, did not like it. The announcement was too strong. It called attention to the fact that although there has been much agitation over the 6,000 deaths caused annually by road accidents, nobody has said anything about the 2,000 caused by bovine tuberculosis resulting from contaminated milk.

The announcement added: "During the last twenty-four years there have been over 100 outbreaks of epidemic diseases—scarlet fever, enteric fever, diphtheria, paratyphoid, and septic sore throat—all borne by unsafe milk. These outbreaks would cease if all milk were made safe.

Cites 1937 Infection.

"In 1929 in one town alone 1,000 families were affected by such an epidemic and 65 people died. In another outbreak in 1937 there were 718 cases of infection and 51 people died. Every primary case had come from the same source of supply. Milk must be made safe."

As a solution it cited a resolution just passed by the British Medical association, representing 37,000 physicians. The resolution said: "Only milk complying with the conditions required for the designation 'tuberculin tested' or 'pasteurized' or preferably both can be safely consumed without boiling."

Legally the milk producers could not stop the advertisment, but by their influence they kept it out of most newspapers. It was not libelous, but it was tactless.

Set Up "Milk Bars."

Although the marketing board already pays 2 cents a gallon more for milk from inspected herds and another two cents on top of that if the milk is tuberculin tested, the farmers are slow to respond.

England has not been a great milk drinking country. By strenuous advertising and the establishment all over the country of "milk bars," serving only milk drinks, the per capita consumption was raised from .4 pint in 1936 to .42 pint in 1937, but that was not considered a great increase.

Slowly and painfully they were building up a body of milk drinkers, and they were afraid all their work would be wasted if the physicians frightened people off with talk of scarlet fever and tuberculosis. A conference was held between the marketing board and representatives of the British Medical association.

Ad to Be Subdued.

A spokesman for the marketing board informed THE TRIBUNE that the offending advertisment would appear in future in a subdued form, and that Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express and Lord Rothermere's Daily Mail, two of the most powerful advertising media, had agreed not to carry it in any form.

The same spokesman said there were no statistics available on what proportion of Britain's milk was pasteurized or inspected. He said it might be taken for granted that "most of that supplied in large cities" was so treated, but that no figures were available.

COURSE OF APRIL STORM ACROSS UNITED STATES

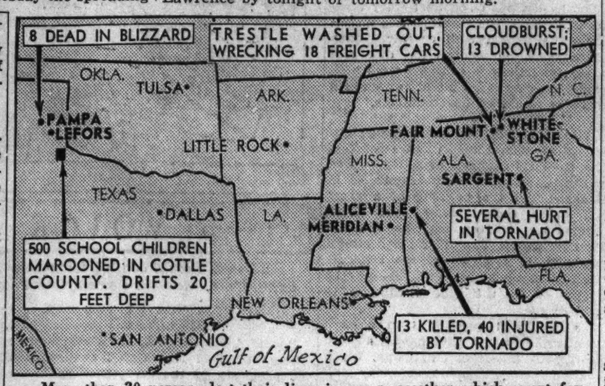
Here is a map of the advance of the freak spring storm which twice has buried large areas of the central west and south with snow and cold and lashed much of the country with high winds and tornadoes. Different shadings indicate areas affected each day, beginning with last Sunday, April 3, and the sections where snow fell are shown. The storm started when a low pressure area spread from the Pacific ocean on to the western coast. The center of the storm was at sea, but rain deluged the coast of Oregon and Washington. The next day the storm center was in southwest Utah, and remained there for almost twenty-four hours, advancing only the width of the state, although its front had extended out of the mountains on to the plains. On Wednesday the spreading storm center was in the panhandle of Oklahoma and more than nine inches of snow fell on Chicago. That same day came a weather freak. A cold front, a high pressure condition from the arctic, pushed down toward the great plains. The low pressure area which was the center of the storm was forced clear to the Mexican border, near the gulf, before it started back north. This gave Chicago a day of respite from snow, but storms raged in the deep south as the storm center reached northern Louisiana. Yesterday the center had moved to western Tennessee and it was snowing again in Chicago. Last night the storm center was moving northeast, with the probability it would be out to sea over the Gulf of St. Lawrence by tonight or tomorrow morning.



More than 30 persons lost their lives in severe weather which swept four southern states. A blizzard caused deaths in Texas, and twisters and floods took a toll of lives in Alabama and Georgia. High water drove 200 Mississippi families from their homes.

years and many motorists were stranded on the roads between Pampa and Lefors. Five hundred school children were not allowed to go home through the blizzard. Hundreds of newly shorn sheep and lambs, it was said, perished from the cold.

Those who died in the Georgia flood were all members of the family and guests of F. C. Connor, a storekeeper. His living quarters were over the store. Nine of the bodies, swept down the roaring waters of the usually placid Talona creek, were still missing last night.

After the tornado twisted through Aliceville members of the Alabama National Guard were called out to protect property and assist in the rescue work.

Railroad Bridge Collapses.

At Fair Mount, Ga., eighteen cars of the Louisville and Nashville railroad plunged through a flood weakened trestle into a stream. A tornado caused severe injuries to several persons at Sargent, Ga.

The Red Cross estimated that 20,000 persons in the two states were in great danger from floods. Among the cities affected were Prattville, Wetumpka, Selma, and Montgomery, all in Alabama.

Mississippi also had its share of misfortune from the elements. Injuries from tornadoes were reported from Philadelphia in that state and 200 persons were moved from their homes at Meridian as flood waters rose.

In Nebraska and Iowa electric and communications companies reported that damage from snow and ice would reach into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

HIGHWAYS BLOCKED BY DRIFTED SNOW; MANY CARS STALLED

Huge snow drifts blocked sections of a number of roads within a sixty-five mile radius of Chicago last night. Snow plow crews, battling to clear them, were hampered by hundreds of stalled automobiles. But it was believed that a number of the routes would be opened today, although ice and slush were expected to make motoring hazardous.

Road conditions generally were reported the most serious in two years. The Chicago Motor club reported that it had received more than 2,700 calls from distressed motorists in four hours.

Further from Chicago, virtually all roads were passable, according to club officials. U. S. route 41 was open to Milwaukee, and U. S. 45 and Illinois route 21 were open as far north as Antioch. All roads to the south and east were open.

Main roads closed were: U. S. 64 from Elmhurst to St. Charles, and from a short distance west of St. Charles to Sycamore; U. S. 330 from Glen Ellyn to Elburn; U. S. 34 west to Naperville, and between Oswego and Earlville; U. S. 30 from Matteson to Joliet, and from Plainfield to Aurora, and Illinois 126 from junction of U. S. 66 to Plainfield.

SNOW DRIFTS HALT FIRE TRUCKS.

Four fire engines started yesterday to respond to a fire at 6604 South Nordica avenue, but only two arrived, the others being blocked by snow and slush. The fire caused $1,500 damage.

REBELS ANSWER LOYALIST DRIVE WITH NEW PUSH

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], April 8.—(AP)—Spanish insurgent troops drove a second swift spearhead toward the Mediterranean sea in Northeast Spain tonight. Their action counterbalanced a new government drive in which loyalist troops struck into Caceres province, 100 miles southwest of Madrid, in an effort to launch a large scale offensive of their own.

The insurgents, already massing to assault the Catalan coastal city of Tortosa, swept down Mount Turmell, 27 miles to the south, and were only 12 miles from the port of Vinaroz.

Militia Used by Loyalists.

Forty thousand insurgent troops have been massed in preparation for the new attempt to take Tortosa and cut completely the narrow link between Catalonia, Spain's northeastern corner, and the rest of government territory. Just across the Ebro river the government had a defending army at least as large. A decisive battle for possession of that important highway city, about 95 miles southwest of Barcelona, was expected any day.

In the government's surprise offensive southwest of Madrid, the almost forgotten thousands of government militiamen were reported to have advanced over a 25 mile front.

Penetrating into the eastern tip of Caceres province, they held a line described as bulging westward from Villar Del Pedroso and continuing on south to Alia. If the offensive should gain any great momentum it would become a serious danger to Gen. Francisco Franco, insurgent commander, as Caceres province reaches to the Portuguese border, constituting the connecting link between northern and southern insurgent Spain.

Take Refuge in Church.

Fighting in the sector today was said to have been heavy. It took place in a mountainous region where the insurgents for months have maintained only defensive units.

Insurgents in the town of Carrascalejo were caught by the advance and took refuge in a church where the government said they held a large number of civilian hostages.

In the northern sector of the eastern front the insurgents methodically consolidated their newly won territory around Tremp, important center of power production, and cut Catalonia's power supply.

[In Barcelona, Catalan capital and provisional capital of loyalist Spain, officials said the city had coal burning electric power plants to replace hydroelectric sources captured or menaced by the insurgents.]

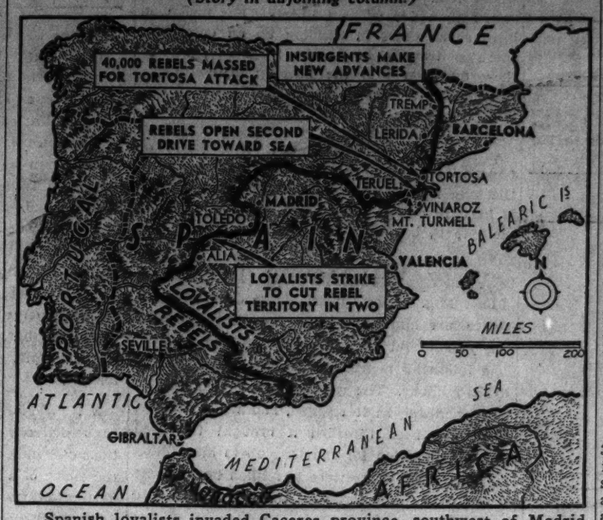
Rebels Seize Villages.

Taking over the country to the west of Tremp, insurgents crossed the Noguera Ribagorzana river in several places and occupied the villages of Claramunt and Eroles. In the northern part of Huesca province, northwest of Tremp, they took control of territory adjacent to the French border and entered the town of Torla on the Ara river, east of Jaca.

Tragic scenes were enacted in the Ara valley which was traversed by thousands of fleeing government troops and civilians bound for the French border. Refugees swept the countryside almost clean of food, it was reported, leaving only a forty-eight hour supply for the population remaining.

BATTLE ON NEW FRONT IN SPAIN

(Story in adjoining column.)



Spanish loyalists invaded Caceres province, southwest of Madrid, yesterday in the face of additional rebel threats in the northeast. The government's thrust into the province was made by militiamen.

FRANCE EXPELS ITALIAN WRITER; 'TOO INQUISITIVE'

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

PERPIGNAN, France, April 8.—The local prefecture today notified Felipe Bellotti, special correspondent for the Milan, Italy, Regima Fascista, that an expulsion order had been issued against him because he was "too inquisitive" about border events. Bellotti explained that he was sent to France last week to cover the French-Spanish frontier in connection with the insurgent offensive in eastern Spain. He said he was told to await the arrival of Gen. Francisco Franco's rebel troops. Bellotti said he incurred the authorities' displeasure by photographing prominent Catalan refugees at Cerbere, France, and collecting data on the shipment of war material to loyalist Spain.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Nesting Plans Advance

April 8, 1938.

ALTHOUGH the unexpected snowstorm has covered up the young flowers in the woods and temporarily stopped the advance of spring, the nesting fowls around the barnyard are not being bulldozed by the unseasonable weather. They are going ahead with the job of incubating their eggs unmindful of snow and chilly weather.

The activity of the turkeys and other birds has provided one of the biggest contrasts of the week. In hiking over the snow covered farm only the buds and new leaves on some of the shrubs and trees continue to remind one of spring. But in the sheepbarn you know that the new season is arriving with colors flying when you look at the turkey hen squad sitting on the community nest in the feed rack.

Turkeys Stay Indoors.

If turkeys know how to laugh these five hens on their nests in the sheepbarn probably have enjoyed many a chuckle this week at the expense of the birds attempting to build nests in the open, because they are warm and comfortable on their indoor nests while the other turkey hens have felt the lash of the blizzard.

We looked again at the row of nests in the rack this week when the snow had driven many of the fowls and the sheep into the barn for shelter. We found two of the nests covered with hay, as the turkey hens usually put a protective layer of material over the eggs when they leave the nest. There were five nests in a row and each contained from two to nine eggs.

From these high nests [they're about 5 feet above the floor of the barn] the turkey hens can survey the whole population of guinea hens, turkeys, ducks, and sheep which have been crowding into the barn since spring went into a tailspin and let winter crack the whip.

Pines for Mate.

The recent snowstorm hasn't altered the disposition of a pining turkey gobbler in the poultry yard, who is still thinking about spring and wondering where his favorite turkey hen has gone. Yesterday the flockmaster told us the story of why this gobbler won't leave the poultry yard and go into the farm woods where there are so many other turkeys.

A wild turkey hen that was raised with the chickens always stayed around the poultry yard, and soon caught the fancy of the trim young gobbler. He stayed in the yard last season in order to be near the hen. Some weeks ago the hen died. Now the gobbler can't understand why the hen no longer appears around the poultry house.

He stays near this house all day long, roosting in a tree at night and returning in the morning to continue his vigil. The flockmaster has tried to get this faithful gobbler away from the yard, but all his efforts have failed.

Starlings Ousted.

As far as a pair of starlings in the barnyard are concerned there has been no snow or cold weather this week. It's spring to the starlings and they are going right ahead building their nest. This is the second nest these birds have worked on. The trouble is that they built them in a ventilator on the poultry house, an unfortunate choice of location.

The flockmaster pulled out the nesting materials shortly after the birds had started to build, as the ventilator was blocked by the nests. But the birds are right back at the same location and have kept busy every day bringing in additional material for their second nest.

REPUBLIC OR DICTATORSHIP?

The dictatorship bill, which has struck its first real resistance, is not an end in itself. Its full meaning is not to be found in its provisions taken by themselves. They must be applied to their actual purposes. One key to understanding is found in a description frequently used. It is for "more efficient government." What kind of government? The answer is easy. It is the kind represented by the TVA, the bituminous coal commission, the national labor relations board, the housing authority, the Robinson-Patman act, the May industrial conscription bill, and the national incorporation bill.

It is the pretense that private enterprise and the profit system must be made to work. The truth contradicts the pretense. The governmental form which the dictatorship bill is to make efficient substitutes collectivism and state socialism for private undertakings. Wherever a government undertaking has been started under the new form private enterprise has been stopped.

The government is in the social security business. The people are told that by the various sorts of assistance for which pay roll taxes are assessed they will be taken care of. They may rely upon the government. At the same time every form of security heretofore depended upon by individuals is impaired if not ruined by the government. A larger proportion of savings must go in taxes. Bank interest has been cut in half. Interest on bonds has been reduced by government financing. Unless a person is very rich there is no dependable future in bond investment. The return is too low.

The government's treatment of the railroads and industries whose stocks were security investments has prevented them from making profits to pay dividends. The individual who has been trying to protect himself by saving against his future needs doesn't know what to do. The enterprises of national socialism must be paid for. The national debt must be liquidated. If it is done by inflation the individual's capital disappears. If it is done by taxes his savings go year by year. He doesn't know where to put his money and get a return which will guarantee him a living. His life insurance has been made more costly in some instances by the reduction of dividends and by the depreciation of the company assets.

These things have happened to the individual's ability to protect himself and they are all developments coincidental to the unfolding of the government's social security scheme. That pattern will be found in every major governmental undertaking. It is now proposed to turn three billion more dollars of tax money into a quick spending campaign. What is needed is some assurance that private capital can be employed. The government proposes to substitute its own spending in nonprofitable undertakings for a release of private capital in profitable enterprise.

TVA is, of course, the outstanding example of the process by which the government proposes to substitute its own machinery for that of one of the greatest industries in the country. There the purpose is without pretense. Private investment and operation are to give way to sovietized operation sustained by taxation. It is beyond doubt the purpose of the dictatorship bill to make socialism work when it has taken over electric power, the railroads, and natural resources along with the workable capital of the country. The present depression reveals how private industry has been stopped. The government tries to throw the responsibility for the failure on the people who had most to lose by it. The object is to gain reason for saying that private management of capital is unable to provide for the needs of the country.

Private management cannot survive the accumulation of capital resources in the control of the government, the ruin of enterprises by government competition and taxation, the interference with sales, production, prices and wages, and governmental farming. Private capital cannot exist against expropriation of profits, arbitrary increase of costs, penalizing of adventure and taking of risks, discouragement of expansion and investment, and the destruction of savings.

The government has the money and it has the power. Now it needs the dictatorship measure because its only chance of holding what it seizes is to act without restraint, to shift its commissions and agents at will and to have its bidding done as it issues its orders.

THE END OF THE ROAD.

Receiving orders from the national labor relations board to deal with the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, one of the affiliates of the C. I. O., Arthur Colton put a pistol to his head and died. He was what has come to be known as a small business man, at the head of a manufacturing concern in Grand Haven, and the more abundant life had not arrived for him. Confronting the prospect of dealing with the problems of his enterprise under the mandate of a federal bureau, he apparently decided that the game was not worth the candle.

The event will have for most Americans an unpleasant resemblance to recent events in Vienna, where men and women have preferred to die rather than live without liberty. For men who have spent years in building up an enterprise there is tragedy in finding it passing out of their direction into the keeping of politicians and burocrats. This is no mere question of dollars and cents. Higher values are involved. There is honorable pride in achievement and in creative effort. There is the bitter sense of frustration and the waste of years of effort. If the long road seems to lead downward, despair is hard to escape. Most men, happily, will not yield to it, but some will.

WHY WHEAT IS DOWN.

Last Aug. 10 the United States department of agriculture announced that the wheat crop for the year would amount to 890 million bushels. The following month the estimate was reduced to 885 millions. The spring wheat looked steadily less promising as it ripened, and when the last of it had been threshed it brought the total wheat production for the year up to 873 million bushels. Thus there were 17 million bushels less wheat than the government thought there would be in August.

How about the price? On Aug. 11, the day after the crop estimate was given out, May wheat in Chicago sold for $1.17⅝. On Wednesday of this week the grain for the same delivery sold for $0.81¼. That was a drop of a little over 36 cents or 30 per cent.

Here the fallacy of the Wallace theory of wheat prices is demonstrated beyond question. The Wallace idea is that all you have to do is to regulate the amount of wheat production and any desired price for it can be attained. Experience shows that this simply isn't true. There is less wheat but it is selling for a lower price per bushel. All the wheat that will be available for delivery in May was produced last year. When the crop was thought to be 890 million bushels it sold for $1.17, but after it turned out to be only 873 million bushels it fell to 81 cents.

There isn't any mystery about the cause of the fall in wheat prices. Wheat fell 30 per cent while stocks, as shown by the Dow-Jones industrial average, were falling 41 per cent. The same business recession which sent stocks down has also reduced the quotations for wheat, cotton, live stock, butter, eggs, and other farm products.

The fact that the deterioration of business during the last six months has brought about a 36 cent drop in wheat, despite a poorer harvest than earlier appeared likely, proves conclusively that crop curtailment will not bring prosperity to the farmers in the face of adverse business conditions.

The senate finance committee, in its report on the tax bill, declares that the throttling of business by the surplus earnings tax is a major cause of the recession in business. It is therefore a major cause of the 36 cent drop in wheat. It follows that if business conditions do not improve even smaller crops cannot be depended upon to bring higher prices in the coming year. Farmers have a direct interest in seeing that government does not throttle business enterprise, either by taxation or otherwise.

BATTLESHIP AND BOMBER.

Enough of the pros and cons of the battleship against airplane controversy now going on at Washington have reached the public to arouse in the civilian mind a strong doubt that we ought to go very far in building 100 million dollar battleships that may be the prey of 100 thousand dollar bombing planes. The intelligent layman recognizes that this is a highly technical question which he is not fitted to decide, but he observes that experts are in sharp disagreement and he would like to have them reach a firmer footing before heavy expenditures are imposed upon him and critical decisions are made.

Aviation is young and has the vigor and daring of youth. No doubt its claims have been in some respects exaggerated or overoptimistic. On the other hand, the battleship party is made up largely of men who have spent a good part of their lives on ships and with the interests and problems of naval operation. They are not likely to surrender willingly to the arguments or perhaps even to the facts which seem to disparage the primacy of the ship as against the plane. They are not likely to welcome a new arm with which they are not familiar and which if energetically exploited may become the dominant branch of national defense.

There has been a natural and on the whole an advisable conservatism in the consideration of the claims of aviation, and it has been fortified by the tendency of aviation enthusiasts to push these claims ahead of their facts. But facts are accumulating and while, so far as the public knows, they do not support the extreme claims made for the airplane, they are sufficient to suggest a caution in embarking on very heavy expenditures on ships the military importance of which may be substantially reduced in the evolution of air warfare. There has been much irresponsible theorizing, almost all by laymen, in favor of abolishing the battleship. Informed opinion does not take this proposition seriously in any country. But if conservatism is wise in this respect, as it is, it is not wise conservatism to underestimate developments which point unmistakably to the need for revisions of judgment and program.

Editorial of the Day

[Rockford Register-Gazette.]

We have on several occasions expressed the thought that small business men of the nation would do themselves a distinct service if they make their collective voice heard in Washington instead of complaining individually about the way politicians are treating them. Labor unions are articulate and aggressive and so is big business. Why doesn't little business do something about it?

The prominence which a few great corporations enjoy tends to obscure the fact that probably 75 or 80 per cent of the annual business turnover in this country is done by small units, which range from obscure corporations down to crossroads general stores.

Yet officials in high places in Washington are still denouncing business, small as well as large, and making charges that bring it into disrepute with the public.

Small business should not take these attacks lying down. It cannot afford to do so any more than can big business. We venture to say that if the collective voice of the millions of small business men scattered throughout the nation could reach the national capital it would be heeded.

A volunteer stooge from Oak Park, Max Van Scoy, reports the girl who decided to give up pecan rolls at breakfast for Lent. That morning she breakfasted at a serve-yourself restaurant and because the place was crowded sat down across from a stranger. Soon afterward she looked up from her newspaper, noticed he had departed and left behind an untouched pecan roll. Her will power demoralized by this circumstance, she started eating the roll just as her companion returned with a second cup of coffee. Scarlet-faced, she took refuge behind her newspaper and did not emerge until he had departed. She then discovered her five cent check was gone. The cashier explained the man had paid the check for her.

ARTISTS OF CHICAGO are demonstrating their ingenuity in decorating Easter eggs in preparation for an Easter egg exhibit to be held as a divertissement next Saturday at the Artists' Union gallery. A few examples of their skill go on display today under glass domes. Punning is part of the fun—so it is an eggshibit. Little Ineggsperience is a naïve young thing with a button for a hat tied by streamers in a bow under her chin. Eggecutive has lots of collar expanse and sponge hair. Eggsotic, created by John Stenvall, is glamorous in black lace. He also did a wistful eggsile. John and Jane Walley did a drunken egg hanging on to a pipe cleaner lamppost, an eggsample of too much 'aig & 'aig. There are pretty ones, too. Gallery visitors hope the artists will sell or auction the Easter eggs next Saturday.

MISS JOAN CRAWFORD spent most of yesterday sitting up in bed at the Blackstone knitting herself an evening sweater. She had luncheon with the Wayne Kings, in case you care how a movie star occupies herself between trains. And the evening before she had some friends in for dinner in her suite. She wore an oxford gray pinstripe suit, still wears her hair in a long pageboy bob, brought three trunks along for a week's trip east. She was induced to play some records she had made, and her hearers were enthusiastic about her singing. She played them some operatic transcriptions—one a duet with Rosa Ponselle, also a popular record she had made, "Lamp on the Corner." Miss Crawford said she doesn't want to appear in a singing picture for at least a year—until she gets more accustomed to the mike.

Gus serves green noodles, made with spinach, the way his mother made them in Naples, where the family home was next door to the house shown tourists as the birthplace of Columbus. Spaghetti, ravioli, and thick steaks are specialties of the restaurant. Last month Gus wrote Edward R. Bradley suggesting that he name one of his colts Bing-Bong, as long as he wanted names beginning with "B." He got a letter back saying that a two year old had been named Bing-Bong at his suggestion. Gus has the letter framed. The bell bing-bongs for everybody, but when some one took Helen Hayes and Cornelia Otis Skinner there after the theater one night they thought it was because they were celebrities. Miss Skinner said they tried to look modest, thinking everybody would stare, but nobody even looked up from their plates. No nonsense about dessert at Gus's—cheese and an apple or pear instead.

POINT THE WAY IN CHILDHOOD.

I AM impressed constantly that the rôle of the physician must include education in an increasing degree. He must be alert to the possibilities of teaching his patients how to obtain and retain good health, although there will never come a time when he will not be needed to exercise remedial powers. No matter how hard we strive we shall not be able to talk or train ourselves into that Utopian state so alluringly described by Thomas More. As boys will be boys, so men and women will be human and fallible. Some will insist upon burning life's candle at both ends despite every admonition to the contrary.

The modern doctor recognizes that the mind governs somewhat the body's behavior. This has been augmented with the further knowledge that one's physical condition controls in large measure the mental outlook. The chap with a nail in his shoe—a source of constant irritation—can scarcely be expected to make an agreeable dancing partner or hiking companion. Even ills of which we are not conscious—those not accompanied by obvious discomfort—may occasion depression, sluggishness, and ineptitude. The person with chronic kidney disease may be abnormally dull and drowsy, and the one suffering from high blood pressure exhibit fits of anger which otherwise would be unaccountable.

Quite apart from the influence of physical states upon thought, we must consider the deep channels of action plowed by habits, many of them established in childhood. In the building of a great city, paved thoroughfares over which millions travel later, may be laid out along cowpaths. Thus moral and ethical standards—in fact, all of the elements which make up human conduct—may be determined by the time a child is 15 years of age.

We may well question with concern the attitude toward government, toward the responsibilities of citizenship, which thousands of youngsters of today will assume when they reach adult status. Will the sons and daughters of parents unfortunate enough to be obliged to accept the dole insist that the government owes them a living always? Has individual initiative been extinguished for them? Will they ever again undertake full responsibility for themselves and their descendants?

Herein lies a duty of the medical man. He must point out to his friends, his patients, and his community the pernicious and powerful mental effects upon the coming generation of a society in which it is necessary for a substantial proportion of the population to exist under public subsidy. Problem children will result in increasing numbers. Why is this important? Because neglected faults or moral warpings may be magnified a hundredfold in adult years.

Many educators believe that our public schools are even now faced with a critical situation which they are poorly equipped to handle. Instruction—by example and precept—in truth, honor, integrity, and courage—those simple virtues of a free people—has given way to a spineless "Let well enough alone."

Can our teachers divert the stream of loose thinking? Even now we demand paragons of wisdom for an all too modest compensation.

But what can be done? Working together, the teacher, the physician, and the parents—with true patriotism and some idealism—can mitigate if not solve completely many of these difficulties. We cannot expect to have intelligent adults unless preparation is started early. A few parents lack interest, while others present periodic emotional upsets which render them unfit to discipline or guide their offspring. Ofttimes an intelligent boy or girl cannot understand why he is denied this or that because, no matter what he attempts, it worries or disturbs father or mother. For every game he has two umpires—each using a different set of rules.

BETTER SEE SPECIALIST.

Mrs. K. writes: I am troubled with wild hairs in the eyelashes. There is a scratchy feeling present, which is relieved when the hairs are pulled out. What is this condition and is there a cure?

REPLY.

You may have what is called entropion, in which the hairs of the eyelids have a tendency to turn inward, occasionally causing ulcers on the eyeball. A specialist in diseases of the eye should be consulted.

CYSTS ON EYELID.

C. C. P. writes: Is a small cyst on the inside of the lower eyelid dangerous? What is the cause of such a growth? Will alternating hot and cold applications—applied for 10 to 15 minutes each day—cure it?

REPLY.

Cysts are not dangerous to health unless they become infected, but a cyst on the eyelid should receive attention. It means that an outlet duct of a gland has become plugged. Hot applications will help.

IT'S SELDOM DANGEROUS.

E. A. Q. writes: I have a cyst behind the left ear. 1. Just what is a cyst? 2. Is there danger that it may become cancerous?

REPLY.

1. A cyst is an enlargement of a sebaceous gland—one that produces an oily secretion. 2. Rarely. If swelling persists, with an occasional discharge, have your physician remove it.

SHARP PRACTICE BY THE TAX COLLECTOR.

Rockford, Ill., April 6.—In a communication published March 29 I challenged the propriety of the acceptance by Mr. Nudelman, state director of finance, of sales tax payments aggregating several thousand dollars from certain classes of building contractors between Dec. 22, 1937, when the Supreme court decided in Herlihy vs. Nudelman, and Feb. 2, 1938, when the court denied Mr. Nudelman's petition for a rehearing of the case, and when the decision became first generally known. It should be here stated in explanation that in the gas tax refund cases several years ago it was held that when a tax is illegally levied and paid the citizen has no remedy to recover it from the state unless he paid it "under protest."

Mr. Nudelman replied on April 5 to the effect: First, that my inquiry was due to unfamiliarity with state laws and regular administrative procedure established thereunder, and that being a lawyer I should know better; second, that there "would have been no justification for the department revising its rule before the court had definitly affirmed its opinion, for if in February the court had changed its stand the department would then have had to go back to its earlier rule with great inconvenience to contractors"; and, third, that he had no legal right to set up a special fund for these illegal assessments or to return the money.

It would be inelegant for me to argue the first phase of his reply, which would be of no public concern. However, in passing it should be noted that Mr. Nudelman himself shows no signs of legal infallibility. The Supreme court in Babcock vs. Nudelman decided on Dec. 22, 1937, that he had misinterpreted the law in attempting to tax certain professions, and again in Herlihy vs. Nudelman decided on the same day that he had also misinterpreted the law in attempting to tax certain contractors. I, therefore, have this advantage of him—that my "unfamiliarity with the state law" has not been judicially determined and made a matter of public record.

The second and third phases of his reply deserve more attention. His department rule formulated and circulated by him among contractors, holding that they should pay the tax, was void from the beginning, and every cent of money he collected from contractors thereunder was wrongful and illegal. When the Supreme court so held in its written opinion on December 22, he should have ceased immediately to collect the tax instead of persisting in his error during the whole period while the contractors were uninformed of the court's holding. Although he had a duty to speak, he remained silent and accepted their money knowing the court had held his department rule was improper and that he had no right to assess or collect the tax.

His excuse that he was waiting, hoping the court would change its mind and justify his position, is sufficiently answered by saying that the court did not change its mind, and that the contractors who paid the illegal taxes he levied while he was waiting and hoping have simply lost their money. It is a little difficult to understand what he means when he says to have changed his stand would have been "a great inconvenience to contractors."

His next excuse was that he was required by law to forward all collections made to the state treasurer the next day, and that where payments were made "under protest" they may be recovered from the state in appropriate legal proceedings. There was no law requiring him to make the illegal assessment in the first place, and when he discovered it was illegal he could have returned the taxes as received, instead of turning them over to the state treasurer. If some misguided person had mailed him a federal income tax report with a check for the income tax, would he have had to dump the check into the state treasury?

If he did not see fit to return the tax after the court held it void, he could at least have informed contractors of the Supreme court opinion, and that they could or should pay the tax "under protest" as he suggests, so that they would have had a legal basis for its recovery from the state. As it was, he taxed them illegally, he kept silent for approximately six weeks after he found out it was illegal, and let them continue to pour their money into his office, and now they can whistle. GUY B. RENO.

CHESS VS. BRIDGE.

Chicago, April 6.—Chess never will achieve the almost fanatical popularity of bridge, because few people have the moral courage to accept complete and unqualified responsibility for a defeat. Chess is a game of purest skill, and if you lose at it you can only say that your opponent was a better man. Bridge is not as critical a mirror of your skill. If you win you accept victory as your due for your penetrating knowledge of the game. If you lose it is because of your mysterious but complete inability to get some halfway decent cards. A person playing bridge for the first time could, providing he got the cards, beat Culbertson, Sims, etc.; this, of course, would not be possible at chess. Some persons will point out that in the long run everybody will get hands of equal value. This is true, but this "long run" could last thousands of hands, and I daresay most bridge players would soon tire of trying to establish superiority over an opponent on such proving grounds. A man testing the law of averages once flipped a coin 150,000 times without getting a 50-50 average. The same law of averages applies to card probabilities. The law says there is a tendency toward equalization, but it does not say when it will be realized. The bridge player can always blame his partner for some part of his failure; the chess player cannot. Chess, of course, is also unfixable, a weakness to which bridge is notoriously prone.

The bridge player who would compare the two games to his favor is taking on a big, big job.

BRIDGE PLAYER ALSO.

DANGEROUS SIGNBOARDS.

Lake Geneva, Wis., April 6.—The pictures in Monday's TRIBUNE showing billboards on Roosevelt road at Butterfield should open up the eyes of every person interested in public safety. Having traveled both highways for several years I know what a bad intersection that is, and after the expense of moving the schoolhouse and cutting down the hill I can't see how any property owner could allow signs to be put up on the opposite corner to obstruct view. The countrysides are so covered with billboards that the motorists fail to see the curve and stop signs as well as the rest that are put there for safety, and many serious accidents are the result.

Perhaps if women's clubs and civic groups got together something could be done to elminate this hazard.

A MOTORIST.

Chicago, April 4.—One Andre Crapaud insinuates that French generals planned the battle of Vittorio Veneto and that French officers led the troops. The croakings from the lily pad are demonstrably erroneous.

Foch's title of commander-in-chief of the entire so-called allied forces was ignored by the Italian supreme command. His strategics for the Italian theater of war went unheeded. And for sound reasons.

Paris had caballed with the French high command and kept American soldiers from the Alps. The tableau at the end of the war disclosed: In France, 2,000,000 Americans; in Italy, one regiment [232d field artillery, Ohio], and 1,000 aviators in training.

Furthermore, after Caporetto, Foch declared the Piave line untenable. King Victor and Gen. Cadorna thought otherwise and were sustained. Foch had made another bid for Italian distrust and won it. For the Piave line held. Assistance came after the Austro-Germans were stopped.

It was then that Foch and his satellites visited Italy, presumably for a dish of well turned spaghetti, mindful that Italian youngsters [classes of '98 and '99], instead of his experienced infantry, had fought, bled, and perished that he might gormandize. So much for French super generalship at the Italian front.

What happened at titanic Vittorio Veneto is purely Italian history. The plans were conceived solely by the Italian commander-in-chief, Gen. Armando Diaz, and his aids, Gens. Badoglio and Giardino. They launched fifty-six Italian divisions and five combined so-called allied divisions against a superior enemy. British and French officers were permitted to lead only British and French troops. In less than two weeks Austria sued for peace. Germany collapsed a week later.

Aye, true enough; France owes nothing to Italy, that is, no more or no less than Gallia was indebted to Roma.

At Valhalla the shades of the French high command are consigned to a proper society. But Diaz dines with Scipio Africanus and Alexander the Great.

CAMPAIGN POSTERS.

Chicago, April 5.—In last SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE I read that Commissioner Allman had directed all police captains to watch for any violations of the ordinance which regulates the posting of bills and placards on light poles, trees, streets, etc.

Tuesday, two days after, every light pole on the west side of Cottage Grove avenue between 63d and 64th streets had two large brilliant signs attached soliciting votes for senator.

Would any thoughtful citizen vote for a lawbreaker to become a lawmaker? I wonder. J. Q.

NO DISILLUSIONED DEMOCRATS.

Chicago, April 6.—The most obvious prevarication is the statement of some critics of the present administration that they were former Democrats. I would gamble with my last dime that the authors claiming this sudden transition never even once cast a vote in any but the present and almost extinct minority party. The public is much too enlightened to fall for such bunk. P. L.

New Frock in Junior Sizes

FROCK IN JUNIOR SIZES.

For the teen agers and young women who wear sizes from 11 to 19, this frock is especially designed, and it's a stunning model for spring. It manages to unite a tailored air with plenty of dressy details, and it's the sort of frock one can wear at all times during the day and for informal social events during the evening. What's more, this dress is a practical and versatile one for the schoolgirl's wardrobe, since most of the high school parties are of an informal nature.

There is a rounded shoulder yoke which may be topped with a collar or be built up high and tied with a bow. Shirring emanates from below the yoke into the bodice and the sleeves, which may be either long or short. Ribbon may be applied as shown in the sketch at the right, and the effect is trim, yet dressy.

All types of silk, both printed and plain, make up beautifully, and it's well to consider cotton sheers and wash silks, too, since the warm weather season is not far away, and the laundering problem again will rear its ugly head.

Style No. 2798 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years. Size 15 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with 8½ yards of 1½ inch ribbon.

Lillian Gish Still Favors Long Tresses

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

We talked backstage recently with Lillian Gish, player of the leading rôle in one of Broadway's hits of the season, "Star Wagon." We found her with her waistlength hair hanging, a sight that gladdens the eye unaccustomed to hair rarely ever more than shoulder length. Miss Gish's hair is a beautiful color, too. A silvery ash blonde that she claims has darkened as this type of hair usually does, but it still is, to us, a beautiful silvery-ash tone.

We asked Miss Gish how she managed to survive the temptation to cut the long locks, after she admitted never having succumbed once to the urge for short hair. She explained that her hair had been earning her living for her since she was a youngster and that now she has a superstition about cutting it.

Incidentally, we had been at a smart hair showing previously and observed the coiffures built up high. Mebbe they are coming in, after all the protest. Anyway, we saw a half dozen of them that afternoon and noted a something that won't ever bother Miss Gish. The something was the stray wisps, reminiscent of another day when those stray wisps were the bane of our sex. Today's wisps naturally are the result of hair cut too recently for the high up dressing, so that women who have weathered the scissors storm will be the best models for the high up coiffures.

Miss Gish's silhouette is slim as can be. She is one of those luckies who can eat all and sundry without watching a scale. She thinks, as a consequence, that fat is a matter of glands, not food, although some of the rest of us have good reason to suspect otherwise. No doubt the fact that Miss Gish has been a dancing school fan and attendant since she was a youngster has much to do with her slim figure. She does think dancing good for that, a good exercise for anything. But after taking up fencing her enthusiasms have swung over to it as the perfect exercise for women's figures and also for the eye and mind alertness it encourages, or rather demands. More women are going in for fencing, she reports, realizing it to be one grand all around exercise.

Speaking of dress and best dressed women, Miss Gish recalled a rema, k once made to her about certain women appearing to wear two or even three dresses in one because of the one frock being weighted down with trimming and other gewgaws. Her favorite dress designer is patronized by Miss Gish because of her great skill in turning out a frock completely shorn of those fatal extras.

One superb quality Miss Gish possesses is a great calm, a "quiet," as we choose to call it, and nominate it top place in exposition of charm. Not an excess motion, a useless play of expression, or a distracting gesture.

New Brother of Dionne Quintuplets Is Thriving

CALLANDER, Ont., April 8.—[Special.]—The new brother of the Dionne quintuplets was reported today to be thriving, especially in the development of his lungs in making his wants known. The mother, Mrs. Oliva Dionne, 28 years old, who has borne thirteen children, also was gaining strength. The latest addition to the famous family arrived Monday night in the Dionne farmhouse, a short distance from the nursery where his five celebrated sisters were asleep. He weighed 7¾ pounds.

The Housewife

When you buy a new lampshade it is protected by a wrapping of cellophane ribbon. But this should be removed as it shrinks with heat and will injure the shade.

If you wish to cover the silk with a transparent substitute, get one of the practical new covers that may be wiped off with a damp cloth. These covers are of a pliable film that will not shrink or damage the shade and that will keep it spotlessly clean.

They come in sizes for a junior, a table, or a bridge lamp and are made with elastic at top and bottom so that they may be fitted on easily. And they are inexpensive. EDITH WEIGLE.

Betsy Ballard to Be Bride of Frank F. Fowle

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Ernest S. Ballards of Hubbard Woods, who are engrossed with wedding plans for one daughter, will be making arrangements for the wedding of another daughter within a few months, for today they are announcing the engagement of their eldest daughter, Elisabeth, to Frank Fuller Fowle Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fuller Fowle of Winnetka.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowle will be acquiring two daughters-in-law before long, for their younger son, William Cowper Fowle, is engaged to Miss Antoinette Treadway of Williamstown, Mass.

The eldest Miss Ballard, always called Betsy, and her sister, Susan, who is to be married to Stewart Boal on April 20, were introduced to society at a tea-dance three seasons ago. Miss Betsy, who prepared for college at the Shipley school, was graduated from Bryn Mawr last June at the time that her sister, Susan, was graduated from Vassar.

It is a strange coincidence that Betsy Ballard and young Frank Fowle did not meet until last fall, and neither did Sue Ballard and Stewart Boal, although all four have had their homes in Winnetka. Mr. Fowle has been living in town, however, since he started practicing law in Chicago. He has been sharing bachelor quarters in Dearborn parkway with several young men, among them Charles Edward Rhetts, who is taking Miss Ruth Fisher as his bride today.

Mr. Fowle was graduated from Williams in 1929 and from the Harvard law school in 1932.

Fisher Wedding to Be Quiet One.

The wedding of Miss Fisher and Mr. Rhetts is to be a quiet one at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the living room of the Hubbard Woods home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Walter L. Fisher. Dean Charles Gilkey of the University of Chicago will read the service in the presence of relatives and intimate friends, and the same group will remain to drink a toast to the bride and bridegroom.

Mr. Rhetts and his bride were planning to fly to Mexico on their wedding trip, but their plans will depend on weather conditions. His parents, Dr. and Mrs. John E. Rhetts of Salem, Ind., are coming from Florida, where they have been spending the winter, and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Tilton, will be here from Detroit.

Miss Margaret Fisher will be her sister's only attendant, and James Rowek of Washington, D. C., is to be best man.

Mr. Rhetts and his bride will make their home in Hubbard Woods.

Paulman-Dille Nuptials Tonight.

The wedding of Miss Jayne Paulman, daughter of Mrs. Henry Paulman of Kenwood avenue, to John Flint Dille Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Flint Dille of Evanston, will take place this evening in the home of the bride's mother. There will be a reception following the ceremony.

Mrs. Louis J. Stirling of Highland Park, the bride's sister, and Miss Heath Horton will attend the bride. Gordon Clarke of Oklahoma will be best man. Mr. Dille and his bride will go to Bermuda on their wedding trip.

Bernard Mooney to Wed Easterner.

Dean John T. Madden of New York and Orange, N. J., announces the engagement of his daughter, Annette, to Bernard John J. Mooney of Chicago, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. John T. Mooney of Jersey City.

Miss Madden was graduated from the Dearborn Morgan school. She attended Trinity and Barnard colleges and was graduated from New York university.

Mr. Madden is dean of the school of commerce, accounts and finance of New York university and director of the Institute of International Finance. He is also president of the International Accounts society in Chicago.

Mr. Mooney was graduated from St. Peter's preparatory school and Georgetown university. His father was a noted surgeon of Jersey City, and an uncle, the late Rt. Rev. Msgr. James F. Mooney, was president of Seton Hall college in South Orange, N. J.

Tell Engagement of Phyllis Swenson.

Of interest this morning is the announcement of the engagement of Miss Phyllis Swenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel R. Swenson of Evanston, to William Robert White Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Robert White of Chicago.

Miss Swenson was graduated from Penn Hall Junior college in Chambersburg, Pa., and later studied at Northwestern university. Mr. White will be graduated this June from Northwestern university. No date has been set for the wedding.

The wedding of Miss Ruth Griffenhagen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin O. Griffenhagen of 56 East Elm street, to Dr. Elbert Newton Dupuy, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Dupuy of Beckley, W. Va., will take place on May 7 at 7:30 o'clock in the John Timothy Stone chapel of the Fourth Presbyterian church. The Rev. Harrison Ray Anderson will read the service in the presence of the family and a few intimate friends.

Miss Elinor Griffenhagen, sister of the bride, will be maid of honor, and Dr. Dupuy's brother, Stuart Dupuy, will be the best man. David Bicknell Truman, cousin of the bride, and Raymond Paul Griffenhagen will be the ushers. A reception following the ceremony will be held in the home of the bride's parents.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Take the Stand, Paul Muni

Hollywood, Cal., April 8.

Q.—Paul, how much advance preparation and study did you devote to the characterization of Emile Zola before you brought it to the screen?

Paul Muni tells his story.

A.—I labored on it for about six months, Ed. I read five books that had been written about him and another volume on Dreyfus, which contained a lot of material on Zola. Then I got the complete transcript of the trial, sheafs and sheafs of court records that would add up to several volumes by themselves. I was most interested in the testimony, because that was Zola himself, not as an author pictured him, but as he actually talked and reacted.

Q.—From that vast background you found the character colorings you were seeking. Then you went before the cameras?

A.—No, after that there were more weeks of work. Then I went over the complete script, reading every part into the dictograph and playing it back to hear the way it played as a whole. After that I took my own lines and learned them, just as words. By that time the thing was shaping up in my own mind. I was ready then to start learning the inflections that each line should have, to extract its fullest values.

Q.—Have you always worked so conscientiously on every picture?

A.—I'm thinking of the first picture I ever made out here, Ed, "The Valiant." That was in 1928. We had completed one reel and a half of it, when William Fox arrived in town. The next day I was notified that the picture had been halted.

I learned later that Fox looked at the rushes and tore out his hair. "Who hired that actor?" he demanded. "He has no sex appeal; the girls won't accept him as a lover."

Not that I blamed him. I was rugged rather than handsome, the movies were in the half zone between silent pictures and talking pictures, and leading men had to be Adonises. I didn't qualify.

Q.—What happened?

A.—Winnie Sheehan, who had brought me to the coast, persuaded Fox to let us finish the picture, on the economic grounds that the sets had been built, part of it had been completed and that it could always be shelved as a last resort. So Fox consented reluctantly, but the budget was trimmed down to the bone and the completed picture was only four reels and a half long.

Q.—They shelved it, of course?

A.—No, they released it, and it was a Cinderella success. The critics really got on the band wagon. Then S. L. Rothapfel, Roxy, launched a big exploitation campaign and held the picture over at the Roxy theater for two weeks. In those days the whole country accepted the verdict of the Roxy theater as final, so "The Valiant" was a success.

A.—But it was a boomerang. Winnie Sheehan believed he could make another Lon Chaney out of me and tried it in my next picture, "Seven Faces." It was a terrific flop.

Q.—You were then known as Muni Weisenfreund?

A.—No, Fox changed my name to Paul Muni when they brought me out from the east in 1928. I had been on the Broadway stage in "We Americans" and "Four Walls" as Muni Weisenfreund, and previous to that in the Jewish theater. Sheehan signed me after "We Americans." I think we were at the Eltinge theater when I made the test for Joe Pincus.

Q.—How long had you been on the stage, Paul, up to the moment you signed a Fox contract?

A.—Since I was 12 years old, in Cleveland, playing in sketches with my mother and father. My two brothers played in the pit orchestra. I'm 42 now, so that's thirty years ago.

Q.—Then you really were born in a wardrobe trunk?

A.—Yes, my parents trouped all over Europe. I was born at Lembourg, Austria, where my father had taken his little company for a performance. I was 6 years old when we came to America. We lived on the east side, at Suffolk and Rivington, then Brooklyn, then Cleveland, and then Chicago. I played in vaudeville then, later joined a burlesque company in Philadelphia and finally went to Boston to join Molly Picon's company.

Q.—At Boston?

A.—Yes, but it was a short lived engagement. The influenza epidemic started there, schools and theaters were closed, and all public assemblies prohibited by the board of health. So I returned to New York and joined the Yiddish theater again, downtown at the Irving Place theater. It was there that Sam H. Harris signed me for my first Broadway show, "We Americans." Say, this must be very boring.

Q.—I should say not. What did you enjoy most on your six months in Europe?

A.—That's difficult to answer, Ed—we saw so much in a short space of time. I would say that Palestine thrilled me most deeply. I don't say that because I am a Jew; I'd have been as deeply stirred by any race of people doing what they are doing in Palestine, voluntarily hazarding their lives for an ideal. You know, nobody ever has doubted the intellectual bravery of the Jew, but his physical bravery has been questioned.

In Palestine they have proved their physical bravery. Of the corps of 400 bus drivers [all transportation is by bus] not one ever has refused to go out on his daily assignment, although they are ambushed and killed day after day. That, of course, is only one highlight of the complete picture, but the bravery and idealism is compelling.

Q.—What are you going to do now, Paul?

A.—Well, if you promise not to tell a soul, I'm going to the dentist and get some work done, and if he uses a drill on my teeth I'll hit him right on the head.

Q.—Is he a big dentist or a little dentist?

"THE WEDDING OF PALO."

Good Morning!

It is a picture of arctic life, filmed in Greenland by the late arctic explorer, Knud Rasmussen, and it offers an interesting glimpse into the life and habits of the Eskimos, the while it sings of romance between two of the natives.

The film has moments of thrill and, possibly, some laughs for the not too blasé. . . . You will be interested in watching the man catch and spear a large white bear; a ridiculing contest; a devil doctor in action; Palo paddling his kayak through rushing waters in the teeth of a hurricane in order to reach his beloved.

Some of the scenery is lovely. The naive acting is perpetrated by a cast of natives, all of whom live in eastern Greenland.

Exhibit Tells What Artists Think of Law

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

"Our Learned Friends," an exhibition of prints and drawings dealing with the law, is on view in the Ackermann galleries, 408 South Michigan avenue, to May 1

It is rather difficult to find pictures which deal solely with the law, but the present group is a most successful achievement. Lawyers, judges, and clients are seen in both tragic and comic guise—and a few are permitted to retain their dignity.

It is nearly impossible in these days to come upon signed etchings by W. Dendy Sadler, one of the few great etchers who concerned himself with prosecution and defense. There are several signed proofs, including "The Lawyer" and "Plaintiff and Defendant," in the current show. Another important contribution to the exhibition is the large group of water color drawings by S. Van Abbe. These are stunning and not witfiout humor.

Among the original dry points by Van Abbe is the rarest of the series, "The Judgment"—it is magnificent.

Going for a few minutes into an atmosphere of purest imagination, we find Edmund Blampied has drawn a dog's court. All the members in it, from the accused to the judge and the jury, are delightful doggy individuals of various breeds. The name of this striking incident is "For she'd spoken lightly of another lady's name." The merits of the case are left to your own decision.

The All Illinois Society of the Fine Arts is sponsoring the exhibition of portraits and paintings by Charles H. Kellner, which will remain on view at the Drake hotel through April 30.

An exhibit of water colors by American painters is hanging in the Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers, to April 21. Among the Chicago artists represented are Julius Moessel, Florence White Williams, J. Jeffrey Grant, and Albert H. Krehbiel.

In a separate case are installed several miniature palettes of well-known artists. Wayman Adams has decorated his with a Rembrandt-like head, wearing a ruff; Bruce Crane has painted an exquisite little landscape on his palette; Wilford S. Conroy has tempted fate by introducing the portrait of a girl, and Jeffrey Grant gives us a Gloucester sketch.

Swedish Crown Prince and Princess Will Be Guests of Chicago

Plans for entertaining Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden and Crown Princess Louise with an outdoor reception when they arrive here on July 16 were announced last night by Gosta Oldenburg, Swedish consul.

Mr. Oldenburg told of the forthcoming visit of the royal couple, who will tour the United States, at the Forefather's day dinner at the Swedish club in celebration of the 300th anniversary of the landing of the first Swedish colonists in America. Swedish-American tercentenary observances were held also in more than 1,000 other Swedish communities throughout the country.

The day also marked the opening of a national campaign to provide a $750,000 endowment fund for the American Swedish Historical museum in Philadelphia, shrine of Swedish American culture in America. Herbert R. Hedman is chairman of the Chicago tercentenary committee.

Believes Rural Outlook Might Steady Birth Rate

A return to the rural outlook on life is the only immediate hope for checking the decline of the birth rate, O. E. Baker told the conference on agriculture and modern life at Northwestern university yesterday. Mr. Baker, senior agricultural economist in the department of agriculture, said: "In rural communities there is a place for the child and a place for the aged, but the cities want only the youth and the middle-aged."

Lovely Chiffon Nightgowns Go on Dance Dates

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Career girl specials are the best fun in town! Whether you sleuth for slick daytime outfits that don't cost a pretty penny, expensive looking coats with the accent on the "looking," or underlayers as luxurious in appearance as peak price trifles, such loot is obtainable and easy to own. Without making any visible dent in the budget you can get costume accessories that are bright and amusing and that will work magic with otherwise dull clothes.

But the latest finds are really finds. It's the double duty nightgowns again, ready for festive occasions, especially dancing parties.

Pleated chiffon this time, no less, in four colors, and two models. The more expensive model has a midriff of fitted plain chiffon, with a flattering bodice top and shirred folds over the shoulder. The skirt is wide and swirls in a grand manner. The price hovers around $17 and the colors are a heavenly blue shade like hydrangea blossoms, shell pink that is a true shell pink, a white called dove white, and black, the last obtainable on order.

The other model is priced around $13. In these the skirt is pleated, not quite so full as the other numbers, and the bodice top is formed by crossed pleated sections that are shirred into a very narrow line at the shoulder. They're positively the best finds of any spring season. They're made without a smidge of trim or lace or frill, and worn with a lace marabou or uncurled ostrich jacket, they look as spring as a daffodil.

Some pastel printed satin beauties, made in the same fetching manner, are available, but the chiffons will take your party dress money.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

If it's true that dizzy hats are here to stay—and all signs point that way—we think something ought to be done to improve the contour of the average feminine chin and throat. A double chin behind a little under-the-chin bow is pretty hard to take. And those ducky little hats that perch on the eyebrows just don't do if the neck is thick or lined or if there is a "dowager's hump" comfortably ensconced on the shoulder blades!

It all seems to us a golden opportunity for those beauty salons that are trying to induce women to take professional treatments. Certainly consistent treatments can do plenty for the sagging chin and the crêpy neck. They're far more effective than any home efforts.

And when it comes to the shoulder hump which is so incongruous beneath a gaga hat you again have a talking point for salon corrective work. Corrective exercise, plenty of deep massage and perhaps cabinet treatment of some sort seem to be the only combination that really brings about the desired result of remolding.

The new fashions, any way you look at it, call for young figures and youthful faces. Styles are perky and bright in line and wonderfully mad in color. The dumpy woman hasn't a chance in the world of wearing them with success.

The evening fashions, in particular, call for the slim, streamlined silhouette. The suggestion of drape, of slit skirt, and of "swing" are trying unless the figure is well proportioned and there is infinite litheness in the step of the wearer.

SYNOPSIS.

Karen Gilbert meets Gordon Stone returning to Barranca after eight years in prison. Gordon was framed by Karen's ruthless uncle and guardian, Lyn Gilbert, owner of Bar B B ranch, and his foreman, Curt Ford. Because Karen has a friend take her to the hideout of Gordon and Jack Turnbull and warn them in time to save them from a posse of Gilbert's riders her uncle imprisons her at his ranch. Gordon and Jack start a campaign against Gilbert. The affidavit of Line Conway, who was kept by threats from coming to Gordon's aid, is published in the Courier. It accuses Gilbert and Ford. Gilbert hires his rider, Cheyenne, to rub Line out. Gordon rescues Karen from the ranch. Driving back he discovers a band of Gilbert's men rustling cattle for Curt Ford. He captures one of them. The cattle belong to Gordon's uncle, John Fleming, owner of the J F ranch. Gordon leaves Karen and his prisoner with his uncle. Then, heading a band of men, he rounds up the other rustlers. Gilbert offers Cheyenne Karen's hand in marriage if he will kill Gordon. Gordon, with his uncle and Dave Landers, a rancher, accompany Karen to town, where she is to stay with a friend, Rhoda Pinckney.

INSTALMENT XXX.

OPEN CHALLENGE.

Gordon realized that he had been fortunate. The sworn statements of Lincoln Conway and Parke Rogers had shaken the security of Gilbert by changing whispered suspicion into open challenge.

"Glad you came to town and showed yoreself, son," Jasper said. "It knocks into a cocked hat all Lyn's talk about you being an outlaw holed up in the hills. And when you caught that bunch of plug-uglies runnin' off yore uncle's stock it didn't help Gilbert's rep any with honest folks."

Venner nodded agreement. "That's right, Stone. You're showing sense. You might have killed two-three of these Bar B B warriors and got away with it. But you didn't. People understand now that you've got plenty of gravel in your gizzard but are nót on the prod looking for trouble. Lyn is about as popular as a wet dog at a church social, but until you showed up it has been many a year since anybody stood up to him. I'm not criticizing him, you understand, but mentioning points that occur to me."

"I'll criticize him from hell to breakfast," Jasper exploded. "For a long time we've run our boot heels over sidesteppin' any difficulty with Czar Gilbert. Till this lad showed up we all had a streak of yellow down our backs a foot wide."

The hardware merchant picked up his cards. "Who dealt?" he asked.

Gordon understood this to be a hint that the conversation was becoming too publicly partisan. "Don't let me interrupt the game, gentlemen," he said. "I'll read a paper while I wait for my uncle and Mr. Landers, if I may."

Half an hour later old John Fleming and the owner of the Scissors outfit came into the room. Gordon rose and his uncle stamped across to meet him. Anger flamed in the bright eyes of the cowman.

"We met Curt Ford on the street," he burst out, half the room still between him and his nephew. "He served notice on you to get outa town or to come a-shootin' when you met."

"Curt had been drinking," Landers explained.

With mind divided Jasper trumped his partner's king and lost the rubber. "If that brand-blotter has served notice he'll have to go through, Gordon," the old man warned over his shoulder, chair tilted back on its rear legs. "You want to go heeled. Have some one trail along behind you to see he doesn't get you in the back."

"That will be fine," Gordon said dryly, "if Mr. Ford wants to leave."

"We came in to talk with the district attorney," Fleming mentioned. "We haven't seen him yet. Our appointment is at five. After we have done our business in town I expect we'll go."

The district attorney, Driscoll, met the three Kettle Hills men with cool reserve. He was youngish, well dressed, with more than a hint of the supercilious in his manner. Seated in the office when the ranchmen arrived was Sheriff Scott, middle aged and heavy set, a politician who scattered smiles promiscuously.

Driscoll indicated chairs.

"I understand you have come in to surrender," he said to Stone.

"Exactly what is the charge against me?"

"While resisting arrest at the hands of a lawfully appointed posse you shot down, with intent to kill, a deputy named Oscar Carlson, familiarly known as Yorky."

"A Bar B B cow hand, isn't he?"

"That has nothing to do with it. He was a special deputy appointed by Sheriff Scott."

"There were about eight men in that posse," Gordon said, his cold gaze challenging Scott. "Can you name one who was not a Bar B B rider, in the pay of my enemy, Lyn Gilbert?"

"If you had been a law officer long as I have, Gordon, you would understand a fellow has to get his posses where he can find them."

"It must be nice to have some one like Gilbert to get them for you."

"All this is outside the record," Driscoll said impatiently. "Have you or have you not come to give yourself up, Stone?"

"You are in a hurry, Driscoll. We came here to talk things over. You know as well as I do that two first class unprejudiced witnesses—Hal Ferguson and Miss Karen Gilbert—are prepared to testify this posse of Bar B B warriors attacked us and in their opinion intended to wipe out me and Jack Turnbull. One of the posse, Parke Rogers, has since declared under oath that the orders given them by the cowboy Cheyenne were not to bring us back alive."

"That statement has since been repudiated by Rogers," the district attorney snapped. "He tells me it was obtained under pressure, with a rope around his neck."

"I expected that," Gordon countered. "Does he deny that he was caught in the act of rustling my uncle's cows, along with three other members of this fine posse of Sheriff Scott?"

"They all deny it."

"When we took them back to the J F ranch they did not deny it. Miss Gilbert was one of those who heard them practically admit it. No doubt they tell a different story now."

"They are nothing but a bunch of damned rustlers," Fleming cried indignantly. "Why wouldn't they try to lie out of the jam they're in?"

"Do you mean that you're not going to prosecute them, Mr. Driscoll?" asked Landers.

"When I'm shown the evidence against these men I'll examine it and see how strong it is," the district attorney responded. "Until then you can't hurrah me into telling you what I'm going to do."

"Maybe you'll tell me what you mean to do about me," Gordon said. "I'm here. The sheriff is here. Is he going to arrest me and throw me in the calaboose?"

Driscoll did not answer at once. He was in a tight spot. Gilbert did not want Stone arrested. There would be an outcry against it, in view of recent developments.

"If I released you in care of your uncle, to be delivered to me whenever I ask it——"

"Better put the cuffs on me, now you have me," Gordon interrupted with a satiric smile. He appreciated perfectly the position of the district attorney. The offer of the hunted man to surrender was embarrassing. Out in the hills he could be played up as a lawless criminal, but under lock and key he would be a liability.

"No, I won't do that. I'll ask Mr. Fleming to go bond for your appearance."

"I'll guarantee it, but I won't put up any security," Fleming said. He, too, realized that Driscoll was in a hole.

"You promise that when I want him Stone will give himself up?"

Foster Mother Wants to Stop Caring for Girl

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Perhaps you can help me. I am at a loss for a decision.

I have a niece five years old who is at present living with me. I am trying to be a mother to her because her own mother and father do not want her. They have been divorced and each does not want to be bothered with her. The custody was awarded to the mother and she, because of her need to work, is unable to take care of her. The father was ordered to pay $5 per week toward the child's support for which he displays contempt by not doing as he should. Therefore, there is continuous trouble in collecting from him.

"I, myself am married but seven months and she has been with me for five and one-half months. Here is the situation. I am 24 and have no children of my own as yet and I am now tied down through my own desire [so to speak] for I had requested that if my mother, with whom the baby recently was living, didn't want her, I would take her and I intended to adopt her. However, that does cost money and I haven't got it. So now I am tired of scolding, nagging, and punishing a little girl of five years old and I feel the best thing for her would be to reside with her father who is now married again. As things go, her father does not want her in his home. He wishes to place her in some women's home and let her be taken care of by them.

"Would I be selfish if I let her go? What is your opinion?

"If the mother of the child marries she will not take the child to live with her because she claims the child reminds her of the father who was a very unpleasant memory.

"Do you think I should give up my friends, etc, because of the necessity and responsibility I am compelled to have for the child, for she must be taken care of and might get into some mischief if left alone? In order to be a mother, I realize that I must give up a lot of pleasant times because of lack of sufficient money to pay for a woman to stay with her.

"Please tell me what you think best. What would you do? Would you allow a child to go back to people she does not belong to, or do you advise her staying with people she is related to? Would you give up your friends, be unable to go places, be unable to finish a career for a nice little girl whom you can talk to until your face turns blue and although she looks at you, you know she doesn't hear a word you say, although she hears well?

"Would you advise me to rear the child? In so doing I shall be unable to go out much with my husband, in due course may lose him because it is not his child, nor is it mine. It is my sister's, but she is doing nothing about it, so that I feel why shoud I?"

"Would you ask your readers for opinions on what is right for me to do?"

How to Make Own Water Softener.

V. K.: There are water softeners on the market. Yes, you can make your own by using bran. Boil a pound of bran in a gallon of water, strain, and add enough of the mixture to the water to make it milky.

their new Lake Bluff home, have dug themselves out sufficiently to be able to give a luncheon party tomorrow. Her sister, Mrs. John Bitter, is expected the end of next month or early in June for a visit.

Mr. Bitter will arrive toward the end of his wife's visit to spend a few days. The Bitters live half the year in New York and the other six month in Jacksonville, Fla., where he is conductor of the Jacksonville Symphony orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Bruner of 6844 Jeffery avenue announce the birth of their first child, a son, yesterday at the Chicago Lying-In hospital. Mrs. Bruner was Miss Marjorie Williamson.

Polo Tournament to Open Tonight.

Winston Guest and his New York Optimists are playing in New York tonight against the New York Athletic club team, and whichever one wins will appear here next Wednesday in the senior division championships. Whether Mr. Guest's team wins or not, he is coming west, arriving next Tuesday.

Mrs. S. Prentice Porter's name has been added to the list of women who are forming a committee to entertain the players' wives.

The youngest player competing is Walter Hayden, 16, who plays with the Blue Hill Farm team. His brother, Pete, who is 18, also plays on the team, and both boys had to leave their classes at the Episcopal academy in Philadelphia to appear in the tournament.

Another young man playing is H. Dean Hopper, called "Bud," a student at Lafayette college, who is on the Ridgewood, N. J., team. His father, Dr. Earl Hopper, also is a member of the team.

Count de Gramedo Wins Riding Award.

Mrs. Harry Spenser-Brown has received word that her grandson, young Count Jean de Gramedo, who is at college in Switzerland, received during a three day vacation spent in Paris the gold medal for horsemanship at the Concours Hippique.

Such an award at his age is rare, for the Concours Hippique, given annually in Paris, is the most difficult exposition and examination of riding there. He was awarded the bronze and silver medals previously. The young count, whose mother is Countess Edouard de Gramedo of Paris, is preparing for the cavalry school at Saumur and for the army.

Kent S. Clows Go to California.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent S. Clow left Thursday for Pasadena, Cal. Their son, Peter, who is at the Los Alamos school in Santa Fe, will be with them during his Easter vacation. Mr. and Mrs. Clow will return to Lake Forest shortly after Easter.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Morse left Thursday for California to visit Mr. Morse's father, S. F. B. Morse, at Pebble Beach. They will also spend some time in San Francisco before their return to Lake Forest the latter part of this month.

Mrs. Clymer S. Bowen, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sumner B. Ely in Pittsburgh, will arrive at home on April 15.

Miss Lorraine-Marie Roach went to Hobe Sound, Fla., to visit her uncle and aunt, the Ralph Clearys of Highland Park, for her spring holidays from Sarah Lawrence college. She will visit at the Boca Raton club before returning to her studies.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bowman of Evanston are sailing from Boston today on the S. S. Lady Hawkins for Bermuda, where they will spend Easter. From Bermuda they will go to Tobago Island, near Trinidad, to visit their son and daughter-in-law, the Heath Bowmans, who are spending the winter there. The younger Mr. Bowman, who is engaged in writing a novel, and his wife will not return to Chicago until June.

If one would like to know what difference religion makes it is only necessary to study the history of the nations to find out. This suggestion was made yesterday by the Rev. Armin C. Weng of Elgin, president of the Illinois synod of the United Lutheran church, as he spoke at the Chicago Temple where noonday Lenten services are being conducted by the Chicago Church federation.

"When the religion of a nation was of a superior type, the nation progressed and made many advances," said the Rev. Mr. Weng. "When the religion was inferior there was a steady decay both in national life, morals, and customs. Religion does something to people. We think of the noblest characters who have lived in the last 2,000 years and we find that their inspiration came from Christ.

"One reason he had to come into the world is because the pagan gods were inadequate. Zeus, chief of Greek gods, was called the father of lust and lies. Vulcan limped, Saturn was in fetters, Pan was hoofed like a horse. Only Christ can meet the needs of the world.

RECOVERING A TRICK.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

To have a trick ruffed away usually is a tragedy. But this is not always the case. There may be liberal compensation, assuming, of course, that a player has the skill to take advantage of the opportunity created by the ruff.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	2 clubs
2 hearts	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the club ten. East won and promptly shifted to his singleton diamond. West took the ace and returned the queen. Although declarer could sense what was coming, there was no escape, so he played dummy's king and, as per his gloomy expectation, East ruffed. A trump was returned. Declarer won, ruffed his remaining club, and then rattled off every trump until this situation was reached:

The last trump lead made West discard a spade in order to keep the high diamond. Dummy's diamond then was discarded. East, in order to mask his spade holding as much as possible, let go the club king, but declarer could not be put off the track. His one chance for contract after the ruff had been to find West with the spade queen. [It already had been revealed that West would have to hold a high diamond to overlay declarer's ten spot.] Declarer now cashed the spade king and then finessed on the second round. Dummy's ten holding, the ace was laid down, felling the queen. The fulfilling trick was made with the spade jack.

Full House at Orchestra Concert Despite Weather

Who cares for snow and wind when the Chicago Symphony orchestra and Lotte Lehmann are giving a program of Beethoven and Wagner music? No one, apparently, judging by the absence of unoccupied seats in Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon. There may have been some who found it impossible to be in their accustomed Friday afternoon seats, but at least they did not allow the seats to go unoccupied.

I'm going to turn the tables on readers today and ask them for recipes. We have been unable to find the recipes for dishes about which several other readers have asked and I think that a general call for help may bring them out of hiding.

1. Does any one have a recipe for a yeast raised dough which is baked in the heavy type of pan used for Danish ableskiver [I think that's the way it's spelled]? The reader who makes the request says that a very old German woman once told her mother about this delicacy, which somewhat resembles a doughnut when finished. She believes it's called "pfurten."

2. Does any reader have a recipe for a tomato purée pudding? We have tomato soup cakes, but no tomato purée puddings. If you have one will you please send us a copy?

We'll be grateful for either of these recipes.

Lord Baltimore Cake.
[Three 9-Inch Layers.]

2½ cups sifted cake flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
1¼ cups sugar
8 egg yolks
¾ cup milk
½ teaspoon lemon extract

Sift flour, measure, and resift three or four times with baking powder. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add the egg yolks which have been beaten until thick and lemon colored. Beat well. Add flour alternately with milk, beating well after each addition. Add lemon flavoring. Bake in three greased layer pans in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 25 minutes. Put layers together with any filling desired and cover with 7 minute or boiled frosting.

Lord Baltimore Filling.

1 tablespoon light corn sirup
½ cup water
2 egg whites, beaten stiff
¼ teaspoon orange juice
2 teaspoons lemon juice
12 candied cherries, chopped
½ cup macaroon crums
½ cup chopped blanched almonds
¼ cup chopped pecans

Combine sugar, corn sirup, and water and cook to the thread or soft ball stage, 240 degrees. Pour sirup in a fine stream over the beaten egg whites, beating constantly. Add fruit juice to crums, cherries, and nuts and combine the two mixtures. Cool and spread. This is enough filling to top three layers.

KNEADING BREAD DOUGH—How long to knead is a problem which perplexes many breadmakers who don't have the success they feel they should have with yeast breads. Light and gentle kneading should continue until the dough feels smooth and satiny. The dough is apt to feel somewhat sticky at the beginning of kneading, but this is not an indication of too little flour. As kneading continues the dough develops elasticity and the stickiness disappears.

Planning Lenten meals is no problem if you have plenty of good recipes for meatless main dishes. "Pleasant Meals for Lent," a booklet prepared by Mary Meade, has many such recipes to help the meal planner. This booklet is on sale for 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Or inclose 5 cents in stamps in a letter to Mary Meade and the booklet will be mailed to you promptly.

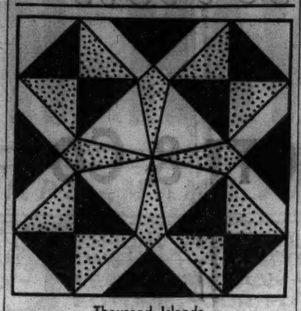
Thousand Islands Commemorated in This Pieced Quilt



Thousand Islands.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Thousand Islands" is one of the more modern and highly interesting pieced blocks. It comes from eastern Canada by way of North Dakota, and was set together to commemorate the beauty of nature's phenomenon. To incorporate the natural colors surrounding the islands is well nigh an impossible task, but with the materials at hand the original quilt, "Thousand Islands," is a reputable achievement. Thirty 13½ inch pieced blocks are set together, forming an allover design, and surrounded by an 11½ inch white border and a half inch bias binding.

Girl Writes Sage Advice to Families

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The following letter speaks for itself and I think will be of interest not only to the parents who read this column, but to many of the young people who follow it and who are in their middle teens.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: After reading your article I decided to write and perhaps help these parents in the matter of their children's social life.

"I am a young girl, 22 [which might seem young to be offering suggestions], who has been allowed a great many pleasures during her school life. My folks were not overlenient, but never stood in the way of our good times, yet when they said to be home at a certain hour we were home. We always voiced our opinions, too. I now to this day will ask my parents' permission to go out. Not that it is necessary, but I rely on their judgment of my young friends and the places they frequent.

"Since last October I have been teaching a young group of my cousin's friends how to dance. They range in age from 14 to 16. It is a mixed group and all attend the same school and live near one another. They meet once a week on a Friday or Saturday night. These young people have grand times and because they are meeting together like this now, will be able to conduct themselves like perfect ladies and gentlemen when the time comes later on for them to go to large dances and proms.

"I am sure more girls of my age would be willing and glad to have an opportunity to be in charge of a young group of children like this. These young people of mine meet at each other's homes where their parents are glad to meet their children's acquaintances.

"We don't always dance; we play games, go on hikes, and numerous other things. Sometimes there are more boys than girls and sometimes the other way around, but there is never any uneasiness, for they never couple off. Every one mixes in and every one has a good time.

"Unless there is something special to celebrate, such as a birthday or holiday, they are all home at 12 or perhaps earlier. Refreshments are served, which are usually cake and coffee. After hiking the mothers usually make soup.

"Parents should encourage this sort of fun. My folks did and my friends still feel they are welcome and like to come. Our home was always open and will always be open to my friends. If parents encourage this feeling they will not have boys who hang around corners getting mixed up in the wrong kind of crowd, nor will their daughters sneak out to meet their friends on corners, or in the shows.

"Encourage your children to tell you all about the parties and the dances they attend. Memories are a great thing.

"Perhaps others won't agree with what I have written, but I can honestly say I don't drink, smoke, or use profane language and I have plenty of good times in the right way. I have many happy memories in which my folks have played a great part. I hope this letter may help some parents."

A Rare Beauty Adds Power to a Simple Story

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Yearling," by Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings. [Scribners, $2.50.] April choice of the Book of the Month club.

"The Yearling" is such a book as one rarely meets—as simple and real as the primitive "pine island" where its characters live their lives. It tells of a settler's family in the wild mid-Florida in the '70s, of a father nicknamed Penny because he was physically small, but big in all the things that count; of a bitter tongued mother who had buried one after another of the babies she had borne, and with them all of the laughter of her soul; and of Jody, their 12 year old son, untutored in school learning, but knowledgeful in all the ways of the good life in the wilderness.

That life lives with beautiful reality in these pages. The joys of hunting and fishing for daily fare are no soft idyl, however. Rattlesnakes menace the settlers, and bears mangle the sow so vital to their livelihood.

It is a rattlesnake bite which produces almost the only plot to the book. Jody is passionately eager all of his young life for something of his own to love, a baby 'possum, or a white squirrel, or any small wild thing to which he can become protector and god [as his father is to him]. But his mother is adamant about another mouth to feed when it is so pitifully hard to feed their own. Jody finally gets his pet as tragedy threatens the little family. The father, bitten by a rattlesnake, uses the liver of a doe which he shoots to draw out the venom of the snake, and Jody is permitted to feed the fawn in payment for its mother's sacrifice.

Jody's love for his fawn and the fawn's devotion to him is one of the most touching boy-animal relationships in literature. Its culmination in the inevitable coming of age of both reaches classic poignancy, for there is no false or sloppy sentimentality in these pages.

"The Yearling" is written in dialect, a racy, uncouth speech, full of vividness. Vivid, too, are the Forresters, neighboring settlers, who are a violent, passionate, moonshining family, with only "Fodder-wing," the twisted, fated youngest boy, knowing gentleness.

But despite everything—as Penny says in explaining why he chose that particular wild spot, "I jest craved peace. . . . Out here I got it, excusin' the bears, and panthers, and wolves, and wild cats, and, now and ag'in, your ma"—there is in these pages a strange and true peace.

Thornton Wilder Play Is Convincingly Real.

Thornton Wilder's play, which has taken New York by its critical ears and told it something new and unforgettable, has just reached the widespread audience of the devotees to his novels. Few plays read with the conviction with which they play; probably only the great ones do. "Our Town" has the sort of poignant truth in its pages that must convince any reader.

There is no scenery, except as the reader creates it with his own imagination. In it time is as fluid as a river flowing into the sea, and the years mere drops dipped from its long course, with no sequence of chronology.

Broadly, in the first act the two leading characters are children. In the second they are married. In the third the wife joins the group of dead watching beside her newly made grave, and then goes back to live a few hours of her twelfth birthday. But all through the play time shifts backward and forward in what might be bewilderment, but which really is perfectly simple exposition with a rudimentary simplicity and in the last act a cumulative poignancy that tears at heartstrings.

In the second act both the boy and the girl, about to be married, break down emotionally. . . . Which may be and probably is good theater, but which is, as one reads it, the only hint of a false note in the whole sparse New England rectitude of plot and expression.

A Shade Too Clever Without the Acting.

One of the year's most brilliant theatrical successes, interpreted by Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt, has finally reached us in book form. It has some lush laughs and an occasional titter as it records the attempt of Jupiter to seduce a faithful wife and her carefully parried quips. "Amphitryon 38" is, in its English adaptation, a play that blossoms in the seeing rather than in the reading. It is a shade too self-consciously clever without the acting.

Noted Irish Novelist's Book of Short Stories.

"A Purse of Coppers," by Sean O'Faolain. [Viking, $2.50.]

This well named book of short stories by Sean O'Faolain [pronounced Shawn O'Fayle] is a collection of incidental pieces from the pen of one of Ireland's ablest novelists.

Most of the fourteen stories in the book concern life in Ireland today; they tell of those who disapprove the changes brought about in Irish social, political, and economic life since the abolition of the more obvious aspects of British rule, and of those who hopefully accept the same developments.

Two tales, "The Old Master" and "Sullivan's Trousers," are biting enough to give complacent Irishmen a turn. O'Faolain, however, is never bitter. Humor and a sympathetic feeling for his characters are expressed in rich language, the like of which is not matched by many contemporary writers. The longest piece, "A Born Genius," best shows this in the story of a young man's failure to become a great singer.

The impish pranks of three boys in a church, an aged nun who is shunned by her sisters, and a French sailor seeking love in the Connemara hills are subjects of perhaps the book's most sparkling and amusing stories. All fourteen tales, however, are worth the look into the purse that will bring them to light.

"The Wild Goose Chase," by Rex Warner. [Knopf, $2.75.]

Here, in this day of realism and surrealism, is a refreshing mental stimulant. It is an allegory whose originality and expert handling make it outstanding. The wild goose is a symbol of what man may achieve if he puts forth the best that is in him.

The locale of this story is a land beyond the frontier, where few venture and whence none returns. The problems of the mythical people who dwell there can well be applied to modern situations, but the author lets the reader do this for himself.

Free Press Triumph in World War Days.

"Underground News," by Oscar E. Millard. [McBride, $2.75.]

Any one who snorts at the idea of a free press may well take heed from this book. When the Germans moved into Belgium they bought all the newspapers that would continue to publish and ordered the news that was to appear. The news did not, as may be imagined, present the allies in a particularly favorable light.

"La Libre Belgique," according to Oscar Millard, all but drove the German authorities, including the kaiser, to desperation. The men who refused to be dominated by the Germans got out, every week, a paper for the Belgians. Even though the Germans brought in their best counter-espionage agents from Berlin, the paper continued to appear. The conquerors destroyed the original publishers and circulation agents, but they never succeeded in destroying the paper. It lived to salute the Belgian king with 200,000 copies.

Young Soviet Writer's First Novel in English.

"Tonia," by Yuri Herman. [Knopf, $2.50.]

"Tonia," the first novel by the young Russian writer, Yuri Herman, to be translated into English, tells how a daughter of the revolution found happiness in the communistic scheme. Orphaned at 16, Tonia fails twice to escape from loneliness and boredom by the good old bourgeois route of marriage. Eventually she finds happiness in her work in a child welfare center. Incidentally, what the inexperienced Tonia accomplishes with the child welfare center in ten months makes the five year plan look like a game of dominoes.

Yuri Herman's simple and restrained story is not so much of political beliefs and disbeliefs as it is of an intelligent and attractive woman's effort to find her place in the world.

Boom Town Provides a Fast Moving Story.

"Boom Town," by Jack O'Connor. [Knopf, $2.50.]

On a lonely Arizona hillside a starving prospector discovers a great silver lode. In the wake of his find come thousands of people—miners, gamblers, harlots, promoters—to build a boom town and claw the treasure from the earth. This is a fast moving yarn with a tender love story running through it. In the end there remains only the ghost of a town, and little more than the ghosts of its people.

4 Books Delve into Phases of Statesmanship

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

"The Last Genro," by Bunji Omura. [Lippincott, $3.50.]

"Helen's Tower," by Harold Nicolson. [Harcourt-Brace, $3.50.]

Four facets in the life of diplomacy and statesmanship are described in these four books. The first, written by our present ambassador to Germany, is a delightfully entertaining and amusing account of the early years of this diplomat. Mr. Wilson is extremely discreet in his autobiography. And it ends with the world war. It's exactly the sort of book you'd expect a novelist's diplomat to write—gay, humorous, light-hearted.

There are descriptions of his life in Guatemala, Buenos Aires, Berlin, and Vienna, accounts of the people and the country, but never anything serious. If diplomacy has its weighty side, Hugh Wilson manages to conceal it behind airy persiflage.

"The Last Genro," on the other hand, is the meaty story of the westernizing of Japan and the immense influence of the last of the elder statesmen, Kimmochi Saionji, who is now 88 years old. The narrative of his life and work is told like a romance, but it is a ponderous romance and occupies 421 pages in the telling.

Saionji was born in 1849 when the government was in the hands of the Tokugawa Shoguns, where it had been for two and a half centuries. It was the task of the young liberal to switch the power back to the emperor and a group of "genro," elder statesmen, and this he did in 1889 by drawing up the imperial constitution, upon which the present political system of Japan is based.

Saionji was twice a premier and in his long career was responsible for the appointments of thirteen of his successors. He was the chief delegate of his country to the Paris peace conference and at the present time is councillor to Emperor Hirohito. His story is an interesting one, although the book would be more effective were it written as straight biography and much shorter.

"Moments of Memory" are the recollections of England's wartime premier by his son, Herbert A. Asquith. Like Hugh Wilson, Mr. Asquith writes with a great deal of charm, and like him he is given over to the telling of anecdotes. Perhaps it is the innate British horror of the sentimental and the emotional that prompts him to glide over periods of sadness and stress. Even the war, somehow, seems like a gigantic game of cricket, and his mother's death, which occurred in his childhood and which undoubtedly left its mark on him and on his brothers, is merely an incident in the book.

There are glimpses of Haldane, Balfour, Rupert Brooke, Hardy, Gladstone, Meredith, and D. H. Lawrence, and a life-like sketch of the inimitable Margot, his father's second wife. "Moments of Memory" is, for the most part, charming trivia.

"Helen's Tower" is the story of Lord Dufferin, famous Victorian diplomatist and viceroy, as it was seen by his young nephew, Harold Nicholson. And in telling about the brilliant life of his uncle, Mr. Nicolson also paints a picture of the entire era, of the Victorian age at its balmiest and best and of the later period of industrial growth and changing political cycles.

The book is as easy to read as any first rate novel. Many of the thumb nail sketches, of scenes in passing, are done with arresting beauty. And the bevy of Victorian personages that fill its pages are real people, given immortality by the facile, witty, intensely human pen of the author. "Helen's Tower" also is an autobiography, for the sensitive, observant, imaginative boy through whose eyes the reader looks at Lord Dufferin is Harold Nicolson, and much of the story is the story of his own childhood.

50,000 Ton Superships Are Considered.

Washington, D. C., April 8.—[Special.]—Construction of two new battleships will be started before January, 1939, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison and Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, said today after a conference with President Roosevelt.

The navy is now building two 35,000 ton capital ships, the North Carolina and Washington, under an appropriation voted by the last congress. Two more were authorized under the navy department bill passed early in the year, and three more are contemplated in the pending navy expansion bill.

The navy proposes to lay the keels of the two authorized under the 1939 naval appropriations act within the year. Admiral Leahy said that the two new superdreadnaughts probably would exceed 35,000 tons, but only by 200 or 300 tons. If the navy decides to build super-super-capital ships of about 50,000 tons, it was said, these could be provided for in the expansion bill.

ORDERED TO PAY COST OF BLOCKING SCHOOL ADVANCE

Judgment for $1,066 was entered yesterday by Judge James F. Fardy against Mrs. Gertrude M. Schuler of 933 South Wenonah avenue, Oak Park, to reimburse Oak Park and River Forest high school district No. 200 for attorneys' fees and expenses incurred in fighting an injunction won several months ago by Mrs. Schuler. Her injunction blocked an advance of $8,000 to the Oak Park Junior college. The Appellate court later voided the injunction, holding the expenditure to be legal and proper.

Attorney Charles O. Rundall argued that Mrs. Schuler is a civic minded individual who merely questioned the judgment of the board in the extent of its public spending. Attorney John Lyle Vette, for the school district, argued that Mrs. Schuler owes the money to the taxpayers whose funds were used to fight the injunction.

LAKE CALUMET URGED FOR NAVY BUILDING YARDS

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] said yesterday that he has asked the United States army engineers to investigate the possibility of building small naval vessels in shipyards around Lake Calumet. A bill for a billion dollar navy building program is pending in Congress.

Rowan said the American Shipbuilding company has a large yard at 101st street on the Calumet river and the Logan Shipbuilding company has a smaller one nearby. The large yard, Rowan said, has not been used to any extent since the world war.

The city owns 1,400 acres of land on the shores of the lake, which recently has been dredged. The city probably would donate some of this land for shipbuilding purposes, Rowan said.

Two Ex-Convicts Seized While Riding in Stolen Car

Two ex-convicts and a companion were arrested yesterday while riding in a stolen automobile by Sergt. Lawrence Smalley of the Englewood station. They are John Casey, 520 West 81st street, who once served four years in Pontiac reformatory for stealing automobiles and another year in the House of Correction for petty larceny; John Brady, 4504½ Drexel boulevard, who served twenty-six months for stealing automobiles, and James Liska, 7357 South Halsted street.

GETS PROBATION AFTER STABBING YOUTH TO DEATH

CRIMINAL COURT.

Walter Pijanowski, 17 years old, who stabbed another youth to death after a drinking spree in a tavern, was placed on probation for two years by Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington in the Criminal court yesterday. Pijanowsky had previously pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter.

Judge Harrington said a study of Pijanowsky's life showed he had never been in trouble before. The court added: "Both parents of this boy died some time ago and he has been more or less a public charge. Despite this, he has had a good record. Both the state and police officials believe he should be given another chance."

On Wednesday Judge Charles S. Dougherty sentenced George Kappos, owner of the tavern at 3543 Ogden avenue, where Pijanowski said he bought the drinks, the first he had ever taken, to a year in the Bridewell for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. The bartender in the tavern, George Vitras, was sentenced to sixty days in the Bridewell for selling liquor to a minor.

FIND 11TH VICTIM OF TORSO SLAYER; HUNT IS RENEWED

Cleveland, O., April 8.—[Special.]—The dismembered leg of the supposed eleventh victim of Cleveland's torso slayer was found late today in a storm sewer basin near the bank of the Cuyahoga river in the downtown section. A WPA worker found it.

The leg, believed severed two or three days ago, was dismembered with a scalpel in the same fashion as were the bodies of four women and six men found here since September, 1934. Coroner S. R. Gerber, who prepared to take X-ray tests to determine its sex, said: "It definitly is another torso victim."

A special police detail has maintained a night and day hunt for the mad, surgically skilled slayer who has dismembered his victims so completely that only two of the eleven have been identified. Hundreds of suspects have been arrested, but all were released as baffled police remained without a single clew.

KARAKAS TO JOIN HAWKS FOR THIRD GAME

NEW YORK HAS INSIDE TRACK ON MATCH RACE

Owners of Horses Agree on Terms.

New York, April 8.—(AP)—The $100,000 horse race of the century—War Admiral vs. Seabiscuit—was virtually clinched today for Belmont Park in September.

Samuel Riddle.

Samuel Riddle, owner of War Admiral, agreed to terms suggested by Charles S. Howard, California owner of Seabiscuit, after a conference with Herbert Bayard Swope, chairman of the New York state racing commission.

The race, to be run at Belmont's fall meeting, Sept. 15 to Oct. 1, will be at a mile and a quarter under weight for age conditions unless the owners agree on some other weight arrangement. The scale calls for each to carry 126 pounds.

Riddle also said he was willing for Howard to choose the post position and that the race should be run only over a good track. Seabiscuit is not at his best in the mud. War Admiral has shown he can run over any kind of a track.

Suggests Walkup Start.

War Admiral's owner likewise suggested a walkup start with the old fashioned webbing to be used instead of the stall gates. War Admiral, a bad actor at the post, never has taken kindly to stall gates.

Swope said the race would be run on the winner take all basis.

Only the formality of approval by Belmont Park officials remains to make certain the country's first important match race since Zev defeated the English invader, Papyrus, at Belmont Park in 1923 in an $80,000 match.

Today's developments sidetracked possibility of the pair meeting for $100,000 at Arlington Park, Chicago, in July. Riddle talked with John D. Hertz, chairman of the Arlington Park Jocky club, but decided the July date was impracticable, because he also understood it would conflict with Seabiscuit's engagements on the Pacific coast.

Asks Arlington to Wait.

At the end of his conference with Mr. Hertz, Owner Riddle requested that the offer made by the Arlington Park Jocky club be held open until such time as he can confer with Mr. Hertz again.

"Arlington offers to hold the race as a gesture of good sportsmanship," Mr. Hertz said. "We hope the owners of War Admiral, Seabiscuit, and Stagehand, in the event the latter wins the Kentucky Derby, will finally decide to run their race at Arlington during our July meeting. We race at Arlington for sport alone and our only aim is to give Chicago and the middle west the finest possible racing."

War Admiral, now quartered at Belmont Park, is slated to make his next appearance in the Excelsior handicap at Jamaica on May 7. He then will be pointed for the Suburban handicap at Belmont Park on May 30, and the $50,000 Massachusetts handicap at Suffolk Downs on June 29. Seabiscuit's chief objective on the Pacific coast is the $50,000 Hollywood gold cup at the New Inglewood, Cal., track on July 16.

OWNER HOWARD SATISFIED.

San Mateo, Cal., April 9.—(AP)—Charles S. Howard said today he was satisfied with conditions suggested for a match race in New York between Seabiscuit and War Admiral next fall.

"I have already accepted the match," the San Francisco sportsman said. "All conditions proposed by Mr. Riddle are suitable to me with the one exception: I would favor either a standing start or a start from the stall gate."

DUNLAP TO PLAY STRAFACI FOR AMATEUR TITLE

Pinehurst, N. C., April 8.—(AP)—George Dunlap Jr. of Pinehurst, and Frank Strafaci of Brooklyn, N. Y., won semi-final matches today and will meet tomorrow in the final of the North and South amateur golf tournament.

Dunlap eliminated Morton McCarthy of Virginia Beach, Va., 2 and 1, and Strafaci defeated Charles Clare, New Haven, Conn., 1 up.

CUBS SNIFFLE, AND STICK CLOSE TO RADIATORS

Bryant to Pitch Against Browns Today.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., April 8.—The Cubs' training today consisted of sticking close to the radiators instead of meeting the St. Louis Browns as originally scheduled. A wind which had an arctic touch was sweeping over the local battlefield as well as other parts of the town and at the request of the Cub manager, Charley Grimm, who didn't want to invite more physical troubles for his athletes, the nine inning exhibition was canceled.

However, the day of idleness wasn't without developments in the hospital department. An epidemic of sniffles, traceable to the chilly atmosphere at El Paso on Wednesday, hit the squad this morning.

It sent Larry French to a turkish bath and Rip Collins selected the bed in his hotel room as the proper place for a cure. Another victim was Manager Grimm, who remained in his room, getting what help he could from his regular nurse, Mr. Robert C. Lewis, who administers up to the minute jokes instead of drugs.

Galan Is Located.

Along with having a patient on his hands, Mr. Lewis was forced to do a little detective work to locate Augie Galan, a left fielder. Galan, who remained in Los Angeles for treatments following a minor operation on an eye, was supposed to be here when the team arrived yesterday. Mr. Lewis searched the St. Anthony hotel here without success, so he telegraphed Los Angeles for information on the missing performer.

In a little while word came back that Galan was in good health and would appear here Sunday morning. That's one worry off the chest of Manager Grimm, but he has others. Bill Lee, the giant right hander who came here several days ahead of the team to take treatments for his neck kink, doesn't know whether he has been cured.

A muscle manipulator has been working on him and the pain which had been shooting across his shoulders has disappeared. But Lee refuses to be optimistic. He's afraid the ailment will return as soon as he starts throwing.

Bryant and Hartnett.

The postponement today will not cause a change in the pitching plans made by Grimm. Clay Bryant was billed to go nine innings, if possible, against the Browns. Bryant will have the same opportunity tomorrow and will be assisted by Gabby Hartnett's catching. Beyond this lone game Grimm doesn't know how he'll handle his pitchers.

He can't count on Lee in advance. French, because of his sore arm, is in the same class. French was advised not even to throw a ball for several days and the prescribed rest period now has expired but that doesn't mean the complaint has vanished.

For Sunday Grimm will have to uncover at least two pitchers instead of one. Because of today's cancelation, a Sabbath double-header will be played here with the Browns and that sort of a program furnishes a new high for spring baseball tours. One of the games will be limited to seven innings and in that contest Grimm probably will start his Yannigan lineup.

Davis Afflicted, Too.

As a further annoyance for the managerial mind, there is the case of Curt Davis who, after the first two weeks of training, was in such excellent trim that Grimm was predicting twenty victories for him this season. Davis then turned an ankle in practice but declared it such a mild twist that he wouldn't be out more than a couple of days.

The days have stretched into weeks and the injured ankle is still a pain producer. So with Davis, Lee and French all enthusiastic invalids, Grimm is entitled to wonder what he'll do for pitchers if they don't recover prior to the season's opener April 19.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 8.—Germany within two or three years is destined to become the greatest amateur boxing center in the world. No other European country has responded so enthusiastically to International Golden Gloves. Boys who survive the national tournament at Frankfort-on-Main next week will be the best of an original field of 18,000.

Herbert Runge.

Germany's national champions will compete in the international meet in Berlin on April 29 where Europe's team will be chosen for the match with Chicago's Golden Gloves champions in the Chicago Stadium on May 18.

The Nazi government is contributing generously to development of all sports. More than 4,000,000 members of the Hitler youth organization participate in some form of athletics, but the Fuehrer personally prefers boxing and soccer football. More than 600,000 young men this spring are engaged in amateur boxing. However, only the more experienced are permitted to enter the national championship tournament.

Predicts Growth of Boxing.

Dr. Franz Metzner, president of the association which controls both professional and amateur boxing in Germany, predicts that all 4,000,000 boys in the Hitler youth movement will take up boxing within another year. This tremendous manpower is certain to improve the caliber of teams representing the country in international competition.

As evidence of Germany's interest in sport more than 700,000 have applied for 105,000 seats in Olympic stadium for the soccer game with England on May 15. A stadium is under construction in Nuremberg which will seat 400,000.

Nurnberg Back in Ring.

Herbert Nurnberg, German lightweight champion, who last May defeated Edward Kozole of the Chicago team in the International Golden Gloves match in Chicago, again is considered the strongest 135 pounder in the country. He was forced out of competition last winter with a broken bone in his right hand, but he has recovered completely. Herbert Runge, Olympic heavyweight champion who was knocked out by Lem Franklin in the first round in Chicago Stadium last year, is expected to retain the German title. His closest competitor for a place on the European team will be Olle Tandberg of Sweden.

Michael Murach, who won a decision from Verne Patterson of Chicago last year, again appears to be the best of German welterweights. Germany's newest boxing hero is Richard Vogt, who this year has whipped nearly every good light heavyweight in Europe. Berlin newspaper writers say Ruda Kuss, Czechoslovakia champion, in his only rival for a place on the European team.

Officials of the International Boxing association predict the team which Europe will send to Chicago this year will be stronger than 1937 when the best Chicago could get was a 4 to 4 draw.

Sox, Pirates Just Sit and Sit; Texas Weather Fails Again

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Abilene, Tex., April 8.—The White Sox and the Pittsburgh Pirates stopped over here today in their tour of the Texas snow belt. There are many sights to be seen in Abilene, one of the most famous cow towns of the good old days, but the tender athletes saw none of same, preferring to repose in their hostelry, which has a most adequate furnace.

While bulletins came in of marooned caravans and trafic barriers reminiscent of covered wagon days, and the snow snowed and the wind blew, hardier members of the Sox and Pirates set up the cry "on to Buffalo Gap."

Buffalo Gap, a bus ride from here, is the point the Sox and Pirates hope to reach in order to catch a train on which their tickets to Fort Worth will be honored. If the train doesn't get to Buffalo Gap the Sox and Pirates may be cut off from the outside world for days. A large supply of foodstuffs and water is to be carried on the bus, however, and if the water runs out the lads can eat snow.

Hard on Southern Boys.

Thus far the adverse weather has worked no real hardships on any one except southern ball players, who for years have claimed never to have eaten snow except up north in April and October. Local promoters aren't feeling so happy, either. Big advance sales had been made for the scheduled games in Sweetwater yesterday and here today, and, of course, a promoter who has a nice bundle of dough already in and had prospects of a big rush at the park, hates to see a winter wind blow that kind of sugar out of his pockets.

With only a slim prospect of playing in Fort Worth tomorrow, Sox and Pirate officials this morning phoned Fort Worth with the suggestion that the teams roll right through Fort Worth into Dallas, where they are scheduled to play Sunday. The promoter said that his personal thermometer showed the temperature was rising rapidly, and while this was not in accord with official gauges, demand was made that the teams be in Fort Worth to perform tomorrow just in case.

Great for Conversation.

Little has been said of baseball in the last two days except in fanning bees with residents of Texas who used to be in the business. This refugee, for instance, passed a pleasant few hours with Mr. John King of Kilgore, Tex., currently an oil millionaire, but formerly a Southern association and Texas league outfielder and later an umpire.

More anecdotes are told about Mr. King than any one in baseball. Surely you have heard the one about how Mr. King, who couldn't hit lefthanders and hated lefthanders personally, once dropped two bits in a blind violinist's tin cup. The musician, grateful, started sawing his bow—with his left hand. Whereupon Mr. King, all the sympathy driven from his heart by the sight of the left-handed performance, reached in the tin cup and retrieved his quarter.

We had heard the story attributed to several old timers as often as the one about Rabbit Maranville eating the St. Louis goldfish, and in our visit with Mr. King we pressed him as to the truthfulness of the narrative.

He Swears It's True.

He swore it happened, that he has no regrets, and that he still hates lefthanders in whatever walk of life. "And," John added, "imagine how I felt years later when I discovered my own infant son picking up objects with his left hand. I was horrified and promptly tied a tobacco sack on his tiny left hand so he couldn't use it. The plan worked and thank heaven he's now a fine young right-hander."

O, yes, about the baseball aspects of the present tour. If the teams play tomorrow Thornton Lee and Clint Brown probably will pitch for the Sox. Manager Pie Traynor indicated he would stand by the pair he had intended to work here today — Ed Brandt and Mace Brown.

BAUGH LEAVES FOR HOUSTON TO WED TEXAS GIRL

Winter Haven, Fla., April 8.—(AP)—Sammy Baugh, new infielder for the Columbus Red Birds of the American association, left tonight by airplane for Houston, Tex., where he said he will marry Edmonia Smith of Sweetwater, Tex.

Baugh, who took part in the All-Star football game in Chicago last summer and played with the Washington professional football team last fall, indicated the wedding would occur tomorrow or Sunday.

PERRY DEFEATS VINES; DIVIDES CHICAGO SERIES

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The weather in our town last night was not precisely suited to the kind of tennis you will find at Wembley or Forest Hills, but a couple of young men named Ellsworth Vines and Fred Perry chose the Chicago Arena to put on a right good show for more than 1,500 citizens.

Mr. Perry walked off with the evening's honors in winning a three set argument with California's Mr. Vines, and thereby avenged the stunning licking Ellsworth had handed him in their first local appearance Thursday night in the International amphitheater. The score on that occasion was 6-0, 6-3, and found Ellsworth winning eleven straight games before Frederick knew what was happening.

Match Goes Three Sets.

There were no such handsome runs last night in the Arena, but the contest was much more interesting. After Perry had won the first set, 6-2, Vines came back in the second and allowed the Briton to take only one game. The two played their fanciest tennis in the deciding set, which Perry won, 6-4. This situation gave the referee, a young redhead named J. Donald Budge, who plays some tennis in his spare time, a chance to do some considerable oral counting.

Neither of the principals appeared to exert himself in the opening set. Vines obviously was attempting to draw a bead on the top of the net and found his marksmanship rather off. Meanwhile, he was evincing a backhand weakness which Perry sensed and began to play on even while losing the second set. Fred proved himself correct on this guess in the final set.

Bell and Senior Tie.

The first match of the night brought together Berkeley Bell, the histrionic Texan, and Walter Senior, whose lean figure and white cap bring to mind Ray Mangrum, the human No. 1 iron of professional golf. They played two rapid sets, with Senior taking the first, 6-4, and Bell rallying to capture the second, 8-6, after which they withdrew in favor of Perry and Vines.

Following Perry's victory, his 23d in 52 matches with Vines on their current tour, the two paired off with Bell and Senior in a doubles match. Ellsworth and Senior won by scores of 6-1, 6-8, 6-4.

ADAMICK WINS FROM ETTORE IN TEN ROUNDS

Detroit, Mich., April 8.—(AP)—Jimmy Adamick, Midland, Mich., heavyweight, fought his way to a 10 round decision over Al Ettore, veteran Philadelphian, in Olympia Stadium tonight. Both weighed 192 pounds.

Adamick scored the only knockdown when he put over a right that sent Ettore spinning out of the ring into the laps of newspaper men in the fifth round. Ettore was back in the ring at the count of seven and fought Adamick on even terms the rest of the way.

For the most part the bout was a battle of left hands. Except for the fifth round, Ettore was never in distress. The program attracted a crowd of 9,871 and gross receipts of $15,098.

Casey Throws Don George in Stadium Bout

Steve [Crusher] Casey retained his claim to the heavyweight wrestling title by throwing Ed Don George of Java, N. Y., in 42 minutes and 9 seconds in the Stadium last night. The fall was accomplished with a flying wing and hip lock.

Interesting Match.

It was one of the most entertaining matches on the card. Marshall weighed 215 pounds to O'Mahoney's 225.

Wladyslaw Talun, 270 pound protégé of Stanislaus Zbyszko, threw Bill Midlikoff, 245, in 1:30; Bob Gregory, 165 pounder from England, defeated George Gastovich, 190, 13:35; Pietro Gobbo of Italy, 260, threw Jules Strongbow, 275, 6:06, and Chief Sanooke threw Hans Zimbelman in 5:25.

Attendance Is 3,443.

Princess Baba, daughter of the white rajah of Sarawak, and Wrestler Gregory's wife, was among the 3,443 who paid $3,609 to see the show. Net proceeds were $2,909.

Sopko Scores Technical Knockout Over Harris

Tony Sopko, Madison Athletic club welterweight, stopped Leon Harris, Savoy A. C., in the third round of the windup match in the Madison A. C. gymnasium last night. Tom Gibson, Morgan Park, won a five round decision over Joe Yasbec, Northwest gymnasium. Other results:

EAST AND WEST POLO TEAMS TO CLASH TONIGHT

The indoor polo championship tournament, East vs. West, will open tonight, with the Sherman Cup and junior division leaders of each section meeting in the 124th Field Artillery armory, 5200 Cottage Grove avenue.

The titles will be decided on the basis of three best game series. The second will be played Wednesday and the third, if necessary, a week from tonight. Also scheduled for next Wednesday is the start of the senior series, in which the Detroit Gold Hats will meet the winner of tonight's game in New York between Winston Guest's New York Optimists and Billy Nicholls' New York Athletic club.

Shamrocks Face Blue Hill.

The tourney will get under way this evening when the Blue Hill Farm team of Media, Pa., a suburb of Philadelphia, rides out against the Chicago Shamrocks in the Sherman cup class, restricted to teams carrying a total of five goals or less.

Ridgewood Polo club of Ridgewood, N. J., will take on the 124th Field Artillery of Chicago in the second conflict of the double-header, which brings together junior division teams of six to twelve goal strength.

Teams Well Mounted.

All four teams in tonight's games will be well mounted. The string of 19 ponies to be ridden by the eastern champions have been quartered in the armory stables since Thursday.

CHICAGO TEAM RETURNS WITH NINE MEN HURT

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Chicago's Blackhawks, to whom surrender is a nine letter word found only in crossword puzzles, gave up to physicians on their return from Toronto yesterday. Seven members of the squad were taken from the train to Garfield Park hospital for treatment and X-ray examinations of injuries received Thursday night, when the Maple Leafs evened the Stanley Cup finals with a 5 to 1 victory. The new invalids brought to nine the number of Hawks on the hospital register.

X-ray examinations were ordered for Johnny Gottselig, Doc Romnes, and Art Wiebe. Gottselig was slashed over the foot with a stick in Thursday's vicious contest, but the X-ray showed no fracture. Romnes' nose was found to be broken in three places. Wiebe was struck over the eye by a flying puck while sitting on the bench. It was feared he might have suffered a skull fracture, but the X-ray showed him to be sound.

Injuries Are Treated.

Cully Dahlstrom, Carl Voss, and Gottselig were put to bed in a ward with Mike Karakas and Mush March to receive diathermic treatment for leg injuries. Karakas had been sent home from Toronto Wednesday to nurse a fractured toe. March left immediately after the first game of the series Tuesday night. He is recovering from a pulled groin muscle.

Alex Levinsky and Roger Jenkins, husky defense men, and Louis Trudell were released from the hospital late yesterday after an examination of the cuts which necessitated stitches before they could complete Thursday's game.

Embittered, but far from downcast, the cripples were cheered at the station by the announcement that Karakas would be back in the nets tomorrow night and March would be ready to take his place in the starting line. A steel splint has been fashioned for Karakas' toe and a reinforced goalie shoe has been obtained for him. A mask is being made for Romnes' nose.

Thursday night's defeat, the result of a series of mishaps which included the reversal of an official decision to permit Alfie Moore, hero of the Hawks' opening victory, to continue as relief for Karakas, was attributable largely to the loss of Romnes in the first period. The veteran center has been the backbone of the defense in the Hawks' amazing march to hocky's world series.

This defense has been built around back checking in which the Hawks have protected their goalies by breaking up enemy forays before they advance to the blue line. Few players in the National league are Romnes' equal in this style of play. Although the Leafs, National league champions, are regarded as one of the most powerful scoring units in hocky, the Hawks are confident they can recover from Thursday's setback with Romnes in the lineup to lead the defense.

No Time to Practice.

The return yesterday brought to a close the most unusual 25 day period in the history of any National league team. In that period the Hawks have played 11 games, including eight in the playoffs. They have been in Chicago only three days since March 12, returning twice to even the C series against the Canadiens and the D series against the Americans before returning to the road to win each series and qualify for the finals. Not once during the 25 days have they held a practice, donning skates only for games.

Their fight up from sixth place in the National league to a berth in the finals has earned the Hawks the respect of every team in the league except Toronto. The smug Leafs have worked themselves up into a fine frenzy of resentment. Entering the C series against the Canadiens, in which it was generally accepted that their elimination was merely the for-

Totals 710 in His First National Tourney.

Andre, competing in his first national tournament, started with games of 224 and 254 and was on his way toward the top when he hit five consecutive strikes midway in the final game. Rolling a wide sweeping hook ball, the Ohioan planted the sixth shot in the 1-3 pocket and swept all except the seven pin, which wobbled dizzily. He spared out for 232 and a 710 total that gave him sixth place in the standings.

Another 3,000 Series.

Andre had two open frames in the series, an error in the first game and a split in the second. His 710 total was the highest he ever rolled in either league or tournament competition during his six years as a bowler.

Trotter's Sanitarium team soared in seventh place in the five man event last night with a 3,030 total. After opening with 883, the Kansas City lineup went on a strike spree to post 1,052 and 1,095.

This was the thirteenth 3,000 series, a new record for an A. B. C. tourney. In New York last year and Peoria in 1927 eleven teams beat 3,000.

Leading Teams Scheduled.

The last ten days of the five man competition will open tonight with another invasion by the country's leading teams. The Stroh Bohemians of Detroit, who won the A. B. C. title in Peoria in 1934 with a 3,089 series and have held the national match game championship, will be the headliner on the first squad. Capt. Joe Norris of the Strohs is regarded as one of the greatest bowlers in the game.

On the late squad will be the Waldorf Lagers of Cleveland, who finished second with a 3,111 total last year in New York. They are led by Walter Ward, who finished second in the all events with 2,039 in 1937. Cleveland also will present a strong team in the Collinwood Shale Bricks.

Cardinals and Packers Will Play in Buffalo

The Chicago Cardinals and the Green Bay Packers have agreed to play a National Professional Football league game in Buffalo, N. Y., on the night of Sept. 28, Charles W. Bidwill, owner of the Cardinals, announced yesterday.

The game, the first National league championship to be contested in Buffalo since the Bisons withdrew from the circuit several years ago, will be played under lights in the new $3,000,000 municipal stadium.

Buffalo has been clamoring to regain a National league franchise for the last two years and the Cardinal-Packer game was scheduled there this year, with the sanction of President Joseph F. Carr of the league, as an experiment. If the game is a success the New York city may be awarded a league franchise in 1939.

The Cardinal-Packer series is one of the oldest and bitterest rivalries in the National league. The Cardinals, although they have been unable to win the championship in recent years, have been able to beat the Packers with a greater degree of consistency than any team in the circuit. The records show that the Cardinals have beaten the Packers four times in six games during the last three seasons.

BAUERS REACHES ST. LOUIS; HAS A SPRAINED KNEE

St. Louis, Mo., April 8.—(AP)—Russ Bauers, Pittsburgh Pirates' pitcher injured in a scuffle on a train as the National league team headed east from its Pacific coast training camp, arrived today for treatment.

Dr. Robert F. Hyland, club surgeon for both the St. Louis Cardinals and Browns, said Bauers had a sprained right knee but would not require hospitalization. The pitcher will remain here for treatment until the opening game of the season, April 19, between Pittsburgh and the Cardinals.

Hyland said Bauers probably would be able to work out with the St. Louis clubs by the time they arrived home for their annual spring series a week from tomorrow.

Mother of Joe McNamara, Boxing Official, Is Dead

Mrs. Nora McNamara, 68 years old, mother of Joe McNamara, Chicago boxing referee and police lieutenant, died last night in her home, 1537 West 82d street. Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning in St. Sabina church, 78th and Throop streets. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre cemetery. In addition to Lieut. McNamara another son, Patrick, also a member of the police department, and five daughters survive.

Ambler and Gumpert Released by Athletics

Bowie, Md., April 8.—[Special.]—The Kentucky Derby eligible, Sun Egret, which won three stakes at Santa Anita and then captured the opening day feature here, will get a test over distance tomorrow when he goes to the post in the mile and seventy yards of the Bowie handicap. The son of Sun Briar, which was the beaten favorite in the Santa Anita Derby, is sure to be the choice tomorrow in the field of nine.

Despite a steady rain this afternoon, there is no doubt about the A. C. Compton color bearer going to the post for the Bowie, which carries $3,500 in added money. H. Guy Bedwell, trainer, who handles the 3 year old, said: "He is the best mudder I ever trained."

Regardless of his mud running ability, there is doubt in some quarters about Sun Egret doing well over a distance. He was in front in the Derby at Santa Anita only to falter and be passed by both Stagehand and Dauber. His admirers excuse this lapse in view of his otherwise excellent record and confidently expect him to redeem himself tomorrow.

Most formidable of the opposition is Piccolo, winner of the McLennan handicap in Florida. He was far back of Sun Egret in the sprint on the opening day and Parmelee T. was second on that occasion, but both are expected to be favored by the extra distance of tomorrow's test. Challephen, a superior mudder, is making his first 1938 start and may do well.

Table of Points

Ohio State	25	Princeton	2
Michigan	12	Yale	2
Harvard	7

Columbus, O., April 8.—[Special.]—Ohio State took the lead in the national A. A. U. swimming meet by scoring 25 points in tonight's five events. Michigan was second with 12 points. The lead made the Buckeyes favorites in the meet, which ends tomorrow night.

The highlight of tonight's events was the 400 yard free style relay, which the Buckeyes won from Michigan by a yard in 3:31.5, one-tenth of a second under the record set by Michigan last year. Ohio's James Sabol took a lead of four feet over Waldemar Tomski of Michigan on the first leg. Bob Hutchens put the Wolverine quartet ahead by a yard, but Bill Quayle again gave Ohio a lead of six feet. Capt. Ed Kirar, swimming anchor for Michigan, picked up all but a yard on Ohio's Bill Neunzig at the finish.

Flanagan Wins 220.

Ralph Flanagan, swimming for the Miami [Florida] Biltmore club, beat William Kendall of Harvard, to win the 220 yard free style event, succeeding Jack Medica, former University of Washington star, who was unable to compete.

Kendall led to the 150 yard mark, then Flanagan pulled up. He was going away at the finish. John Macionis of Yale took third place ahead of Tom Haynie of Michigan. Charles Hutter, Harvard, was inches behind Haynie.

Patnik Again Wins Diving.

Al Patnik successfully defended his one meter diving crown with a score of 148.17. Al Greene, unattached, of Chicago, was second with 144.90. Jim Patterson, Ohio State, was third with 139.

Higgins, defending champion in the 300 yard medley race, was beaten again when Andrew Clark, unattached, of Detroit, won in 3:31.3. Adolph Keifer, Chicago, swimming unattached, led until about the last 25 yards. He finished second. Higgins trailed Keifer by six feet.

Al Patnik, defending champion in the low board diving, led the field of 20 starters in the preliminaries with a point average of 127.85, but was pushed hard by Greene. Patterson placed third with 124.77, while Root was close behind with 123.04.

Close Battle in 220.

A close battle for places in the finals of the 220 yard free style event took place, with Flanagan turning in a 2:12.6 performance to lead six of the nation's swimmers.

With but four swimmers to a heat trials in the 300 yard individual medley were comparatively slow, the best swimmers being content to ease along to the finish line. Clark beat Higgins by a half second in 3:42.8, far behind the 3:28 at which Higgins won the event a year ago.

In the 220 yard breast stroke Kasley swam 2:37.2, best time in the event, to beat Higgins by a yard. Both qualified for the finals along with Charles Spangler of the Penn [Philadelphia] A. C. R. R. Hough, Princeton, was winner of the second heat with a time of 2:46.

220 YARD BREAST STROKE—Won by Jack Kasley, Michigan; John Higgins, Ohio State, second; R. R. Hough, Princeton, third; Alexander McKee, Ohio State, fourth; John Hoth, Michigan, fifth; Charles Spangler, Penn A. C., Philadelphia, sixth. Time, 2:40.

220 YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Ralph Flanagan, Miami [Fla.] Biltmore club; William E. Kendall, Harvard, second; John Macionis, Yale, third; Tom Haynie, Michigan, fourth; Charles G. Hutter Jr., Harvard, fifth; Otto Jaretz, unattached, Chicago, sixth. Time, 2:10.9.

Purple Squad Leaves Today for Trip South

Northwestern university's baseball team will leave Chicago today for its ten day southern training trip. The Purple will play six games, two each with Louisiana State, Tulane, and Alabama.

The Wildcat party, consisting of Coaches Burt Ingwersen and Maury Kent, Carl Erickson, trainer, and eighteen players, will leave over the Illinois Central. The squad will go directly to Baton Rouge, where the first game is scheduled for Monday with Louisiana State.

Have Worked Outside.

The stop at Baton Rouge will be a homecoming for Coach Ingwersen, who was assistant football coach at Louisiana State before coming to Northwestern three years ago.

Although confined indoors this week, the Wildcats have had three weeks of outdoor practice this spring. This is in contrast to last year, when the team departed for the south without a single outdoor drill. The team split even on its six game schedule in 1937, dividing games with Louisiana State, Alabama, and Mississippi.

Nine Letter Men on Squad.

Three catchers, Merle Keppen, a letter man, and Nick Conteas and Frank Collins, sophomores, are on the squad.

Infielders are Cleo Diehl, first base; Fred Shinkevich, second base; Jack Woy, shortstop, and George Lymper and Harry Brookby, third basemen. All are letter men except Shinkevich, a sophomore. The outfielders are Robert Sampson and Paul Werd, letter men, and Alex Lustig and Charles Sticklen, sophomores.

Educator Asks for Safety in Athletics

"Safety is a part of each performed sport or element of sport, and it must be taught as the activity is taught," he said in a talk at the midwest physical education convention in the Sherman hotel.

He recommended that safety courses be made a part of teacher training schedules.

Walter M. Alderton of the Chicago Theological seminary said: "Churches are becoming more and more interested in physical education. They are carrying on a vital work in that field after the boys and girls leave school. The gymnasium is an important part of the church equipment."

Competitive sports were defined as "the fundamental principle of democracy" by Mrs. Frances S. Pettengill of Wayne university, Detroit, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Iowa Football Called Off Until After Vacation

Iowa City, Ia., April 8.—[Special.]—Spring football practice at the University of Iowa has been suspended until after spring vacation, which will start next Wednesday and end the following Tuesday. This move was made to enable the 60 odd candidates to catch up with their scholastic work.

Most of the spring squad is composed of freshmen who will be eligible for their first year of competition next season.

INDIANA OPPOSES PLAN TO PLAY IN INDIANAPOLIS

Bloomington, Ind., April 8.—[Special.]—Commenting on proposals of the athletics committee of the Indianapolis chamber of commerce to have the Indiana-Purdue football game played in Indianapolis next year, Z. G. Clevenger, Indiana university athletic director, said today he is opposed to the plan.

"The game belongs on the campuses of the two institutions," he asserted, "and it is my opinion that it will continue to be played there."

The Indianapolis organization had contended that 50,000 fans could be accommodated in the annual Hoosier-Boilermaker game would be held in the Butler stadium, with the addition of 18,000 bleachers seats. The game is scheduled at Purdue next year.

Clevenger said the Indianapolis proposal has not been placed before Indiana university authorities.

HAWKS REGAIN GOALIE KARAKAS FOR 3D PLAYOFF

mality of forcing them to skate out on the ice, the Hawks upset all expectations and won. They triumphed under identical circumstances in the D series against the New York Americans.

Moore Is Guest.

From New York they hopped over to Toronto and wrought more consternation by whipping the Maple Leafs with a minor league goalie the Leafs had cornered in a tavern and slyly maneuvered into the Chicago nets. Moore, the goalie, immediately became the series hero. He accompanied the Hawks to Chicago and will be the guest of the club at tomorrow's game. Karakas will present Moore with a watch purchased by Hawk players and followers.

The Alger tenor of this recital might well end here without weakening the plot. But more was to come. Thursday night the Hawks went forth to continue their title quest with another substitute goalie, one Paul Goodman, who had never seen a major league game. For all of his stage fright and inexperience, Goodman did a creditable job. Another goalie might have been more successful. And many a better goalie might conceivably have done worse.

18,000 to See Game.

Thursday's defeat did not, in the opinion of National league managers, lessen the Hawks chances. Leste. Patrick of the Rangers and Cecil Hart of the Canadiens, point out the best any team could have expected was an even break in the first two games of the series on foreign ice. Thus the Hawks go into the third game in an excellent position.

A capacity crowd of 16,000 will see tomorrow's game. All reserve tickets have been sold. Five thousand general admission seats go on sale at the Stadium at 6 o'clock tomorrow.

STORM PRODUCES A WINTER MOTIF IN RADIO STUDIOS

Blizzard Isolates Crews in Transmitting Stations.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

If the week's weather trend continues Raymond Scott's new song, "January in April" may prove as good a seller this month as "Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen" was last. The blizzard has brought out all sorts of regalia at studios, including ear muffs and ski suits, Alice Hill appearing in the latter costume. Bob Becker, who discusses canine affairs on the air, yesterday was considering mushing to work via dog sled for a few days.

With both regular and spare telephone circuits to the WBBM transmitter at Glenview wiped out by the storm an abandoned country party line was pressed into emergency service late yesterday. A short-wave antenna and transmitter were erected atop the Wrigley tower to carry programs to the sending station for rebroadcasting in case the temporary telephone circuit failed.

Meanwhile, transmitter crews at several of Chicago's stations have been isolated for several days. The W-G-N crew of five technicians near Elgin has not left the premises since the first storm early in the week. The transmitter house has temporary sleeping facilities which have been utilized this week. Supplies were brought in yesterday by a courier from Elgin. The staf is now prepared to hole up for the week-end if necessary.

The storm has also interrupted the construction operations on W-G-N's new $250,000 transmitter and radiotor 24 miles northwest of the loop on Route 53, north of Irving Park boulevard. The foundations and ground antenna system have been completed and erection of the steel tower was to start next week. This project must be delayed. Steel for the tower, shipped from the Truscon Steel company of Youngstown, O., has reached nearby Itasca, but cannot, of course, be transported to the site until roads are fully cleared.

Network operations westward have been interrupted several times during the week. Most of the wire trouble occurred between Nebraska and Salt Lake City. Air trafic to and from the west coast was being rerouted by way of St. Louis, Texas, and the southwest, outside of the storm zone.

NBC last night kept a skeleton crew of engineers and performers downtown in order to be certain to have them available at early morning hours today. Both WENR and WMAQ transmitter crews are snowbound.

All week W-G-N offices were flooded with requests from school and club groups for tickets to last night's presentation of "Cyrano de Bergerac" on Curtain Time. These had to be denied because all tickets had been distributed earlier in the regular fashion. Those who braved the storm to see the broadcast must have had their illusions as to Cyrano's nose shattered.

Hugh Studebaker, who gave a great portrayal of Cyrano, has a snub nose and declined to use a prop to give him the "Gibraltar" effect. He said that he was afraid it might drop off during the broadcast. He was ably supported by Forrest Lewis, Verne Smith, Murray Forbes, and Frances Carlon. Henry Weber and the orchestra provided a special musical setting and Blair Walliser directed.

Chicago stations are laying elaborate plans for reporting election results Tuesday evening. W-G-N has announced that all programs are subject to interruption, and sustaining programs to cancellation that evening. While the Stanley cup hocky match between the Chicago Blackhawks and Toronto is to be aired that evening under commercial sponsorship, bulletins may be given during this broadcast, too. Quin Ryan and other announcers will give the election night reports.

WBBM proposes to use its short wave trailer studio for cruising about and reporting the color of election day and evening. This station, WIND and others have set up machinery for full coverage of the returns.

DOCTORS STUDY PATIENT ASLEEP SINCE LAST JUNE

Leo H. Laite, a former engineering student, who has been sleeping continuously since last June 24, was under the attention of physicians at the Elgin State hospital last night. His condition, believed due to encephalitis, became known last Monday when he entered the hospital as a voluntary patient. He is 34 years old.

His wife, Clara, a graduate nurse, had been attending him constantly in their home at 60 South Grove avenue, Elgin. Finally, exhausted by constant duty, she went to St. Joseph's hospital, Elgin, for a rest, and sent her husband to the state hospital.

Mrs. Laite's sister, Mrs. Inga West of 225 East Chicago street, Elgin, said that as a boy Laite suffered drowsy spells. The spells continued as he grew up. Twelve years ago he went to Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn., for observation. The drowsiness and long hours of sleep continued intermittently. Then, last June 12 Laite fell asleep, awakening some ten days later. On June 24 he again fell asleep and has not recovered consciousness since, she said.

Elgin School Head Quits After Dispute with Board

Theodore Saam, superintendent of the Elgin public school for the last eight years, yesterday announced his resignation, to take effect on June 30. He said his action was prompted by differences of opinion with the school board over policies, particularly in regard to a school building program.

CHANGE JUDGES IN SUIT AGAINST SENATOR BERRY

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday refused to hear a petition for an injunction against United States Senator George L. Berry of Tennessee, the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' union, of which he is president, and seven Chicago officers of the union.

Judge Sullivan explained he once was associated with Senator Berry in publishing the American Legion Weekly. The senator and the other defendants are being sued by twenty-three members of Franklin union, No. 4, of Chicago, who charge conspiracy to seize and control the union. The plaintifs are seeking a temporary injunction to prevent the defendants from doing them bodily harm, from intimidating them, and from concealing or transferring funds of the union.

The hearing was continued to April 22 when it will be held before Judge Charles E. Woodward.

BAN MAGAZINE WITH PICTURES OF CHILDBIRTH

Because it carries a series of childbirth photographs, the current issue of Life magazine was ordered off Chicago newsstands yesterday by Lieut. Harry M. Costello of the police crime prevention bureau. The magazine may be sold only if the objectionable pages are torn out and destroyed, Lieut. Costello said. Stands that defy the ruling will lose their licenses and news store proprietors who refuse to comply will be arrested, he added.

Chicago's action followed by 24 hours a similar move in New York, where police were ordered to confiscate the magazine. The series is of still photographs from the motion picture film, "The Birth of a Baby," which has been banned, even from private showings, by the New York state board of censors.

MRS. M'LAUGHLIN BLOCKS FORCED SALE OF CATTLE

Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin accused August Hinterberg last Monday of cruelty to his twenty-two cows and two horses. Henry Wallenwein, Waukegan justice of the peace, ordered Hinterberg to sell the stock. Angelo Menoni of 418 North Green Bay road, Highland Park, bought eleven of the cows for $215 and paid $20 down.

Yesterday his attorney, Paul Behanna, began replevin proceedings in the court of Henry A. Hansen, Highland Park justice of the peace, charging that Hinterberg refused to deliver the cows. Hinterberg, who lives near Lake Forest on route 22, said Mrs. McLaughlin advised him not to make delivery. She verified this, asserting that the purchase price was too low. Hansen said he would hear the case next Wednesday.

Policeman's Home Burns as Snow Blocks Firemen

The bungalow home of Policeman Joseph Burke at 10219 Turner avenue in Evergreen Park was destroyed by fire yesterday when snowdrifts blocked firemen responding to the alarm. Mrs. Clara Burke carried her youngest son, Patrick, 8 years old, to safety while her daughter, Louise, 19, and another son, Joseph Jr., 14, clambered out through a window. Policeman Burke was on duty when the alarm was sounded. He estimated the damage at $5,000.

OBITUARIES

Aurelia Blakeslee.

Mrs. Aurelia Blakeslee, 102 years old, who came to Chicago in 1856, died yesterday in Rest Haven sanitarium in Elgin, where she had been a patient since last August. Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. Monday in Crystal Lake, where Mrs. Blakeslee lived for many years, and in Graceland chapel at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery.

Mrs. Blakeslee was born in Southington, Conn., and came to Chicago as the bride of Homer L. Blakeslee, owner of a dry goods store. During the Chicago fire in 1871, Mrs. Blakeslee was credited with saving valuable papers from the old Sherman house. The Blakeslees lived for several years in Dundee, where Mr. Blakeslee died in 1904. Mrs. Blakeslee's four children preceded her in death.

HOLY SEPULCHRE CHURCH OPENED FOR CLERGY ONLY

JERUSALEM, April 8.—(AP)—Permission was granted today for clergy to conduct services in the condemned Church of the Holy Sepulchre, but congregations were forbidden.

Opening of the church to the clergy "at their own risk" modified a decision announced "regretfully" by the colonial office in London yesterday condemning the edifice. The government said an earthquake in October, 1937, damaged steel and wooden supports and weakened the building.

The ban disappointed thousands of pilgrims in Jerusalem to attend Holy Week services in the ancient church. Its tomb is regarded generally as the one where the body of Christ lay after the crucifixion.

PRINCE TORLONIA, DUCE'S LANDLORD, DIES; 64 YEARS OLD

ROME, April 8.—(AP)—Prince Don Giovanni Torlonia, prince of Fucino, duke of Ceri, marquis of Romavecchia, senator of the kingdom and landlord to Mussolini, died today. He was 64 years old and had been ill for some time. He was unmarried. Marshall J. P. Barrett.

Funeral services for Marshall James Peebles Barrett, originally set for this afternoon, have been postponed because the train on which the funeral party was traveling was delayed by a snowstorm. Mr. Barrett, one of the pioneers of the Chicago varnish industry, died in Santa Monica, Cal., on Tuesday at the age of 87. He was the retired president of the Barrett Varnish company.

Mr. Barrett leaves two daughters and a son, Mrs. Mary von Pflugk, Mrs. Percy Andrews, and Frank Barrett. The services will be in the family home at 533 Forest avenue, Wilmette, the time to be announced later.

POSTS BOND IN FRAUD CHARGE.

William B. Schreiber, 1541 South Sawyer avenue, was freed on $10,000 bond by Judge John J. Rooney in the felony court yesterday on a fugitive warrant from St. Louis, Mo., charging embezzlement, after the case was continued to May 10.

CALLS HOME RIFT WORSE FOR CHILD THAN A DIVORCE

Parents who are unhappily married but will not be divorced for the sake of their children are doing those children an injustice. A child suffers when his father and mother are separated, but even more when they wish they could be.

This opinion was expressed yesterday by Dr. Orlo L. Crissey, director of the child guidance center of Flint, Mich., before 600 members of the Child Welfare League of America, attending a regional conference in the Hotel Knickerbocker. Dr. Crissey said children sense tension between parents even before they themselves express it, or are conscious of it. He affirmed that the only truly fine personalities were developed in happy, well balanced home environments.

Miss Grace Abbott of the University of Chicago, and Miss Charlotte Carr, head resident of Hull house, also addressed the conference, which will continue through today.

MARSHALL FIELD REPORTS PROFIT FOR 2 MONTHS

McBain, Sprague Made Directors.

Marshall Field & Co. operated at a profit during the first two months of 1938, Frederick D. Corley, president, told stockholders at the annual meeting yesterday. In 1937, the company had a net loss of $1,654,451, including an operating loss of $5,679,209 on manufacturing operations. Profit results for the first 1938 quarter were not yet available, Corley announced.

Hughston M. McBain elected director.

Corley said the company's retail sales so far this year have been lower than last year, but have shown a smaller drop than the department store sales index for Chicago and this district compiled by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

Elect Two New Directors.

Stockholders, at the meeting, elected two new directors, Hughston M. McBain, first vice president of the company, and Col. Albert A. Sprague, civic leader and trustee for the elevated lines. The new appointments filled vacancies created by the death last November of James O. McKinsey, who had been chairman of the board and chief executive officer, and the resignation from the board in December of John McKinlay, who has since been made chairman of the board of National Tea company. The other seven directors were reëlcted.

The election of McBain, who is 36 years old, marks another step in his rapid rise in the Field organization. Starting as a bill adjuster in the retail store in 1922, he was promoted rapidly. He served as secretary to several top executives, and in 1932 was appointed general manager of the Merchandise Mart.

Becomes Vice President.

Three years later McBain became a vice president, and in 1936 he took over the post of assistant general manager of the retail store. When Corley last December became chief executive officer upon the death of McKinsey, McBain was made first vice president in charge of all manufacturing operations.

Corley pointed out that all three divisions, retailing, manufacturing, and real estate, are now operating satisfactorily. Discussing operations in the manufacturing division, which he termed "our largest problem," he said orders received so far this year have exceeded the volume for the corresponding 1937 period. He added, however, that this was largely explained by the fact that the backlog of manufacturing orders at the beginning of 1937 was about $7,000,000, the largest in years, compared with a backlog of only $2,500,000 at the start of this year.

Will Reorganize Manufacturing.

Corley said plans for drastic reorganization of manufacturing operations are contemplated by the management. These include elimination of unprofitable manufacturing units and establishment of a more conservative policy in the purchase of raw materials in an effort to eliminate inventory losses.

In the second half of 1937, heavy inventory markdowns had to be made because of severe price declines in cotton, silk, and wool, in which commodities the company had heavy commitments.

In answer to a stockholder's question about more definite plans for reorganization of manufacturing units, Corley said plans were still too tentative to divulge further information.

Mart Operations Improved.

Results of the Merchandise Mart, principal real estate interest of the company, for the first two months of 1938 were more satisfactory than for the corresponding 1937 period, Corley announced. He pointed out that the mart is now more than 78 per cent leased, of which only 11 per cent is by Marshall Field & Co. The real estate divisio nin 1937, Corley said, had its best year since its establishment as a separate unit.

At the directors' meeting following the stockholders' meeting, all officers were reëlected. Frederick R. Atcheson and Earl L. Brown were appointed assistant controlers. At the stockholders' and board meetings, all directors except one were present.

Argentine Trade Falls; May Seek Foreign Loan

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, April 8.—The Buenos Aires Herald, on its financial pages, today discusses the possibility and advisability of the Argentina government negotiating a loan in London or New York in view of the probable adverse trade balance and in an effort to arrest depreciation of the peso. Minister of Finance Groppo has sent a note to his cabinet colleagues urging drastic economy in the preparation of budget estimates for next year.

Department Store Sales Are Lower than Year Ago

Sales of approximately 250 department stores, located in all sections of the country, in the week ended April 2 showed a decline of 2 per cent from sales in the corresponding 1937 week, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. For the four weeks ended April 2, 1938, sales showed a 13 per cent decline from the like 1937 period.

Spending Plan Primes Stock Market Pump

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 8.—Many stocks shot up 1 to 5 points today as traders bought more freely. Observers said that prospects of a big spending program by the government was the principal influence. Underlying the fresh demand were hopes of improved business. Sales totaled 828,290 shares.

A large part of the transactions came in the first hour when 330,000 shares moved, equaling Thursday's total turnover. The bulk of the advance was made in that period. Prices moved off from their tops during midday, but the tone strengthened toward the close and the final prices were near the best.

U. S. Steel Is Active.

United States Steel common was the most active issue and rose 1⅝ points. Bethlehem, Republic, Crucible, National, and Youngstown added 1½ to 2¾ points.

Coppers were well taken at higher prices. Anaconda, International Nickel, and Kennecott registered advances of nearly two points. American Smelting advanced 2¼ points. Less active coppers gained one point or more.

Westinghouse was high scorer in the electric equipments, advancing 4¼ points. General Electric rose 2⅝ points on good demand. Motors received their share of attention, with Chrysler, General Motors, and Yellow Truck in that order among the ten most active issues. Chrysler climbed 2⅝, General Motors 1⅝, and Yellow Truck 1.

Farm implement shares made some of the widest gains. Case rose 4½, International Harvester 3⅝, Allis 2⅝, and Deere 1⅝.

Carrier Shares Strong.

Carrier stocks shared in the advance despite the drop in car loadings. Santa Fe, up 1⅞, and Union Pacific, up 3 points, were outstanding. American Telephone and Telegraph pushed forward 3⅝ points. Western Union rose 1¼ points.

Chemicals were a buoyant group, paced by Allied, up 5 and du Pont, up 4¾. In the aviations, Douglas soared 2⅝ points, closely followed by Boeing, up 1⅞ and United Aircraft, up 1½. Wright Aeronautical attracted attention by running up 8 points in improved trading.

Oils came to the fore for a time, Standard of New Jersey and Texas corporation adding 2¼ and 2 points, respectively. In the mail orders, Sears, Roebuck and Montgomery Ward gained more than 2 points.

Better prospects for the building industry found reflection in the resumption of demand for building shares. Johns Manville vaulted 4¼ points and U. S. Gypsum 3¼. Rubber issues advanced up to 1½ points, with U. S. Rubber showing the way.

COURT TO WEIGH LONDON LLOYD'S STATUS IN STATE

Springfield, Ill., April 8.—[Special.]—A motion to quash a quo warranto proceeding brought by seventeen domestic, surety, and casualty companies questioning the right of London Lloyd's to operate in Illinois was taken under advisement here today by Circuit Judge Victor Hemphill.

The suit, filed Feb. 28, in effect seeks to nullify a relicensing order issued on Dec. 28, 1937, in favor of London Lloyd's by Ernest Palmer, state director of insurance. The suit names as defendants between 1,800 and 1,900 English subjects who are underwriters for London Lloyd's.

The defendants were represented at the hearing by David J. Kadyk, Chicago, a former assistant attorney general. He contended the defendants had not been properly served with a summons. The service was made on Palmer, who the plaintiffs allege, holds a power of attorney for London Lloyd's in Illinois.

Senate Clears Decks to Pass Tax Relief Bill

BY CHESLY MANLY.

Washington, D. C., April 8.—[Special.]—The senate drive for business tax relief legislation, which began yesterday in an unprecedented burst of speed, hit a snag today on the controversial issue of processing taxes. However, a unanimous consent agreement obtained by Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], chairman of the finance committee, assures passage of the bill to relieve business from destructive taxation tomorrow afternoon.

The senate already has approved all the main provisions of the finance committee's tax revision measure, including the amendment abolishing the punitive tax on undistributed corporation profits in favor of a flat 18 per cent corporation income tax and the amendment transforming the capital gains and losses tax so that taxpayers will not have to pay more than a flat 15 per cent on gains from assets held more than 18 months.

Schedule Hour for Vote.

The unanimous consent agreement provides for a vote not later than 1 p. m. tomorrow on the amendment of Senator James P. Pope [D., Idaho] to attach a $212,000,000 system of processing taxes on wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco and rice to the business tax relief bill.

After that amendment is disposed of, the senate is expected to make short shrift of a series of amendments by Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rad., Wis.] to broaden the income tax base by decreasing personal exemptions, to increase the normal individual income tax from 4 to 6 per cent, and to start surtaxes at $3,000 instead of $4,000 and step up the rates in brackets up to $50,000.

The processing taxes proposed by the Pope amendment, which is favored by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace but not by President Roosevelt in an election year, would yield approximately half the revenue exacted under the processing levies of the old agricultural adjustment act. They are intended to provide bounties for farmers in addition to the present subsidies of $500,000,000 made under the soil conservation act.

Admits Consumer Burden.

Pope explained that the taxes would be imposed on the manufactured articles but admitted that the consumers would bear the burden. The rates on cotton would vary from ⅓ cent a pound on the lowest grade of cotton yarn to 6 cents a pound. On wheat the rates would vary from .3 of a cent a pound on the cheaper grades of flour to .5 of a cent on the higher grades. On corn the rates would vary from .06 of a cent a pound on the cheaper products to .33 of a cent a pound on the higher priced products.

The millers' national federation estimated that the proposed rates for wheat alone would amount to a tax of $100,000,000 a year on the consumer of flour and bread.

Erase Higher Liquor Tax.

The senate, on a voice vote, sustained the committee's action in eliminating the house provision increasing the excise tax on liquor from $2.00 to $2.25 a gallon. The increase was estimated to produce about $20,000,000 a year.

On a roll call vote of 50 to 28, the senate sustained the committee in eliminating the present tax on commodity sales for future delivery, which averages around $5,000,000 a year. The present tax is three cents for each $100 on future sales transactions, and the house reduced the rate to one cent.

An amendment by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge [R., Mass.], to decrease the pay roll taxes for old age benefits under the social security act was rejected by a vote of 61 to 13.

J. C. Penney March Sales Decrease 14 Per Cent

The J. C. Penney company yesterday reported that its sales last month amounted to $17,042,635, a decrease of 14 per cent from $19,831,612 in March, 1937. Sales in the first three months totaled $45,743,568, or 8½ per cent less than the $50,002,247 in the first quarter of last year.

Roosevelt Approves Bill to Regulate Wool Trading

CHICAGO HEIGHTS GETS BIG FERTILIZER PLANT; WILL COST $200,000

Work has been started on a $200,000 fertilizer plant for the International Agricultural corporation at 16th and State streets, Chicago Heights, it was announced yesterday. The company, which has plants in more than twenty cities, is a newcomer to the Chicago district. About seventy-five persons will be given employment in the new plant.

The Austin company, Cleveland, is building the plant which is to be completed by June 1 to enable International Agricultural to be in production by the middle of June so as to share in this year's business. The company makes chemical fertilizer in which phosphate is one of the principal ingredients.

The plant will measure approximately 260 by 240 feet. A feature is the all-welded design which provides for conveyors in the roof structure. An overhead tramway, supported on and extending from the roof trusses, will function as a conveyor track.

EASTER RETAIL TRADE NIPPED BY WINTRY BLASTS

New York, April 8.—[Special.]—With consumers forced by unseasonable weather to defer Easter shopping, retail trade was in irregular volume throughout the country this week, but the losses from the comparable week of 1937 were reduced somewhat, Dun & Bradstreet, reported today.

"Wholesale volume," continued the credit agency's review, "expanded unevenly as merchants acquired final stocks for the Easter period. Industrial production floundered without definite direction, although divisions which increased operations were somewhat in the ascendancy. Developments capable of stemming the downward direction of the leading industrial indices were still absent."

Such little improvement in retail sales as was recorded was provided largely by movement of men's and women's apparel, it was said.

STOCK EXCHANGE OPPOSES "MOP" SHARE DELISTING

Washington, D. C., April 8.—(AP)—The New York Stock exchange committee on the stock list urged the securities commission today not to remove or suspend stocks of Missouri Pacific Railroad company from the exchange. A letter to this effect was introduced into evidence at the commission's hearing to determine whether $153,000,000 of common and preferred stocks of the Missouri Pacific should be suspended from trading.

The commission has charged that the Missouri Pacific, in a registration statement, failed to disclose a liability of about $15,000,000.

The exchange asserted that suspension of trade in the stocks would impose a hardship and possible loss on the stockholders who are innocent of wrong doing.

Rail Unions Promise Fight on Wage Cuts

Wage reductions will be opposed by the seven union organizations belonging to the railway employés department of the American Federation of Labor, B. M. Jewell, president, announced yesterday at the conclusion of the ninth annual convention of the association at the Morrison hotel. Jewell said the 400 delegates to the convention passed a resolution pledging support to the Railway Labor Executives' association in the latter's statement that railroad labor will not accept either a deduction or reduction in wages.

B. M. Jewell.

J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, said in Washington on Thursday that the railroad managements hoped to work out their problem without any wage cuts, but indicated that such action might have to be taken in view of the roads' serious financial plight.

Urge Limiting Security Yield.

The seven unions, which are said to have 400,000 members, recommended that holders of railroad bonds be forced to accept a maximum of 3 per cent interest.

In a letter to their executive council the resolutions committee of the unions set forth its position, declaring that railroad workers, especially since 1920, have been called upon to make sacrifices for the purposes of meeting the financial difficulties of the railroad industry.

"We call your attention to the drastic reduction in forces from 2,022,832 employed in 1920 to 969,000 in 1938," the committee said. "In addition, the time of the workers also has been greatly reduced in 1938."

Urge Law Cutting Interest.

The committee recommended that a plan be submitted to congress providing for a law to permit railroad managements to retire all outstanding bonds immediately at their present market value and to issue new bonds at an interest rate of not more than 3 per cent. It was suggested that the Reconstruction Finance corporation be provided with sufficient money to take up any railroad bonds which present bondholders refused to exchange into 3 per cent securities.

The unions went on record as favoring federal railroad unemployment compensation, two weeks' vacation with pay, and adequate sick relief systems, reaffirmed support for a six hour day with no reduction in pay, and approved in principle proposals now before congress providing for maximum hours and minimum wages. They reëlected Jewell as president and J. M. Burns as secretary and treasurer.

Columbia Gas Common Stock Dividend Is Stopped by SEC

Washington, D. C., April 8.—(AP)—The securities and exchange commission today denied Columbia Gas and Electric corporation permission to declare and pay common stock dividends, but allowed it to pay certain other dividends on preferred stocks. It was the first major ruling of this type.

The commission said it acted to protect the financial integrity of the company, to safeguard working capital of subsidiaries and "to prevent the payment of dividends out of capital or unearned surplus." It declared that a decline of about $54,000,000 in the company's surplus since its organization in 1926 was due largely to the fact the company "has paid out in dividends an amount in excess of its earnings."

Would Exhaust Surplus.

"It can readily be seen that if there is not a material increase in earnings and if the management continues its present rate of dividend payments, a time will come when the company's entire surplus will be exhausted," the commission said.

Columbia Gas, a $700,000,000 registered holding company, owns securities in subsidiary operating companies in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland, Indiana, and Kentucky.

It was announced the commission's order would contain the following provisions:

1. The company's action in charging preferred and preference stock dividends, paid on Feb. 15, 1938, to "surplus at Dec. 31, 1937" will be approved, on condition that an equal amount be restored to the surplus account out of the first earnings accumulated after Dec. 31, 1937.

Makes Other Provisions.

2. The declaration, payment, and charge to "surplus at Dec. 31, 1937" of the preferred and preference dividends payable on May 15, 1938, will be approved, on condition that an equal amount be restored to the surplus account out of the first earnings accumulated after Dec. 31, 1937.

3. An application with respect to the declaration and payment of common dividends will be denied.

4. The commission's order "will reserve jurisdiction" for the purpose of subsequently determining the "propriety" of payments of dividends on the preferred and preference stocks, payable Aug. 15 and Nov. 15, 1938.

ROOSEVELT HITS GUARANTEE IDEA FOR RAIL BONDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 7.—President Roosevelt today indicated his opposition to the suggestion that the government guarantee the bonds of railroads undertaking reorganizations and to government operation of the nation's carriers.

The suggestion that the government guarantee the bonds which might be issued as a result of reorganization is among the many which have been placed upon the President's desk as he is contemplating the text of his special message to congress looking toward rehabilitation of the financially ailing industry.

Opposes Government Operation.

Mr. Roosevelt recalled that he had previously expressed opposition to government operation of railroads. He added that he was still opposed and always would be opposed to such operation. At his conference last Tuesday he expressed opposition to federal subsidies to railroads on the ground that such action would encourage similar demands from other industries.

Asked about the possibility of guaranteeing bonds at his press conference, the President replied with another question. He asked why should the government assume such an obligation. He was told that such assumption by the federal government would protect insurance companies and banks. He said he supposed there is a lot of loose talk about protecting insurance companies and banks.

Discusses Security Writedown.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Roosevelt continued, insurance companies and banks write down securities that decrease in value on their balance sheets. He recalled that when the market value of insurance company securities was below actual value in the depression of the early 30's the insurance commissioners of the various states allowed a listing based on actual value.

This process, the President said, was carried through 1931 and 1932. The companies went back to market values in 1933. By and large, he said, trustees and people in fiduciary capacity as a general proposition value their assets, except in great emergencies such as existed in 1931 and 1932, at market value rather than at par.

Confers with Rail Leader.

The President held his second conference within 24 hours with John J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, on the recommendations Mr. Roosevelt will make for the relief of the industry in his special message to congress.

Pelley reiterated his opposition to the unpublished report of three interstate commerce commissioners, compiled at the direction of the President, as being too long range in character. He asserted that the railroads need cash immediately and must get it through higher rates, lower wages or consolidations.

At the White House it was expected that the message will go to congress next week. It is believed that the message will follow rather closely to the suggestions contained in the report of the I. C. C. members.

SUPERHIGHWAY MONEY ALLOTED BY ROOSEVELT

Washington, D. C., April 8.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today approved an allotment by the Works Progress administration of $24,031,863 for construction of a superhighway in Pennsylvania, extending from Harrisburg to Pittsburgh.

The federal allotment, supplementing a local contribution of $29,483,193 by the Pennsylvania turnpike commission, was recommended more than a week ago by WPA officials here, and now awaits only the final approval of the controler general.

The new superhighway, the first project of the kind to receive a WPA allotment, will afford opportunity for employment to between 14,000 and 16,000 WPA workers, officials said today. Comprising four trafic lanes, it will follow an old railroad right of way between the two cities.

AIR CONDITIONING CONTRACTS GAIN DURING MARCH

Thirty-nine air conditioning contracts were closed in Chicago last month, or more than twice the number reported in February, the Commonwealth Edison company reported yesterday. Forty-eight contracts were closed in March, 1937, the highest on record.

Capacity of last month's contracts totaled 596 horse power, compared with 399 horse power in February, 1938, and an all-time record of 2,171 horse power in March, 1937.

Bond List's Value Falls $1,414,475,000 in March

New York, April 8.—(AP)—The decline in the bond market during March cut the value of issues listed on the New York Stock exchange by $1,414,475,000, the exchange's monthly compilation disclosed today. As of April 1 the 1,373 bond issues had an aggregate market value of $41,450,248,811, against $42,854,724,055 on March 1. Average price was 85.71, compared with 89.48.

Taking Time Out

Whitney Tells SEC of Loans Before Failure

New York, April 8.—[Special.]—Testifying at a public hearing of the Securities and Exchange commission today, Richard Whitney, expelled former New York Stock exchange head who faces sentence for grand larceny, revealed his desperate attempts just before his brokerage firm collapsed to borrow anything he could get from friends and business acquaintances.

He succeeded in obtaining a number of unsecured cash loans ranging up to $100,000 from fellow brokers during January, February and the first few days of March, this year, it was disclosed, and nearly all these loans were never repaid. Others to whom he appealed for help turned him down, politely or flatly.

Large Loans Still Unpaid.

$10,000 from J. B. Mabon of Mabon & Co., brokers.

Whitney also acknowledged that he had accepted a $650,000 loan from his brother and then had broken the understanding upon which the loan had been tendered.

Plight Worries Brother.

Whitney, whose Wall street brokerage house failed on March 8 in a spectacular collapse, testified that his brother, George Whitney, began to be concerned as early as November, 1936, about the presence in the Whitney firms portfolio of securities borrowed without collateral.

"He desired to know," the witness said hesitantly, "how much would be required to remove these securities and the figure of $650,000 was set upon. He felt it would be very much better [for the Whitney firm] to have cash and not to have such loans from individuals."

Then, Whitney went on, George Whitney came forward in January of 1937 with $650,000—part of nearly $3,000,000 he advanced altogether—with the understanding that the company return the borrowed securities at once. But, instead of immediately returning them, the bankrupt broker conceded, he had continued to use most of them.

"It was understood," he said, "that the securities should be removed."

Others from Whom He Got Loans.

In addition to these loans, Whitney told of hundreds of thousands of dollars more in cash borrowed in earlier years on the security of his name alone from such potent figures as George F. Baker, president of the First National bank; the late Charles Hayden of Hayden, Stone & Co.; Marshall Field [$50,000, since repaid], and Harold S. Vanderbilt. These loans were nearly all repaid.

The hearing also put on record again Whitney's heavy borrowing of securities from friends.

The cash and securities for the loans, Whitney said, all went into the funds of his firm. But all the time Whitney was borrowing from the firm for his private interests in Florida and his speculations in Distilled Liquors corporation stock.

"You must remember that this money was borrowed from very old friends of mine who had a certain trust in my integrity," he said. In the negotiations for the loans, he said, "there was never any discussion regarding the solvency or insolvency of my firm. It was taken for granted that I or the firm was good for any amount I wanted."

Says Firm Showed Profit.

According to Whitney's testimony, had he confined himself to his firm's brokerage business, he would not have failed. Asked if his firm showed a general net profit at the end of last year, he answered:

"As shown by the books—and I have every reason to believe them correct—there was a net profit of $ 94,000 at the end of 1937. Prior to 1937, the net was usually greater. Never at the end of any fiscal year was there a net loss."

The SEC inquiry, the first it has held publicly, was one of the last legal or quasi-legal proceedings Whitney is likely to face. He is to be sentenced Monday in Criminal court upon two pleas of guilty to grand larceny—an offense for which the maximum penalty is ten years imprisonment.

BRITISH MILLERS BUY 53 MILLION BUSHELS WHEAT

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, April 8.—Apparently acting on the advice of their government British millers bought 53,000,000 bushels of wheat within three hours today in one of the biggest transactions ever known in peace time in this country.

The purchases are believed to be a result of discussions between Sir Thomas Inskip, minister for coördination of defense, and directors of leading British flour milling companies. Sir Thomas is said to have warned the millers of the need of adequate food storage facilities in time of war and urged them to replenish their stocks of grain without further delay.

Buys 24 Shiploads.

Accordingly twenty-four shiploads, totaling 150,000 tons of wheat, were taken by British buyers between midday and 3 p. m. Eight were Australian, five Argentine, nine American, and two Canadian cargoes. All except the Canadian cargoes are either already afloat or due to be shipped before the end of next month.

Such a turnover is extremely rare. It was the more remarkable in that the price of wheat has been falling recently and big buying orders are seldom placed on a falling market. The transaction was handled so skillfully that prices in general rose only 2 or 3 cents a bushel.

Firms That Handled Deals.

The major part of the purchases was made by the great flour milling firm of Joseph Banks, Ltd., which is believed to be especially close to the government. Two cargoes were taken by Spillers, Ltd., and four by the Cooperative society, which plays an important part in the British flour milling industry.

There have been rumors for a week that, because of drouth conditions, Italy was about to enter the wheat buying market on a large scale. It is possible that British millers were trying today to forestall Italy.

WHEAT PRICES CLIMB

Wheat prices rose sharply in leading markets of the world yesterday on European buying and fears that freezing temperatures in the American winter wheat belt and continued drouth in southern Europe will reduce world production this year.

Stimulated by heavy European purchases of cash wheat in Chicago and other markets, wheat futures advanced 1⅝ to 3¼ cents a bushel in North American markets. Gains in Liverpool ranged from 3½ to 4⅛ cents a bushel.

	Yesterday.	Thursday.	Yr.ago.
Wheat	$ .85	$ .82¾	$1.39
Corn	.60⅝	.59⅛	1.30¼
Oats	.28⅝	.27⅝	.49¾
Rye	.61	.59	1.14⅝
Soy beans	.94	.93	1.72½

Crop News Unfavorable.

The stampede to buy grain for export and the sharp rise in futures occurred as reports were received that temperatures as low as 20 degrees had been recorded in the Texas panhandle area. Reports from important southern European producing sections showed no relief from drouth conditions there. However, messages received in Chicago from the grain areas indicated that it was entirely a matter of guesswork at present whether the crop had actually been damaged.

Corn and other grains were affected by the strength in wheat. Corn and oats closed with gains of ⅝ to ¾ cent a bushel; rye rose ⅞ to 2 cents, and soy beans advanced ¾ to 1¼ cents.

ARGENTINE CORN ESTIMATE.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, April 8.—(AP)—The first official forecast of corn production for the 1937-'38 season today calculated the yield as 4,500,000 tons, a 50.8 per cent decrease from Argentina's total last year. The report attributed the decrease to an exceptional drouth in the corn areas which lasted until February.

FEDERAL LOANS ON COTTON TOTAL OVER 231 MILLION

Washington, D. C., April 8.—[Special.]—The Commodity Credit corporation announced today that it had loaned $231,739,729 on 5,303,913 bales of cotton, including $5,974,415 on 143,368 bales which had been paid and the cotton released.

A disbursement of $19,402,962 in loans on 40,092,901 bushels of corn, an average loan of 48.4 cents a bushel, also was reported. By states, the number of bushels on which loans were made were: Illinois, 6,845,216; Indiana, 974,498; Iowa, 23,296,977; Kansas, 24,143; Minnesota, 3,339,916; Nebraska, 3,172,523; Ohio, 87,671, and Wisconsin, 2,786.

New York Bonds.

New York, April 8.—(AP)—Bonds recovered today from their midweek setback. Rails gave the market a spirited leadership by recording many gains running from 1 to around 3 points. Utility and industrail loans of speculative rating kept pace with the movement, but some low yield issues tended to soften. United States government issues closed 1-32d to 6-32ds lower.

Momentum was aided by a broad upturn in stocks, but it appeared that second grade bonds generally were equally responsive to the inflationary implications read into Washington reports pointing to possible resumption of large scale government spending to stimulate business. Prominence of the rails was taken as an indication holders drew some encouragement from the many proposals for carrier aid which came out of Washington rail conferences this week.

Some of the larger gainers were Southern Pacific 4½s, 1969, 2¼; Illinois Central 4¾s, 1¾; International Telephone 5s, 2; Western Union 5s, 1960, 1¼; Nickel Plate 4½s, 2¾; Southern Railway 4s, 2½, and Allis Chalmers 4s, 1½. Italian loans rose fractions to around 1½ points. Cuban 5½s dipped 2.

Chicago Stocks.

Prices on the Chicago Stock exchange were higher yesterday, although trading continued light at 19,000 shares. THE TRIBUNE average of 20 stocks advanced to 8.31 from 8.03 Thursday.

Chicago corporation, the volume leader with sales of 3,100 shares, eased ⅛ to close at 1⅝. Middle West climbed ⅝ to 5, and Cities Service moved up ⅛ to 1⅛. Borg-Warner gained 1½ at 19¾. Zenith Radio advanced a full point to 11⅞.

Bank Stocks.

First National bank stock advanced $5 a share yesterday to $170 bid, $174 asked. Other Chicago bank stocks were unchanged from Thursday except Continental Illinois National which moved up $2.50 a share to $58.50 bid, $60.50 asked. One dealer quoted City National shares at $123 bid, $127 asked, up $2, but another listed them unchanged to $121 bid, $126 asked.

U. S. TREASURY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 8.—[Special.]—The following is a statement of the condition of the United States treasury on April 6, 1938:

ELECTRIC GOODS MAKER REPORTS LOSS FOR 1937

Caused by Sales Decline Late in Year.

Electric Household Utilities corporation had a 1937 net loss of $312,156, the annual report issued yesterday by E. N. Hurley Jr., president, showed. In 1936 it had profit of $193,581, or 49 cents a common share.

The company's loss included "special charges" of $332,346, consisting of $241,537 provided for obsolete inventories, scrapped parts, and extraordinary servicing charges, and $90,809 writeoff of extraordinary patent expenditures.

"Sales were maintained at quite a satisfactory level until the middle of October, when there was a marked recession in business," Hurley said. "In spite of economies and drastic reduction in expenses the lower volume of sales was inadequate to absorb the costs of doing business and operating losses were recorded during the late months of the year."

Strike Hurts Business.

A sitdown strike in the spring of 1937 and wage increases adding $60,000 to pay rolls in the last nine months contributed to the unsatisfactory showing, Hurley said.

Allied Stores corporation, operating a nation-wide chain of department stores, reported lower earnings for the quarter and fiscal year ended Jan. 31. The quarter's profit, before federal income taxes, was $1,576,927, against $1,905,482 in the January quarter of 1937. In the 1937 fiscal year, net profit, before income taxes, amounted to $2,504,206, or 96 cents a common share, compared with $3,406,448, or $1.32 a share in the preceding fiscal year.

The report of Walter E. Heller & Co., instalment bankers of Chicago and New York, showed slightly higher earnings for the first quarter of this year. Net income in that period amounted to $119,965, equal after preferred dividends to 38 cents a common share on 245,473 shares, compared with $118,751, or 37 cents a share, on 243,742 shares in the corresponding quarter of 1937.

Gatineau Power Gains.

Gatineau Power company, in its annual report for 1937, showed net earnings after interest, depreciation, and income taxes, were $1,641,767, compared with $999,396 in 1936.

G. Gordon Gale, president, in his statement to stockholders, said: "If the amalgamation of Canadian Hydro-Electric Corporation, Ltd., with the company had been in effect for the entire year instead of only the last four months, the balance of consolidated net earnings would have amounted to $1,873,452."

Total operating revenue for the company and its subsidiaries amounted to $8,554,927, against $8,060,875 in the preceding year. Consolidated operating revenue and other income, less loss on exchange, totaled $8,680,996, compared with $8,115,564.

Soundview Pulp Company.

Soundview Pulp company in March had consolidated net profit of $61,028, or 10 cents a common share on 488,250 shares. This compared with February profit of $63,220, or 11 cents a share, and March, 1937, profit of $102,009, or 24 cents a common share on 418,500 shares. The company had net profit of $197,208, or 34 cents a share, against $238,495, or 56 cents a share, in the corresponding 1937 quarter.

The annual report of Abraham & Strauss, Inc., Brooklyn department store, showed an increase of 3.05 per cent in sales totaling $23,511,561 for the year ended on Jan. 31. The net profit for the year amounted to $802,546, equivalent, after dividends on the preferred stock, to $4.41 on each common share. Profit was $1,025,340, or $5.77 a common share, in the preceding fiscal year.

BUTTER AND EGGS ADVANCE; STORM CUTS RECEIPTS

Butter and egg futures advanced again yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange as snowstorms in the midwest area continued to hold up receipts. Trading interest was light, however.

Egg contracts moved ¼ to ⅝ cent a dozen higher, with May storage packs up the larger fraction at 18⅝ cents. Octobers closed ¼ cent higher at 20⅜ cents, and April contracts finished at 18¾, up ¼. Cash eggs were mostly steady, but lower grades lose ¼ cent. The government did not buy in Chicago, but took 1,500 dozens in New York. It was reported in trade circles that the government bought 252,000 dozen in the southwest on Thursday.

November butter closed at 26¾, up ⅛. Government purchases totaled 135,000 pounds of "extras," 124,000 pounds at 28¾ to 29 cents a pound in New York, and 11,000 pounds at 28 cents in Chicago.

IMPORTS OF GOLD IN WEEK INCREASE TO $53,224,817

Sterilization Likely to Be Resumed Soon.

Early resumption of gold sterilization by the treasury was indicated yesterday by commerce department reports showing that during the week ended April 1 the United States had imported $53,224,817 worth of foreign gold. The inflow was the largest for any week in more than six months.

Under a policy announced Feb. 14 the treasury will sterilize all gold in excess of $100,000,000 bought in any one quarter. It was understood that practically all of the imports last week would be credited to second quarter acquisitions, thus filling more than half of the total quota for the period.

Resumption of the sterilization program would mean that the treasure would again be placed in an inactive fund instead of issuing currency against it. Potential credit expansion is avoided by placing the imported metal in an inactive fund.

England Sells Most.

The imports during the week ended April 1 included $41,700,000 from England, $4,200,000 from Belgium, $4,400,000 from India, and $2,100,000 from Colombia. The inflow was attributed in part to the transfer of foreign capital to the United States for safe keeping because of the unsettled political and financial conditions in Europe.

Official treasury reports showed that only about $7,000,000 of the imported gold went into monetary stocks, indicating in the opinion of observers that the treasury's stabilization fund is increasing is reserves of gold. The regular Federal Reserve bank report for the week ended April 6, issued Thursday, showed an increase of $9,000,000 in monetary gold stocks.

Buy $700,000 Gold in Day.

Gold amounting to $700,000 was engaged in England yesterday for shipment to the United States.

The resignation of Premier Leon Blum had virtually no effect on French money in foreign exchange dealings yesterday. The French franc closed 0.00½ of a cent lower at 3.06 cents. At one stage of trading the franc registered small gains over the closing quotation Thursday.

Silver sagged 0.29 of a cent to 42.44 cents an ounce in London. The United States treasury again offered 43 cents an ounce for foreign silver.

FREIGHT TRAFIC SMALLEST SINCE HOLIDAY WEEK

Decline in Loadings Is More Than Seasonal.

Revenue freight car loadings of the nation's railroads in the week ended April 2 totaled only 523,489 cars, the Association of American Railroads announced yesterday.

This represents a decrease of 49,463 cars, or 8.6 per cent, from the preceding week and dropped the Dow-Jones loading index 6.4 points to 66.3, the lowest level in more than a year. The number of cars loaded was the smallest since the Washington's birthday holiday week, ended Feb. 26, in which there was one less day of business.

The more than seasonal drop was anticipated, at least to some extent, because of heavy shipments in the week ended March 26 to avoid the recent freight rate increase.

The loadings for the April 2 week were 197,740 cars, or 27.4 per cent, less than in the corresponding week last year and 90,092 cars, or 14.7 per cent, less than two years ago. In the March 26 week the decline was 24.3 per cent from year ago figures and 3.7 per cent from figures for 1936, when floods hampered the freight movement.

Less than carload merchandise and live stock were the only classifications of freight to show increases from the week of March 26, and live stock was the only gainer over last year. Major declines from the March 26 week were in miscellaneous freight, grain and coal. Coal shipments, however, showed a better comparison with year ago figures than in recent weeks.

Group Loadings Compared.

COTTON

Cotton futures rallied sharply yesterday on a combination of reports of increased government spending and strength in Liverpool and Bombay, India. Reports of heavy rains in the central belt and freezing weather over a large part of the cotton producing area contributed to the bullish sentiment.

Profit taking caused a slight reaction from the best prices of the day, but net gains on the Chicago Board of Trade were 0.11 to 0.17 cent a pound. Other American markets gained from 0.12 to 0.14 cent.

A better demand developed for textiles in New York, but the sales were not up to the present curtailed production by mills. Steadily increasing inventories were reported causing further shutdowns.

Spot cotton closed 10 to 15 cent higher, with New Orleans, 8.75 cents; New York, 8.55 cents, and Galveston and Houston, 8.35 cents a pound. Prices follow:
